HOOVER URGES SPEED ON U.S. REORGANIZING

Cites Savings Possible Through Reduction of Agencies.

AVOWS TAX BURDEN WOULD BE REDUCED

Early Approval of Army-Navy Consolidation Predicted After Message.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

In a new appeal to Congress to eliminate extravagance and waste in Federal administration, President Hoover yesterday urged early action on a bill to permit efficient reorganization of the entire executive branch of the Government.

He said such action would save many millions of dollars annually in directing Federal appropriations, reduce the present staggering burden of taxes and revitalize the entire administration machinery. He recalled that the matter has been before Congress many times during the last quarter century, suggesting that action should not be delayed longer.

"The need for reorganization is obvious," the President said in a special message to the Senate and House, the fourth he has sent to Congress on this subject since 1929.

Says Reduction Possible.

"Today the Government embraces from 150 to 200 separate units, depending upon the method of notation used. Governmental units when once set up have a tendency to grow, independently of other units. This leads to overlapping and waste. Moreover, there is a marked tendency to find new occupations when the initial duties are completed. The overlap and the number of agencies can be reduced."

Sketching the history of reorganization endeavors since President Taft first presented the matter to Congress in 1912, Mr. Hoover followed with a detailed account of the political consideration which have hertofore made congressional action impossible.

"We may frankly admit the practical difficulties of such reorganization. Not only to different factions of the Government fear such reorganization, but many associations and agencies throughout the country will be alarmed that the particular function to which they are devoted may in some fashion be curtailed. Proposals to the Congress of detailed

Senator's Brother Caught in Dry Net

Mrs. Caraway's Relative Is Accused of Operating Still on Farm.

Special to The Washington Post.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 17.—Walter E. Wyatt, a brother of Senator Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas, was arrested Wednesday at his home, in Humphreys County, Tenn., on a charge of violating the national prohibition law by United States Deputy Marshal S. F. Anderson.

A younger brother, George, is deputy sheriff of Humphreys County. According to Deputy Marshal Anderson a large moonshining outfit was discovered near Wyatt's house Neither admission nor denial of guilt was made by Wyatt following his arrest, the officer said. Wyatt was taken to Waverly, where he appeared before United States Commissioner Max Simpson, who set his bond at $1,000. Preliminary hearing will be held before Commissioner Simpson on Monday.

Wyatt had been seen by Federal officers working at the still in company with another man who has not been arrested yet, Marshal Anderson said.

Chicago Finances Get New Setback

Closing of City Hall and Schools Predicted Should Legislature Rest.

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Chicago's financial stock slumped sharply today and city officials predicted dolefully schools and city hall soon would be closed.

The reason was decision by the State Senate at Springfield to adjourn until April 19. Thus, action on the important Cook County tax fund-bills would be delayed two months.

The adjournment proposal, expected to be seconded tomorrow by the lower House, would leave legislators idle until after the primary elections of '32.

Auto Gunman Shoots At Northeast Resident

One Man Is in Hospital and Another Wounded in Road Affray.

A man is in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital with a bullet wound in his stomach, received, his two companions say, when they fought with two hold-up men on the Rockville pike between Rockville and Potomac.

Montgomery County police after an investigation declared that the seriously wounded man was found in a field 60 yards from the automobile and the pike and that there was blood inside the car. One of the man's companions also had a bullet wound through his wrist.

The man in Emergency Hospital is Charles Kriss, 234 F street northwest. The other wounded man is James Brown, of 463 G street northwest. The third man in the case is Stanley Selby, of 1334 E street southeast.

According to Brown and Selby, Kriss, whom they knew only slightly, met them in a restaurant at 704 Ninth street northwest yesterday and they decided to visit a girl in Potomac. They went to her home and found her out and were returning to Washington when at a point 2 miles from Rockville, the automobile in which they were riding ran out of gas.

The trio hailed down an automobile bearing two men, Montgomery County police were told. They said the two men pulled pistols and de-

Assassin Misses Mark; Another Suspect Held In Sniping Quiz.

A man was fired on by two men riding in an old roadster as he was standing on the lawn in front of his home in the Northeast section of the city. The shooting occurred about 9:30 o'clock last night. Police a few hours before had announced that they were holding another person for investigation in the slaying of Paul Riedel, Mount Pleasant street baker, and other shootings attributed to the mysterious "sniper."

The man fired on last night is J. Edward Rossiter, 32 years old, clerk in the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department. The shot, believed to have been aimed at him, was fired from a Model T Ford roadster, which drew close to the curb in front of Mr. Rossiter's home, 3005 Tenth street northeast.

After firing once at the Navy Department clerk, the roadster, bearing two men, continued north on Tenth street, and turned left into Irving. Three shots were heard a second after the car had turned the corner.

Mr. Rossiter's story of the shooting was corroborated by several witnesses, including G. M. Reese, a plainclothes policeman, who hurried to the scene when he saw the car and heard the shooting.

Mr. Rossiter said he was standing with his back to the curb when the shot was fired at him. He was cer-

GLASS WARNS OF ALIEN GOLD RAIDS ON U.S.

PROTECTION IS SEEN IN CREDIT EXPANSION

Way Is Cleared for Passage of Bill by Chamber, Probably Today.

(Associated Press.)

The credit expansion bill was advocated to the Senate yesterday as promising the dual accomplishment of forestalling threatened gold raids by foreign nations and instilling courage in American bankers and depositors.

Circled by an intent and attentive Senate, Carter Glass, of Virginia, former Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, expounded the measure for two hours and concluded a round of questioning with an assurance that the legislation would benefit the Nation "within ten minutes" by checking "hoarding" by "timid and frightened bankers."

He pointed to France as the most notable of nations threatening raids on the American gold supply. He said the conjecture was that France was threatening withdrawal of gold here for that country in an effort to influence America on the reparations and war debts problems.

U. S. Can Meet Demands.

The Virginian agreed with Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee and Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, that the United States could meet all the demands for gold that might be made, but he believed it best to be absolutely prepared for such a contingency by making the Nation's supplies of "free gold" available to the banks.

France, he said, is in a position now apparently to withdraw about $600,000,000. Other nations and foreign individuals have another $250,000,000 impounded in this country, he estimated.

The bill is intended to supply many banks with cash by easing the restrictions of the Federal Reserve System so that they can obtain money on paper not now eligible for rediscount. In addition the measure proposes that about $750,000,000 in "free gold" held by the Treasury be used to bulwark the Federal Reserve System.

Reserve Failure Denied.

Asserting that the Federal Reserve System had not fallen down in the economic crisis, Glass produced statistics to show that American bankers had failed to rediscount more than $8,000,000,000 of eligible securities in their banks today because of "cowardice" and a desire to keep "liquid" for emergencies.

"The trouble is," he asserted, pounding the desk, "the banks have

Blagden Clew At Odds With Kidnap Story

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Saratoga police today informed the State troopers that Harry H. Blagden, who disappeared at Lake Placid last Thursday and turned up in Cleveland Monday night saying he had been kidnapped, was believed to have been in Saratoga on Saturday night.

Norman Ross, a garageman, and Paul McGirr, a Saratoga clothier, reported that a man answering the wealthy sportsman's description drove into the Ross garage Saturday evening about 7 o'clock to have minor repairs made to an automobile (a 12-cylinder Cadillac).

They talked with the man for some time, and on Monday, when a paper with Blagden's photograph reached Saratoga, both immediately said the man they saw Saturday night was Blagden. They reported he was wearing a brown suit and a brown overcoat and police have been told that Blagden was wearing brown clothes when he disappeared. Cleveland police reported tonight he was wearing a brown suit and brown overcoat when he arrived there.

With the driver was another man, whom Ross and McGirr said they could not describe, as he did not leave the car. The driver wandered about the garage while repairs were made and talked unconcernedly on a variety of subjects, they told police.

The car bore New Jersey license plates, but neither man could remember the number.

PARIS TO HONOR WORLD POLICY, LAVAL ASSERTS

Pacts of His Regime Are to Stand, Despite Cabinet Fall.

RETIRING PREMIER PROUD OF RESULTS

Understandings With America, Britain and Germany Cited as Meritorious.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Paris, Feb. 17.—France will maintain the accomplishments of the last twelve months in international negotiations with the United States, Great Britain and Germany, despite overthrow of the cabinet, Premier Pierre Laval told the United Press tonight in discussing the government crisis.

The premier, who has resigned but is remaining in power until a new cabinet is formed, expressed the greatest satisfaction in regard to his government's achievements in the international field, and said there was a possibility he might be able to make a second visit to the United States.

"In quitting power after more than a year, I am happy and proud of three concrete accomplishments," Premier Laval said, in connection with indications that the next government will make a drastic swing from a center concentration to the left-wing.

Laval Cites Accomplishments.

"These are in reconciling the position of France on important world problems with the positions of Germany, the United States and Britain, with whom France must share the burden of international problems."

He referred to his visits to President Hoover, the reparations and tariff negotiations with Britain and efforts toward rapprochement with Germany.

"I feel the last year has done more toward the reconstruction of Europe and the world than the eleven previous postwar years," he said.

"But the burdens of government are heavy, and I am pleased to have a respite. I intend taking a complete rest in the country, although the occasion may permit a second voyage to the United States. In that event I hope to visit the Western agricultural States, but there is nothing definite.

"Franco-German rapprochement, which began with my visit to Berlin early last summer, will not be interrupted. It had progressed to a stage where four subcommissions are actively pursuing the solutions of problems determined upon in my accord with Chancellor Bruening.

Europe Feels Benefits.

"Europe already is feeling the benefits of this rapprochement, and I be-

5 Give Lives Voluntarily To Javanese Crater God

Batavia, Java, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Voluntary human sacrifice to the "crater god" is generally accepted here as the explanation for the disappearance of five Javanese who left three months ago led by a fanatical compatriot for the top of Merapi Volcano.

Today a searching party found five neatly rolled bundles of clothing at the rim of the crater. A rope dangled over the edge.

CONCERN IS FELT AS BOMB IMPAIRS 2 ZONE BUILDINGS

Incident Stirs Fear of Terror Reign in Settlement.

PEACE EFFORT IS INTENSIFIED

Tokyo Reply to League to Deny Violation of Obligations.

(Associated Press.)

The headquarters of one of the most important Japanese commercial institutions in Shanghai was badly damaged by a bomb this morning while diplomats in the city intensified their efforts for peace and military men intensified their preparations for war.

The bomb tore away the entrance to the firm of Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, one block from the famous Shanghai bund and in the heart of the business district of the International Settlement. One Chinese was killed.

The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency correspondent at Shanghai reported that an ultimatum had been delivered to the Chinese authorities at 9 a. m. today demanding that the Chinese army be withdrawn from the Shanghai front.

American Minister Nelson T. Johnson, associated with the British and French envoys, pursued his measures to bring the Chinese and Japanese together on a platform of conciliation.

Chinese Also Conferring.

Chinese leaders were conferring too and Japanese consular officials were understood to be more amenable than heretofore.

The exercise of their talents followed another night and day of artillery bombardment and machine gun firing along a front stretching from the ruined city of Chapei to suburban Kiangwan.

The Japanese military command marshaled what observers called the greatest aerial armada ever seen on Chinese soil and got ready for an offensive which it was said would be the most intensive aircraft engagement since the World War. The Chinese also were moving up planes from Canton.

Two British Sailors Die.

Two British sailors from H. M. S. Suffolk, wounded when shells fell on the Whangpoo River waterfront yesterday, died from their injuries.

American State Department officials in Washington admitted they had discussed with Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi the possibilities of danger arising from the landing of Japanese troops in the foreign colony at Shanghai, but indicated there was no intention of filing a formal protest.

Admiral Taylor, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, reported to his superiors that the Japanese had assured him there would be no more firing of shells into the American Marine sector of the settlement. Washington was disturbed by the killing of two British sailors from that cause.

The autonomous state of Manchuria will have a republican form of government, it was decided by Chinese leaders in Mukden, and will be ruled by a dictator—possibly by the former "Boy Emperor" Henry Pu-Yi. It will be known as "Ankuo," "Land of Peace" and its national flag will consist of the rising sun of Japan superimposed on the former Chinese five-barred flag. British government officials in London declined to comment

Russo-German War Seen By Trotzky if Nazis Win

New York, Feb. 17.—An assertion that Soviet Russia dare not intervene in Manchuria and fight Japan because the Soviets must keep their hands free to fight Germany if the Hitlerites came into power is made by Leon Trotzky in this week's Liberty.

Should the Hitlerites assume power in Germany, he says, "an inevitable war between Fascist Germany and the Soviet Republic," would result.

"There it would be really a question of life or death," the former Soviet commander in chief, now in exile, in Turkey, says.

"In itself," he says, "the Red Army would reveal a gigantic superiority over the present Japanese army. But over and above that, the operations would be carried on in a country deeply hostile to Japan and friendly to the Soviet Union. The latter could and would wage the war only as an ally of the Chinese people in their fight for national liberation."

U. S. TO HOLD JAPAN LIABLE FOR DAMAGE

Will Join British in Stand; Is Pleased With Action Taken by League.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Japanese liability for all personal and property damage effected by shell fire in the International Settlement at Shanghai will be insisted upon by the United States and Great Britain, it was learned here yesterday. Formal notice of this decision has not yet been served upon the Japanese government, however, either through Japanese Ambassador Debuchi here or through the American Ambassador at Tokyo, W. Cameron Forbes. The death of two British sailors yesterday from shellfire will afford the first test case, it was believed here in international legal circles.

The subject has been informally reviewed by Secretary of State Stimson, himself a legal authority of accepted reputation, and his Assistant Secretary, James Grafton Rogers, jr. The exchanges carried on so far between the State Department and the British government by means of transatlantic telephone messages and visits from Sir Ronald Lindsay have im-

Free Hall in Portland Is Denied Father Cox

Portland, Oreg., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The city council today denied the free use of the civic auditorium to the Rev. James Cox, Pittsburgh pastor, who recently led an army of unemployed to Washington.

H. H. Stallard, officer of the Farmer-Labor party in Oregon, asked the city to permit use of the auditorium without charge. Stallard said Father Cox "is not a radical" and that he is financed on his tour by the people of Pittsburgh "who realize it will impress upon Congress the necessity for relief."

FURTHER GAS RATE SLASH SEEN LIKELY

Lambert Points Out Saving of $642,000 Effected in 18 Months.

That approximately $244,000 instead of $211,000 will be saved customers of the Washington Gas Light Co. this year under reduced schedules on the basis of last year's consumption appeared likely at the conclusion of the first day's session of a public hearing conducted by the Public Utilities Commission late yesterday. Indications also were that this $33,000 additional saving would be applied to domestic rather than commercial rate reductions.

In his opening statement to the commission, Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for the gas company, pointed out that rate reductions in the past eight-

Policeman's Auto Kills Man; Inquest Tomorrow

An inquest will be held tomorrow into the death of John D. Connelly, 45 years old, of 715 F street southwest, who died in Casualty Hospital about three hours after he was struck down by an automobile operated by Policeman Joseph D. Coughlin, 58 years old, of Hyattsville. Connelly suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Policeman Coughlin had just gone off duty at the Eleventh Precinct Station at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning when he ran into the pedestrian on the Bladensburg road 200 yards south of the District line. He said Mr. Connelly stepped from behind two parked trucks into the path of his machine. Coughlin was released in custody of his commanding officer, pending the inquest.

NEELY STARTS MOVE TO HELP ROOSEVELT

Senator Heads Call for Session to Line Up West Virginia Delegates.

(Associated Press.)

A move to line up solidly for Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, the delegation from West Virginia to the Democratic National convention was begun here yesterday by leading Democrats of the State.

Senator Neely and the two Democratic members of the House from the State—Representatives Joe L. Smith and Lynn G. Hornor—joined the two national committee representatives and the State chairman in a message to Huntington Democrats urging an organization meeting Saturday night to rally the forces behind Roosevelt.

The message, addressed to J. H. Long and George I. Neal, of Huntington, said:

"We are convinced that an overwhelming majority of the Democrats of West Virginia favor the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for President.

"We believe that his candidacy deserves a public indorsement by West Virginians. Therefore, we very respectfully suggest that a meeting be held in Huntington next Saturday night and that the Democracy of the entire State and all others friendly to the Roosevelt movement be invited to attend and organize in order most effectively to support the candidacy of the next President of the United States."

Besides Neely, Smith and Hornor, the telegram was signed by Herbert Fitzpatrick, national committeeman; Mrs. Rose Burchinal, national committeewoman, and Andrew Edmiston, chairman of the State committee.

The primary will be held in West Virginia, the second Tuesday in May.

DE VALERA'S PARTY LEADS IN IRISH VOTE

Fianna Fail Leader Is Near Regaining Power; Cosgrave Is Reelected.

Dublin, Ireland (Thursday), Feb. 18 (U.P.).—The long struggle of Eamon de Valera, fiery Fianna Fail party leader, for power to tear Ireland completely away from the British crown, was nearer realization than ever before today as returns from the Free State election disclosed a close race between the administration and opposition candidates.

At 3:20 a. m. the returns gave De Valera's opposition party a slightly increased margin over President William T. Cosgrave's candidates for election to the lower house (Dail).

The returns were:
Fianna Fail, 15.
Administration, 12.
Independents, 6.
Labor, 2.

There are 153 seats in the Dail, of which President Cosgrave formerly controlled 65 as compared to 56 for Mr. De Valera.

Both Mr. De Valera in County Clare and President Cosgrave in Cork were overwhelmingly reelected. Lord Mayor Alfred Byrne, Independent, and Gen. Richard J. Mulcahy, minister of

Levine Is Arrested In Year-Old Case

Flier Accused of Grand Larceny in Possession of Lost Stock.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Charles A. Levine, passenger of Clarence Chamberlin on an airplane flight from New York to Germany four years ago, was booked by police on a charge of grand larceny today.

He was booked after detectives found him at Harbor Sanitarium, where he is recovering from a broken leg. They permitted him to remain there while they went to the police station to file the charge against him.

Levine, who is staying at the hospital under the name of Jaffe, has been sought by the district attorney's office for more than a year for questioning about the source of 100 shares of American Telephone & Telegraph stock that was among collateral he put up for a $25,000 bank loan in May, 1930. The stock had disappeared several months before that while being taken by a messenger in the Wall street section from one point to another.

Murray to Ignore Truck Injunction

Governor Hints He Might Call Out Troops in Motor Line Row.

Oklahoma City, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Declaring he would ignore a Federal court injunction issued to prevent him and the State of Oklahoma from forcing a motor truck line to obey State laws regulating size and weight of trucks, Gov. W. H. Murray today gave a hint of military action in the matter.

He said he would not file an answer to the Federal court suit brought by the Roadways Express, Inc., and that none of the boards under his direct control would reply to the suit.

In a letter to Edgar S. Vaught, United States district judge, the governor declared no court except the Supreme Court of the United States had the power to interfere in a case in which the State is a party, contended Judge Vaught overstepped his authority in issuing the injunction, and quoted sections of the Constitution which authorize the governor to call out the National Guard.

Offer to Sell Labrador Is Rejected by Canada

Ottawa, Ontario, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The government of Newfoundland, acting under an order-in-council, dated October 3, made a formal offer to the government of Canada to sell "the whole of the Labrador Territory of the Dominion of Newfoundland," subject to certain conditions.

The offer was refused by Prime Minister Bennett, he disclosed in the House of Commons today, because of "present economic and financial conditions."

Maj. Gen. Fries Indorses Washington Essay Contest

Retired Chief of Army Chemical Service and Leader in Patriotic Work Commends Post's Competition as Aid to Citizenship.

Maj. Gen. Amos G. Fries, U. S. A., retired, leader in patriotic organizations since his retirement as chief of the Army Chemical Service several years ago, expressed his approval of The Post George Washington Essay Contest in unqualified terms last night.

"I feel," said Gen. Fries, "that in encouraging the boys and girls of Washington and nearby Virginia and Maryland in the study of the life of George Washington in order that they may write a prize-winning essay The Post has contributed greatly to the progress and patriotic trend of the National Capital. Boys and girls with active minds like to find out about things. This natural curiosity when turned to worth-while things can be an asset in a community."

Several children of Gen. and Mrs. Fries, who are pupils in Washington schools, are preparing to enter the contest, it is said. Their daughters have been prominent in Girl Scout activities here and at one time Elizabeth Fries—now Mrs. Henney, wife of an Army officer—was a member of a troop of Girl Scouts commanded by Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

"Details of the life of Washington will impress the youth of our city and the territory covered in the contest," continued Gen. Fries, "with the value of patriotic deeds and love of country. They must realize as they learn more of Washington that it was the desire to protect the rights of his fellow-citizens and to preserve the benefits of the land for all the people that inspired Washington to lead great armies to victory for the liberty he so truly loved.

"Washington was a good citizen and a brave and courageous soldier. He was always ready to stand for the right. That is a good example for our boys and girls, because they see that such service to one's country is demanded of all true citizens. In a

29,930 Idle Get Work As Job Campaign Gains

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Jobs by the thousands for unemployed men continued to be reported to the headquarters of the "war against depression" today.

Toward the goal of 1,000,000 jobs, 29,930 places were filled in the first two days by the united efforts of the American Legion, its Auxiliary, the American Federation of Labor, and the Association of National Advertisers.

Mad Trapper, Overtaken By Mounties, Shot Dead

Sergeant Critically Wounded in Gun Fight as Wily Murderer of Constable Is Brought to Bay in Frozen Wastes of Canada.

Aklavik, Northwest Territory, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—A spray of fire from the rifles of his pursuers killed Albert Johnson, the mad trapper of Rat River, while an airplane circled overhead today in a dramatic denouement of one of the greatest man hunts ever carried across the frozen fastness of the Northland by Canada's mounted police.

Before he fell dead Johnson shot Staff Sergt. E. F. Hersey twice. Hersey was his third victim, the eccentric prospector having shot two other policemen, one of them fatally, in the running fight he had carried on with posses for eight weeks.

Battling cold, hunger, blizzards and overwhelming odds the trapper was overtaken as he was doubling back on a zigzag trail toward Alaska through weather 20 degrees below zero.

He first was seen today by Hersey and a trapper named Noel Verville, who were traveling in advance of the main posse. Hunter and hunted prepared for battle simultaneously.

Hersey and Verville jerked their rifles from their toboggan. The trapper drew first blood. As Hersey knelt to take aim a bullet from Johnson's rifle struck him in the knee, glanced up through his thigh, and another entered his chest. Verville continued firing.

Only a few shots had been exchanged when the main police party heard the firing and sped to the scene. They opened fire and Johnson fell under a hail of lead from half a dozen blazing rifles.

While the battle raged on the ground, Pilot W. R. (Wop) May, veteran Arctic flier who had been enlisted in the grim chase several weeks ago, flew overhead. He had bombs ready to drop on the trapper, but could not use them as the posse was too close.

As soon as Johnson was killed, May made a landing on the treacherous

LEAGUE PLEA BASED ON SENSE OF HONOR

States Validity of Japan's Occupation of Shanghai Can Not Be Recognized.

Geneva, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Japan's "supreme sense of honor" was appealed to by the League of Nations in its latest note of protest requesting her to terminate hostilities at Shanghai, it was revealed today.

The communication as handed to Notake Sato, Japanese delegate, for transmission to Tokyo, said the council was "well aware of Japan's grievances," but regretted she should "think herself unable to accept the method of peaceful settlement which the league covenant defines."

The twelve neutral members declared that out of respect for article 10 of the covenant, guaranteeing the territorial integrity of all members of the league, it would not recognize the validity of Japanese occupation of the Shanghai area.

"We draw attention to these stipulations," the note said; "encroachment on the integrity of member States will not be considered valid. The committee of 12 earnestly desire that Japan take a conciliatory and wise attitude in view of the fact that she is one of the members of the league and a permanent member of the league council.

"The Shanghai incident has made a deep impression upon the public opinion of the world. It has exposed the lives and property of many citizens to danger, augmented the world's present economic depression and threatens to menace the good progress of the disarmament conference now in session.

"So long as the present state of affairs continues the discord between the two countries will be aggravated, endangering the creation of a situation unfavorable to the status of the world at large.

"The committee of 12 earnestly trusts Japan will admit her obligations and justify the confidence reposed in her by the powers of the world. We point out that according to the Kellogg pact all international disputes should be settled amicably."

The council later considered Japan's legal objections to convening the assembly to hear the case as requested by China.

manded money. Kriss is said to have handed the holdup pair $8 and then to have started a fight with them.

The holdup men opened fire and one of the bullets struck Kriss in the stomach and another hit Brown in the right wrist, police were told.

Selby and Brown said the pair fled in their light sedan, leaving them stranded. Another automobile came along and Selby and Bro[illegible] hailed it and went 2 miles to the Rockville Police Station, leaving Kriss at the scene.

Police went to the scene of the shooting and reported that they found Kriss, badly wounded, in a field about 60 yards from the automobile. This field is up an incline, they said, and marks on the hillside gave indications that he had been dragged there. There were mud stains on his knees, they said.

Near him they found a flashlight covered with bloodstains and there was blood inside the car and evidences that a struggle had taken place in the car. There was gasoline in the tank of the car, police said, but there was something wrong with the motor.

Further investigation and a check with Washington police headquarters revealed that the automobile, said to have been driven by Kriss, was stolen yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock from Nick J. Gaston from its parking place in front of his home at 702 Ninth street northwest.

Selby and Brown were being held early today at the Rockville Police Station as witnesses to a shooting. Police said they had been unable to locate any weapon at the scene of the shooting.

Kriss' condition was declared serious at Emergency Hospital. He was still on the operating table early today.

parted thoroughgoing concurrence from the foreign office.

The official reactions of the French and Italian governments on this point have not yet been clarified, but the greater bulk of material interests in the International Settlement are essentially British and American. Ambassador Claudel has not been in receipt of further instructions due to the change in the cabinet situation after the fall of Premier Laval. The interests of Italy in the International Settlement are not so vital that any corroborative action of the Italian government would have any additional effect.

The special committee of the league council afforded considerable satisfaction to the State Department on account of the concurrent action of the league in invoking the nine-power pact, the open door and the Kellogg-Briand pact 1, the council's appeal to the Japanese government. Secretary Stimson, in his manifesto of January 7, served notice on the Japanese and Chinese governments of the American intentions to disregard any agreement arising out of the present situation in China. The Stimson note recalled the existence of these same three treaties.

In following the Stimson lead, the league council thereby emphasized the American point of view and in addition, called the Japanese government to a realization of its obligations under the league covenant.

For the present no further action along these or similar lines is contemplated by the American Government, but developments in Shanghai may force the Secretary's hand with regard to American opinion of Japanese official responsibility for damages in Shanghai's International Settlement. The British government will naturally take up the situation created by the death of the two British sailors reported here yesterday, but the question of principle will be supported by this Government as well. A corollary note to afford more ample authority to the league council's demarche to the Japanese government may possibly be sent by the other nations that have acted in concert in the Shanghai incident. These four powers—the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy—have been exchanging communications, and at the first opportune moment some diplomatic intercession from them for peace between Japan and China is looked for.

Shanghai, China (Thursday), Feb. 18.—While peace negotiations were going on today in an effort to avert Japan's big push against the Chinese army defending Shanghai, an important Japanese commercial institution in the heart of the International Settlement was partiallly wrecked by a bomb.

The blast tore away the entrance to the firm of Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, one block from the famous Shanghai bund, and jarred the whole crowded business district. One Chinese was killed.

The bomb let go shortly after 8 o'clock, before the building was fully occupied and before the neighborhood was crowded with office workers. Thirty-five Japanese employes were in the building at the time.

Fragments Are Found.

At first it was not certain whether the explosion had been caused by a hand bomb or whether a shell, poorly aimed or well aimed, had come from the Chapei battlefront. But the police found fragments of what they declared to be a bomb which apparently had been 6 to 8 inches long and made of steel sheeting. Investigators said all indications were that the explosive had been placed on the doorstep of the firm.

The building is headquarters for many Japanese organizations operating cotton mills, steamships and importing and exporting businesses. Next door to the Mitsui property are other important Japanese offices.

Telegraph Office Damaged.

The Chinese telegraph office across the street also was damaged. The windows were blown in and there was panic among the workers inside.

Almost every window in the immediate vicinity was shattered. The blast caused greatest confusion in the streets, which soon were filled with crowds bound for work.

Although some of the investigators expressed the belief that the Chinese who was killed had placed the bomb, others declared he probably was nothing more than an unfortunate passerby. Japanese employes in the building at the time said they thought the blast had been caused by a time bomb.

Express Grave Concern.

Both settlement authorities and foreign business interests expressed grave concern over this morning's bombing incident.

These commentators declared they feared the incident might indicate the beginning of a reign of terror within the settlement aimed against Japanese property. Such a development, it was said, might grow out of the procedure by the Japanese in the Hongkew section, where the Chinese and their properties are held in the vise-like grip of the Japanese military.

A headquarters' spokesman said a sharp skirmish occurred in the vicinity of Kiangwan, north of Shanghai, early today in the course of which the Chinese attempted to drive a wedge into the Japanese lines and were repulsed.

"In this skirmish," the spokesman said, "the Chinese suffered considerable casualties while we lost no men."

The truth about the peace negotiations seemed to be that frantic efforts were being made in virtually all quarters with the exception of probably both the Chinese and Japanese armed services.

Report of Meeting Denied.

Reports that the Chinese and Japanese army commanders were to meet during the day met with a flat denial from Gen. Tsao Ting-Kai, commanding the 19th Chinese army.

"I am not meeting Gen. Uyeda (Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, Japanese commander) and so far as I know there is no peace in sight," Gen. Tsai said.

Another element seeking peace entered the situation in the form of the business communities of the International Settlement. According to well founded reports these groups were working to bring about a plan under which Shanghai would be made a virtually independent area with a charter from the Chinese government covering a long period of years.

Although widely discussed, this plan has not reached any definite stage. It was pointed out that the proposal virtually agreed with the Japanese scheme for increasing the foreign-controlled areas of Shanghai—although the Japanese plan included the demilitarization of numerous Chinese forts, and this feature has been flatly rejected by China.

One Fact Conspicuous.

While the peace talks continued, nothing definite emerged, although one fact seemed to be conspicuous—the willingness of the Japanese to accept a withdrawal by the Chinese troops on a far lesser scale than they originally demanded.

Although reports were the Japanese were holding out for a Chinese withdrawal of at least 30 miles from the settlement, latest developments indicated they would accept considerably less.

According to these indications the Japanese would be satisfied with a Chinese withdrawal of 7 or 8 miles, while they in turn would withdraw from Chapei and probably from other Chinese areas in the direction of Woosung as quickly as possible.

But the Chinese military authorities thus far have given no evidence of any intention to retire. This attitude might change momentarily, it was pointed out, but for the time being the situation appeared deadlocked.

Japanese consular officials also were understood to have adopted a more conciliatory attitude, and Mayor Wu Teh-Chen, of greater Shanghai, said his people were eager for an honorable, permanent peace. But, he said, "every indication points to the determination of the Japanese militarists to aggravate the situation by extending the invasion."

Will Reply to League.

Tokyo, Thursday, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—Japan will reply immediately to the League of Nations plea for peace in China, emphasizing that the Japanese government will fully observe her international obligations.

The Japanese reply will say:

1. The statement of the League of Nations Council to the effect that China has appealed for peaceful settlement of the Shanghai warfare is contrary to fact.

2. Japan has never contravened her solemn obligations under the Nine-Power Treaty, the Kellogg Antiwar Treaty, or Article X of the league covenant.

3. Every nation must know that Japan is true to the cause of her obligations and that she does not dare to betray reliance on such obligations as such action would be a sacrifice of her honor.

Text of League's Plea For Japan to End War

(Associated Press.)

The text of the League of Nations Council appeal to the Japanese representative at Geneva as received here yesterday follows:

"(1) The president of the council, on behalf of his colleagues, pointed out in an appeal addressed on January 29 to both parties that 'good relations between states could only be secured by cooperation and mutual respect and that no permanent solution could be achieved by force whether military or merely economic and that the longer the present situation continued the wider the breach between the two peoples would become and the more difficult the solution would be with all the disasters that would mean not only to the two nations directly involved but to the world in general.'

"(2) The twelve members of the council, other than the Chinese and Japanese representatives, feel constrained today to make a pressing appeal to the government of Japan to recognize the very special responsibility for forbearance and restraint which devolves upon it in the present conflict in virtue of the position of Japan as a member of the League of Nations and a permanent member of its council.

Will Be Fully Studied.

"(3) The situation which has developed in the Far East during the past months will be fully studied by the commission appointed with the consent of both parties. But since the commission was set up there have occurred and are still occurring events in the region of Shanghai which have intensified public anxiety throughout the world, which endanger the lives and interests of the nationals of numerous countries, add to the unexampled difficulties with which the world is faced during the present crisis and threaten to throw new and serious obstacles in the path of the disarmament conference.

"4. The twelve members of the council are far from disregarding the grievances advanced by Japan and throughout all these months have given her the full confidence which they owe to an associate of long standing who had ever been punctilious in the fulfillment of all her obligations and duties as a member of the community of nations. They can not but regret, however, that she has not found it possible to make full use of the methods of peaceful settlement provided in the covenant; and recall once again that the solemn undertaking of the Pact of Paris to achieve solution of international disputes shall never be sought by other than peaceful means. The twelve members of the council can not but recognize that from the beginning of the conflict which is taking place on her territory, China has her case in the hands of the league and agreed to accept its proposals for a peaceful settlement.

Recall Terms of Article 10.

"5. The twelve members of the council recall the terms of article 10 of the covenant by which all members of the league have undertaken to respect and preserve the territorial integrity and existing political independence of other members. It is their friendly right to direct attention to this provision particularly as it appears to them to follow that no infringement of the territorial integrity and no change in the political independence of any member of the league brought about in disregard of this article ought to be recognized as valid and effectual by the members of the League of Nations.

"6. Japan has an incalculable responsibility before the public opinion of the world to be just and restrained in her relations with China. She has already acknowledged this responsibility in most solemn terms by becoming one of the signatories to the nine-power treaty of 1922 whereby the contracting powers expressly agreed to respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China. The twelve members of the council appeal to Japan's high sense of honor to recognize the obligations of her special position and of the confidence which the nations have placed in her as a partner in the organization and maintenance of peace."

The reply to the league note, described as the strongest communication ever framed by the Geneva leaders, was prepared after a day of conflicting reports concerning possibility of restoration of peace at Shanghai.

First, the government authorized Japanese Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu and Japanese commander, Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda at Shanghai to deliver an ultimatum to the Chinese troops demanding their withdrawal from the Yangtze delta on threat of action by the Japanese army and naval forces there. The instructions gave Gen. Uyeda wide latitude as to whether he shall actually deliver the ultimatum and as to setting the time of expiration.

Later Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi, at Washington, created a sensation by informing the government that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was sending a note to Tokyo saying the United States would hold Japan responsible if Japanese military operations in Shanghai endangered American lives there.

Later advices from Washington said Stimson had merely considered such action.

Report of Protest Plans.

The Japanese Ambassador said United States Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes at Tokyo was being instructed to deliver a protest against the landing of Japanese troops in the International Settlement at Shanghai. Various protests previously had been made against use of the settlement as a base for Japanese military operations.

Debuchi's message said the United States refused to recognize the right of Japan to use the settlement, but would hold the Japanese responsible if a counterattack by Chinese should endanger Americans in the settlement. The purpose of Japanese operations in the settlement, as expressed here, has been to eliminate the possibility of a Chinese attack and it was for this reason that the Japanese commanders were authorized to demand that the Chinese troops withdraw.

The American, British and French Ambassadors continued to keep in close touch with each other, indicating they might plan another note to Japan. The ambassadors called at the foreign office to inquire as to the character of the Japanese ultimatum.

LAVAL'S FALL BLOW TO WORK AT GENEVA

Change in Paris Delegation Seen as Opportunity for German Appeal.

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Departure of the principal members of the French delegation, recalled to Paris by the fall of the Laval cabinet has slowed down the progress of the Disarmament Conference for the time being.

Andre Tardieu, the French minister of war, went back to the capital tonight with two other cabinet ministers, leaving Joseph Paul-Boncour to head the delegation in his place.

The situation presents an admirable opportunity for the German delegation, which will submit its concrete plans for disarmament tomorrow. M. Tardieu was to have replied to those proposals himself, but that task now is faced by M. Paul-Boncour.

The general sessions of the conference, taken up almost entirely by speech makers, will be strung out now until the political situation in France has cleared. Meanwhile meetings of the steering committee and of other groups through which the conference will get down to real work have been postponed.

The Finnish delegation urged demilitarization of frntiers at today's session and the Roumanian representative registered his country's support for the French plan to arm the League of Nations.

Rene Massigli, the French naval expert was in town today also, talking with Augusto Rosso, the Italian armament authority.

MAD TRAPPER SHOT TO DEATH IN FIGHT

snow, picked up the wounded Hersey and flew here.

Hersey had suffered an internal hemmorrhage and physicians despaired of his life. One doctor said it would be 24 hours before he could give an opinion on Hersey's chances for recovery.

Meantime, May stood by with his plane, ready, if need be, to jump into the pilot's seat and tear across the bleak skyways with Hersey to a hospital at Edmonton, 1,800 miles distant.

The scarlet-coated Royal Canadian Mounted Police, true to tradition, had "got their man," but the price was dear.

Eight weeks ago Johnson wounded Constable A. E. King, who sought to arrest him as a trap thief, and three weeks ago he killed Constable E. Millen, who went after him for the King attack.

It was after the Millen slaying that the "mounted" intensified its task of taking Johnson—alive if possible, but to get him.

Trappers and Indians joined civilian posses, but Johnson was almost a match for all of them. Time and again he eluded them, and when they finally got him he was in Porcupine Valley, headed for Alaska, where he hoped, apparently, to find temporary refuge in an American possession.

Johnson's name first came out of the North just before Christmas with the news that King was wounded.

Tales of Indians.

The Indians had told strange tales of a "madman," who rifled their pelts and hung their traps in treetops. King and Constable R. G. McDowell, of the Far Northwest patrol, were sent to investigate and Johnson met them with rifle fire. King was wounded and only McDowell's heroic "mush" back to civilization saved his life.

Then a posse went to Johnson's lonely cabin. For fifteen hours on January 10 they besieged the fortress, but Johnson, an automatic in each hand, held them off.

Three men were left to guard the cabin and messengers went back for reinforcements. They returned January 26 to find that Johnson had escaped. So they took the trail into the Arctic twilight.

Johnson's tracks were easily discernible in the snow and they followed him into a vale, 10 miles south of here, where he had constructed a rude, three-sided parapet. In the fight that followed—one man against the "Mounted"—Millen was killed, and Johnson again slipped away.

Was Master Bushman.

It was then that the police developed a strange respect for the man they sought, and to doubt if he were "mad." They came to know him as a master bushman, who knew all the tricks of his craft.

Over fresh, lush snow and frozen barrens, the story was the same. If snow was deep, Johnson doubled back and circled. If he had ice to travel over, he stuck to the rocks and left no trace.

Gradually, however, the trail began to "zigzag," which told its own story to the keen-eyed men in the scarlet tunics. They knew, then, that Johnson was on his last legs, that it was merely a matter of time.

Early today, it was reported that they were closing in and nothing was left but the finale. It came with startling quickness, in a burst of rifle fire.

House Soon to Receive Huge Petition for Bonus

(Associated Press.)

Preparing for their drive before the House ways and means committee for full cash payment of the soldier bonus, advocates of the legislation will shortly file with the House petitions they say carry more than 2,000,000 names.

The ways and means committee will open hearings on the bill introduced by Representative Patman (Democrat), of Texas, after it completes drafting a tax bill. Patman's bill would provide an issue of $2,200,000,000 in United States notes to pay off the remainder of the bonus certificates, about $1,400,000,000 already having been advanced in loans.

House Body's Executive Sessions Secrecy Urged

Members of the District appropriations subcommittee were cautioned yesterday against discussing out of committee what takes place at hearings on the District budget, following publication of attacks on Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick at Tuesday's hearings.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, reminded members of the rule against disclosing information of an executive nature until the completed District bill is reported. Superintendent of Insurance Herbert L. Davis was questioned and items in the engineering department appropriations were considered at yesterday's hearings.

HOUSE WET LEADERS MAP DRIVE FOR BEER

Factions of Two Parties Join in Drafting Measure to Permit Sale.

(Associated Press.)

Leaders of House Democratic and Republican antiprohibition blocs agreed tentatively yesterday upon the form of a bill to legalize beer, porter, ale, stout and other fermented cereal beverages of 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight.

The measure — drafted by Representatives William E. Hull (Republican), Illinois, and O'Connor (Democrat), New York, also would establish a tax of four cents on each sixteen-ounce bottle of the liquor sold. O'Connor estimated this would bring $660,000,000 a year into the Federal Treasury.

Representatives Linthicum, of Maryland, and Beck, of Pennsylvania, chairmen, respectively, of the Democratic and Republican blocs, agreed in general on the measure. Formal action, however, by the executive committees of both groups is necessary before the bill can be presented to the full blocs. O'Connor said the executive committees would meet jointly today to discuss the questions.

Some members of the blocs said the beer bill will not go to the judiciary committee, which already has disapproved a measure calling for a referendum on the eighteenth amendment, but to the committee on ways and means, which now is drafting a new tax bill.

The bill as now drafted would amend the Volstead act so as to permit beer of about 4½ per cent alcohol by volume. The law now prohibits more than ½ of 1 per cent.

The measure also would prohibit the sale of the new beverages in any form but sixteen-ounce, or pint, bottles.

In addition, the bill would forbid the importation of any grains for use in the manufacture of the beverages. O'Connor estimated this would create a market for at least 150,000,000 bushels of domestic grain annually.

Under the measure the new beer could be sold by the bottle in hotel dining rooms, restaurants or clubs where annual dues are at least $15, when served "with a bona fide meal."

At the same time it could be sold in cases of 12 or 24 pint bottles for consumption in homes.

NORTHEAST RESIDENT IS GUNMAN'S TARGET

tain it was not a backfire, because he smelled the powder smoke. The automobile passed by at extremely close range, but the gunman missed his mark.

Jordon Sandford, of 904 Jackson street northeast, was walking at Tenth and Hamline streets when the shot was fired. He said he believed the roadster turned north into Tenth street from Hamline street, but he did not pay any attention to it until he heard the sharp report.

He looked up, he said, in time to see Mr. Rossiter run toward his house, and to see the roadster speed up and then turn into Irving street at a high rate of speed. Mr. Sandford also said there were two men in the car. He heard the three sharp reports immediately after it disappeared around the corner.

Mr. Rossiter is a brother-in-law of Hank Crawford, chief clerk of the Police Department, and his wife, Mrs. Margurite Rossiter, is employed in the Department of Agriculture.

The suspect held in the "sniper" case is Robert Statham, 24 years old, who said he lived in the 4600 block of Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Statham was arrested in Bethesda, Md., early Tuesday night by officers from the Bethesda substation and turned over to Washington detectives. The holdup and robbery squad here, headed by Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea, had asked that Statham be detained. At the Bethesda Station he gave his name as Bob Smith, of Tenleytown, D. C.

Several people who got glimpses of the man who killed Riedel looked at Statham last night both with a pair of goggles on and with them off. Police said the witnesses would not identify Statham. However, they held him at the Third Precinct Station and ordered that he receive no visitors.

At 11 o'clock this morning a formal inquest into the death of Riedel will be held at the District Morgue, and it was expected that a verdict of murder at the hands of an unknown person would be the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Man Fires at Burglar He Surprises in Home

A burglar, who ransacked the home of Robert Frank McDermott, at 6614 Eastern avenue northeast, was fired at last night when the householder returned home before the intruder finished his job and made a getaway. Mr. McDermott said he did not believe anything was taken.

Mr. McDermott told police he returned home about 9 p. m., and on entering the front door saw that the place had been entered and ransacked. He stopped to get a pistol. When he reached the rear of the house he said he saw a man about 6 feet tall, dressed in a long overcoat, and hatless, running across the back yard. He fired twice and believes he hit the fleeing man. When Mr. McDermott went to call police he found that the telephone wire had been cut. Entrance had been gained by smashing a rear window with a brick wrapped in rags.

Theater Fire Routs 2,000 in New York

Stampede Hurts Several; Blaze Follows "Hot" Song by Sophie Tucker.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The famous stage of the Palace Theater, the goal of every minor vaudeville star in the United States, was badly damaged tonight by flames which routed an audience of 1,800 persons about 10:30 p. m.

Several persons were hurt in the stampede for exits that started when patrons noticed a trickle of flame and smoke from backstage, just as Sophie Tucker, headliner of the evening, finished singing "Red Hot Mamma." Miss Tucker calmed the crowd somewhat by a "curtain talk." She continued as the flames crept up a back drop behind her.

Receiver Is Sought For Hurley-Wright

Rheem Trustees Ordered to Show Cause for Opposing Move.

Justice Peyton Gordon in the District Supreme Court yesterday issued an order requiring the trustees in bankruptcy of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take over the Hurley-Wright Building, at Eighteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

The Merchants Transfer and Storage Co., owner of a $92,000 trust on the building, and Leon Tobriner and Ben L. Prince, trustees under that trust, yesterday asked the court to take action because of the alleged default in payments on notes. The trustees requested a foreclosure in addition to the appointment of a receiver.

The court order requires the Swartzell trustees to appear in court February 24 and show reasons for not permitting the action requested. The Hurley-Wright building was taken over by the realty firm as part payment for the Shoreham office building, which was sold to Patrick Hurley, Secretary of War, and his associates.

$135,000,000 ROADS BILL REPLACES DOLE

Senate Committee Approves Measure; Hyde's Proposed Slash Is Scored.

(Associated Press.)

A proposal for a $135,000,000 road fund to aid both employment and the highways yesterday took the place of the $750,000,000 program thrown out of the Senate by the defeat of the La Follette-Costigan relief bill.

The Senate roads committee approved the $135,000,000 outlay as an amendment to the agriculture appropriation bill. Sponsored by Senator Hayden (Democrat), of Arizona, a supporter of the defeated relief bill, it would make the money immediately available for roads, in addition to the $100,000,000 already carried in the agriculture bill.

Meanwhile Chairman Oddie of the committee charged that Secretary Hyde was "trying to contribute tens of thousands of men to the army of unemployed" by recommending reduced road appropriations for 1934 and 1935.

Mr. Hayden's amendment is designed to keep at work laborers employed in highway construction during 1931, under the Federal Government's emergency employment road-construction fund.

It would bring the total Federal funds available for road construction this year up to about $250,000,000, the same amount as last year.

The amendment would carry $120,000,000 additional for Federal aid highway construction, which the States would not have to match. In addition, it would provide $10,000,000 for forest roads; $1,500,000 for park roads; $1,000,000 for highways in Indian reservations and $3,000,000 for roads in unappropriated public lands.

All of the money would be available until the end of 1932. The La Follette-Costigan bill carried $375,000,000 for road construction during the next year and a half.

Chairman Oddie attacked Secretary Hyde for a letter recommending that Federal aid appropriations in the Oddie bill for 1934 and 1935 be cut from $125,000,000 to $100,000,000, with similar cuts in the other items.

"It is a most ill-advised and short-sighted policy," Mr. Oddie said. "It is unwise and dangerous."

COURSES IN ETHICS URGED FOR SCHOOLS

Deans of Women to Hold Banquet Tonight; Greet N.E.A. Group Saturday.

Teaching of ethics should be restored to the secondary schools, because churches are unable to do this work and the home is unequipped to undertake it, Frederick Winsor, headmaster of the Middlesex School at Concord, Mass., told the National Association of Deans of Women at a general session last night, at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. Winsor said that since education was removed from the clergy and put in the hands of laymen, the teaching of ethics has been neglected. He referred to the Roman Catholic Church as an exception to this neglect. The headmaster placed instruction in ethics above the teaching of physics and many other subjects.

"The object," he said, "would be to teach boys and girls to be good intelligently."

Dean C. S. Boucher, of the University of Chicago, spoke in favor of a system of varied types of colleges, which would make it possible for all high school graduates to obtain a college education or part of one. He asserted that to enroll thousands of students in colleges, and dismiss one-third of them at the end of the year because they have attempted to follow courses for which they are unsuited "is wasteful and criminal, financially, morally and socially."

The annual banquet of the Association will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel. Florence K. Root, president of the association, will preside, and Cornelia Sorabji, of Calcutta, India, president of the Federation of University Women, will make the principal address. Her subject will be "Squaring With the Changing Order in India."

Capital Man Kills Self, Fearing Gang

Suicide at Atlantic City Leaves Note Saying He Was "On Spot."

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Leaving notes saying he feared gang vengeance, a man identified from letters as Clever H. Coleman, 37, of 107 Seventh street southeast, Washington, D. C., and Jackson, N. C., committed suicide in a hotel here. He arrived Monday and his body was found in his room tonight, a bullet hole in his head.

In the messages he left, Coleman said he was "on the spot" and believed that the only way to escape was to take his own life.

One note was addressed to police, another to Miss Ora Winkler, Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., and another to R. A. Skakeen, of Jackson, N. C. His pockets contained $5 in cash and a certified check for $180. The letter to Skakeen was in the nature of a will, leaving his personal property to Skakeen.

Miss Helene Fortescue Arrives From Honolulu

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Among the passengers arriving today on the United States Army transport Republic from Honolulu was Miss Helene Fortescue, 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Grace Fortescue, who with her son-in-law and two naval enlisted men is charged with the murder of a native of Hawaii.

Every effort was made to conceal Miss Fortescue's identity. She was met at the Brooklyn pier by Lieut. Gordon P. Sherwood, and they drove away in an automobile. The girl's father, Maj. Granville Fortescue, is in New York recovering from pneumonia.

Salvation Army Leader Holds Trend Improving

Conditions throughout the United States are improving, Col. Albert Baillie, chief secretary of the Southern division of the Salvation Army, told a group of American workers at the Salvation Army Social Service Bureau last night.

Col. Baillie expressed the view that the President's two-billion-dollar Reconstruction Finance Corporation and his appeal to the people to stop hoarding has made prospects of work much brighter.

SMALL GIFTS HELP CHEST ON TO TOTAL

Receipts Decline Sharply in Day to Only $140; Units Strive Toward Goal.

Community Chest Standing

Received yesterday ...	$140.00
Previously reported...	2,413,757.50
Total to date	2,413,897.90
Campaign goal	2,601,000.00
Still needed	187,102.10

Contributions to the Community Chest went in by mail fell off sharply yesterday. After reaching sums as high as $1,000 in a day, the new and additional gifts reaching Chest headquarters yesterday amounted to only $140, according to figures made public by Chest officials.

Yesterday's gifts bring the total to date up to $2,413,897.90, leaving the Chest still $187,102.10 short of its goal. The largest gift of the day was that of Grosner's, for $100.

Chest officials still hope for substantial returns from the small "clean-up" groups of the metropolitan unit, who are working quietly to obtain further gifts and additional gifts from contributors who might be able to increase their subscriptions. There is also hope that givers of last year, who failed to renew their pledges for 1932, will realize the seriousness of the situation and will join with the other 125,000 Washingtonians in the work of alleviating the large amount of suffering prevalent because of the unemployment situation.

Gifts received yesterday were as follows: Five dollars, additional; $15, anonymous; $10, M. W. Getchell, and $100, Grosner's.

Reception Set Tonight By Maryland Society

The Maryland Society of Washington will hold a reception and entertainment program tonight at the Washington Club, Seventeenth and K streets northwest. In the receiving line will be George H. Calvert, jr., president of the society, and Mrs. Calvert, assisted by Senator Millard E. Tydings and Mrs. John Mason Brown, and Representative J. Charles Linthicum and Mrs. Linthicum.

IOWAN SLAYS FOUR OF FAMILY AND SELF

Children, Wife and Her Sister Victims of Mad Farmer; Finances Held Cause.

Stout, Iowa, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Nanno Andreesen, 42, stock buyer and farmer, killed his wife, two children and sister-in-law early today and then committed suicide, Coroner L. D. Coffman decided tonight. The coroner said no inquest would be held.

An invetigation which took most of the day caused authorities to discard a theory advanced by Sheriff K. A. Mamminga that Mrs. Andreesen, after being wounded by her husband, revived sufficiently to procure the shotgun and kill him after he had returned from a trip to town. He had driven here and affixed a note on a garage door saying five bodies would be found at his house.

Coroner Coffman pointed out that although the shotgun was found on the woman's body, the recoil might have sent the weapon against her as her husband, whose body was found about 10 feet away ,ended his life.

Financial difficulties were believed to have led Andreesen to kill his two children, Elmer, 14, and Verna, 9; his sister-in-law, Miss Maggie Hessenius; about 10 feet away, ended his life.

The bodies were found by Harvey Dilger, employe of the Stout Auto Co., and two companions who drove to the farm about half a mile from town, after finding Andreesen's note. The two children were clad in night clothing.

Armed Suspect Defies Police to Arrest Him

Edmonton, Alberta, Feb. 17 (A.P.). Harry Thompson, farmer, wanted on a petty theft charge, has entrnched himself on his farm 80 miles west of here, firing on police who have attempted to arrest him.

A posse went to Thompson's place last night and found him in the barn. He directed a fusillade of rifle fire at the officers and shouted, "I'll shoot any one who tries to take me."

SENATOR KEY PITTMAN.

THE influence of a United States senator is not necessarily governed by the size and wealth of that senator's home State. Thus we have Borah, of Idaho. And then we have Key Pittman, of Nevada. The State of Nevada is so small, or rather, is so sparsely populated, that it has only three men in Congress—one representative and two senators.

Yet Senator Key Pittman (Key was his mother's surname) is one of the most influential Democrats on Capitol Hill. If the Democrats should gain control of the Senate, Pittman would be the party's unanimous choice for President pro tempore. In that role he would preside in the absence of the Vice President.

If one looks closely at Pittman, one sees the face of an adventurous pioneer. And in his younger days that is what Pittman was. He was born and reared in Mississippi. But in 1897 he joined the gold rush to Alaska. Four years he spent in the Northwest, and then he trekked down to Tonopah, Nev., where there was a boom in the silver mines.

Pittman went in for mining and also for the practice of law, which profession he had learned at the Southwestern Presbyterian University at Clarksville, Tenn. Ultimately he got into politics, and in 1912 Nevada sent him to the Senate. E. T. F.

River Yields Body, Voudou Avenging Slaying of Girl

New Orleans, La., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Trembling lips in the Negro sections of New Orleans are whispering about the terrifying powers of the voudou serpent god which they say drove Elijah Wheatley to the same watery grave that claimed his sweetheart last Sunday.

A night watchman told police he saw a Negro answering the description of Wheatley push Lucille Williams, 19, into a canal and flee.

Her body was recovered and relatives buried it with the Congo voudou rites prevalent in the old slave days of Louisiana. The ritual included a ceremony whereby the serpent god was asked to bring the murderer back to the scene of his crime.

In keeping with the voudou creed, the young Negress was buried face downward in her coffin with a fresh egg clasped in each hand and a rope tied around each wrist.

Kinsmen of the girl told police of the ceremony and advised them to watch the canal for Wheatley's body. Meanwhile, they also spread news of the rites through the Negro sections so that he would hear of it.

Early today Wheatley's corpse was found floating in the canal at the exact spot the girl was drowned.

Police said they have no doubt he heard of "gris-gris" (petition to the serpent god) and went forthwith to fling himself into the water.

MAYOR IS INDICTED IN FLINT RUM PLOT

Chief and Members of Police Force Among Twelve Others Accused.

Bay City, Mich., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Climaxing a five months' investigation into charges of collusion between city officials of Flint, Mich., and operators of a liquor syndicate, a Federal grand jury here today returned indictments against Mayor William H. McKeighan, Caesar J. Scavarda, acting city manager and chief of police, and eleven other persons, five of them in the Flint police department.

The indictment against Mayor McKeighan and Scarvarda contained 22 counts, charging that the defendants received protection money and induced others to open places for the sale of liquor.

Others named in the indictments included Mrs. Lillian Ordway, a policewoman; Charles Myers, patrolman; Ben F. Baker, detective sergeant, and James Steenport and Elmer Larson, detectives and former members of the vice squad.

Those who were named as operators of a liquor syndicate were Albert Vergo, Mel Coggins, Herbert Zink, Leo Acosta, John Salamore and another unnamed person.

Department of Justice agents conducted the investigation into affairs in Flint, spending more than five months hearing 30 witnesses.

Mayor McKeigan, four times mayor of Flint, has been a leading political figure for many years. Recently he issued a statement on the investigations, and expressed the belief that he would be indicted, charging a political plot.

French Civilians To Use Gas Masks

50,000,000 Are Ordered by Government to Give Protection.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Paris, Feb. 17 (U.P.)—Fifty million gas masks have been ordered by the French government for civilian use, it was learned officially today.

The masks, to be manufactured during the next two years, will be fitted against the deadliest gases developed since the World War. They will insure immunity for ten hours after which the chemical canisters can be changed. The masks were ordered by the ministry of the interior for the protection of the civilian population in case of a gas attack.

It is intended by the French government to have enough gas masks on hand to guarantee every citizen protection. They will be stored in army corps headquarters or Red Cross warehouses until needed. Meanwhile, some gas masks will go on sale at drug stores immediately at $2 each.

Lame Duck Parley Asked by Senate

Committee Is Appointed to Adopt Resolution With House.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday disagreed to House changes in the resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to abolish the short or "lame duck" session of Congress and asked for a conference to iron out the differences.

Vice President Curtis named a committee composed of Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, author of the measure, and Senators Borah (Republican), Idaho, and Walsh (Democrat), Montana. Now House conferees will be named.

The resolution was adopted by the House yesterday after nearly ten years of dispute with the Senate, but with an amendment opposed by Senator Norris to require ratification by the States within seven years. In asking for the conference yesterday Senator Norris said he had no doubt the differences between the House and Senate could be thrashed out on a reasonable basis.

WORLD WAITS MOVE BY U.S., LOWELL SAYS

Harvard Head Asserts War View Hinges on Boycott Against Japan.

Boston, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—A Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, tonight said in a radio address that the future attitude of the world about war may well depend upon our decision on the question of joining an economic boycott against Japan.

An outstanding advocate of the world court and the League of Nations, Dr. Lowell spoke into a radio microphone for the first time.

"The events in Manchuria, and still more in Shanghai, have shown that mere protests by other governments, and the public opinion of neutrals, will not alone restrain the use of armed force to attain a nation's ends.

"If it shall be found that Japan has resorted to war without submitting the dispute to arbitration, to judicial settlement or to the council of the league—no one of which has been done—it will be the duty of all the members of the league under Article XVI of the covenant to prohibit trade and financial relations of their countries with the covenant-breaking state and to prevent all intercourse with that state by the people of any other state whether a member of the league or not.

"Obviously this can not in fact be done in the case of Japan without the concurrence of the United States.

"Not only the progress of this conflict, but also the future attitude of the world about war, may well depend upon our decision."

Doomed Man in Attack Case Granted New Trial

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 17 (A.P.). Paul Kauffman, condemned to death for the alleged slaying of 17-year-old Avis Woolery, after a criminal attack in Swope Park, in Kansas City, was granted a new trial by the Missouri Supreme Court today. Kauffman's defense was insanity. The high court said the lower court erred in not allowing a continuance, asked by the defense, in order to obtain additional depositions from Columbia, Pa., his former home.

Kauffman admitted luring the girl to Kansas City on the promise of employment, and killing her.

New York City Priest Is Excommunicated

Vatican City, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—A decree excommunicating Guiseppe Marazzi, an Italian Catholic priest living in New York City, was issued today by church authorities. The decree, which has been approved by the Sacred Consistorial Congregation, suspends the priest from holding any post and deprives him of the benefits of religion.

One of the reasons for the excommunication was that Marazzi had lived abroad without permission having been granted. Other reasons were not revealed.

BEAR STOCK RAIDS MENACE DESCRIBED

Congress Told Unregulated Operations May Defeat Federal Efforts.

(Associated Press.)

A warning that unregulated bear raids on the Nation's security markets may defeat Government efforts to stimulate business was laid before a House judiciary subcommittee yesterday by William A. Perkins, a New York attorney.

He asserted that leaders of the short interests have been a powerful influence behind the gigantic stock exchange liquidation of the last two years. Another side of the stock exchange picture was presented by an economist's claim that short selling served as a market stabilizer.

While Perkins favored Government regulation of short selling, Prof. S. S. Huebner, of the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania, said it was a normal function of an organized market.

The witnesses appeared in a hearing on bills to abolish or regulate short sales.

Danger in Restriction.

Huebner said:

"While by no means perfect, just as is the case with any other good economic institution, I know its services are many and important, and there does not seem to me any good reason for prohibiting the practice or restricting it to the point of inefficient operation."

Perkins said:

"Even in 1932 the bear tactics have continued. The New York Stock Exchange figures show an increase in the overnight short interest in January, 1932, of 758,793 shares * * * despite its self-imposed restrictions on short selling.

"Under the impulse of measures to stop the forces of destruction, such as the Reconstruction Corporation, broader banking laws and an anti-hoarding campaign, we are now seeing a retreat of the bears and a consequent spasmodic upturn in values.

"But whether it will amount to anything more than occurred last summer when the moratorium was announced is altogether problematical unless there be legislative regulation of short selling."

Bear Leaders Dominate.

The New Yorker said bear leaders dominated short selling and that 20 leading stocks carried the bulk of the overnight short interests in 1931.

Perkins added that there have been "ugly and persistent intimations * * * of high officials having sold short the stock of their corporations on their confidential advance information as to their affairs so that an exposure would be most disconcerting and disillusioning."

FRANCE WILL HONOR POLICY, LAVAL SAYS

lieve Europe will eventually feel the effects of recent reparations accord with Britain, which promises to provide the first definite solution of one of the most difficult postwar problems."

Although Premier Laval has been prominently mentioned as the eventual choice of the president to reform the cabinet, he said he does not expect to be called, and does not desire a ministry in the next government although he believes he will be offered one.

He insisted that Andre Tardieu, former premier, must be reckoned with in any new cabinet, and the results of President Paul Doumer's negotiations today indicated M. Tardieu was one of the most logical choices.

Premier Laval indicated his doubt that Aristide Briand, former foreign minister, would be sufficiently recovered from his illness to participate in the new government.

ESSAY TEST LAUDED BY MAJ. GEN. FRIES

very great sense the future of this country may depend on the good citizenship, patriotism and adherence to ideals inspired by George Washington.

"I shall be very anxious," concluded Gen. Fries, "to read the prize-winning essays. I think that they will give us a comprehensive idea of the point of view taken of Washington by our young people."

In response to the appeal of The Post Essay Editor for contestants to enter their essays as soon as possible, many were turned in yesterday.

On Sunday next, for the convenience of the contestants, the names of all the contestants to date will be printed in The Washington Post of that date. Be sure and order a copy of next Sunday's Post and see if your name is listed among those who have turned in their essays already. Any essay received up to noon on Saturday will be acknowledged in The Sunday Post in this manner.

The Post essay editor, speaking of the essays yesterday, said: "I am happy to say that the standard of the essays received is improving. There are evidences that the young people who are submitting their ideas about George Washington are taking more pains in the preparation of their material. This is splendid, because it means that the contest will be closer, a fact that will add greatly to the zest of the race."

Those sending in essays yesterday were John William Reese, jr., 10, of 17 W street northwest; Josephine De Giogi, 12, of 1615 A street southeast; Gus Morrow, 1219 Michigan avenue northeast; Maude Robenson, 16, Fairfax, Va.; Margaret Neil, 12, Alexandria, Va.; James Edward Sanford, 17, 516 Tenth street southeast; Katie Rutherford, 8, 3431 Porter street northwest; John H. Flett, jr., 14, 1410 Euclid street northwest; Catherine Colbert, 2370 Champlain street northwest.

Those sending in applications for booklets yesterday included Celeste Wharton, 1826 M street; Britton Harl Smith, Freeport, Va.; Wilhelmina Pyas, 2319 L street northwest; Richard Browning, 301 East Thirty-eighth street, New York, N. Y., and Betty Sims, 1212 Floral street northwest.

Preparedness Is Club Topic.

A "preparedness" program has been planned by the Thirteen Club at its semimonthly dinner meeting to be held tonight at the Cosmos Club, at 6:30 o'clock. The guest of honor will be Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, United States Army, retired, who will speak on "The Need for Preparedness."

REORGANIZING IS SPURRED

plans for the reorganization of the many different bureaus and independent agencies have always proved in the past to be a signal for the mobilization of opposition from all quarters, which has destroyed the possibility of constructive action.

"There is little hope for success of this task unless it is placed in the hands of some one responsible for it, with authority and direction to act."

To circumvent the political obstacles which have defeated all previous attempts at consolidation, the President suggested that Congress empower the Chief Executive, under proper safeguards, to effect the essential redistribution of functions by executive orders, such orders to lie before Congress for 60 days before becoming operative.

During the 60-day period Congress might request suspension of the proposed consolidations, by a majority of both Houses. This method of accomplishing effective reform, the message went on, would permit the work to be carried on "gradually and systematically predicated on a sound and definite theory of government, and effectuated as the result of study and experience gained in the actual process of reorganization."

Previously Recommended.

The message also recalled that the White House had publicly recommended on December 8 certain specific projects relating to the consolidation of agencies dealing with merchant marine and public works.

Soon after this suggestion was made by the rPesident, Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, chairman of the House committee on expenditures in the executive departments, took up a bill introduced by Representative Byrnes (Democrat), Tennessee, calling for the consolidation of the Army and Navy.

This proposal has been before Congress many times during the last ten years, but never has been reported out of committee. After the President's message had been read yesterday, Representative Cochran expressed the belief that the Army-Navy consolidation soon would be reported favorably. He said he would have no comment on the message until he had studied it carefully. He intimated strongly, however, that he favored prompt action on the consolidation of the Army and Navy.

Proposed Method.

Two controlling ideas should govern the gradual departmental reorganization, the President's message continued. First, all activities dealing with the same general subject should be grouped in one administrative agency. Secondly, purely administrative functions should be under single-headed authority, so that decisions can be made promptly by responsible officials; and regulatory, advisory and quasijudicial functions should be in the hands of boards or commissions.

The broad outlines of the whole scheme were hinted by the suggestion that all the Government's engineering projects should be administered by a new administrator of public works, that all merchant marine activities be grouped under an Assistant Secretary for Merchant Marine.

Similarly, the President would establish assistant secretaries for public health, for education, conservation, agricultural research and for agricultural economics.

Reclamation Service Change.

He also would broaden the scope of the existing reclamation service, since "we do not need further additions to our agricultural land at present." At the outset, the expanded reclamation service would be charged with the conservation and storage of waters, through projects similar to Boulder Canyon.

"The actual construction work under this plan should be carried out by the public works administrator and the completed projects administered by the reclamation service."

"In conclusion," the President's message said, "I can not recommend too strongly that Congress give the subject of effective organization of the executive branch of the Government its early and serious attention. It is an essential part of a sound reconstruction and economy program. A patchwork organization compels inefficiency, waste and extravagance. Economy and efficiency can come only through modernization. A proper reorganization of our departments, commissions and bureaus will result, not only in much greater efficiency and public convenience, but in the saving of many millions of dollars now extracted annually from our overburdened taxpayers."

local government, were reelected from Dublin, north.

Minister of Defense Desmond Fitzgerald was reelected from Carlow Kilkenny, and Minister of Finance Ernest Blythe was reelected from Monoghan.

De Valera's chief lieutenant, Sean Lemass, was elected from South Dublin.

In some quarters it was believed that the government was in danger of defeat, and it was forecast that De Valera, with the support of the Labor members, would have a majority of three or four.

Complete returns assured the reelection of Capt. Redmond, government candidate, and of Frank Aitkin, member of the Fianna Fail opposition. Capt. Redmond represents Waterford and Aitken was reelected from Louth.

President Cosgrave expressed confidence that the administration party would win the election and continue the present relations with England, despite the predictions of De Valera that his party would triumph.

A De Valera victory was considered certain to mean trouble for England, as the Fianna Fail leader has sworn to work for separation of the Free State from the British crown. His first act as president would be to abolish the oath of allegiance to King George, he said during the election.

The last Parliament (Dail) was controlled by the Cosgrave party, which had 65 seats, as compared to 56 seats controlled by De Valera. In addition there were 12 Independents; 10 Laborites, 6 Farmers, 2 Independent-Laborites and 1 Republican. Many times Cosgrave was able to muster only a six-vote majority, and frequently was defeated on minor issues.

The Laborites and Independents are expected to lose some seats in the present election, but may still hold the balance of power.

Text of President Hoover's Special Congress Message

The special message today to Congress of President Hoover follows in full text:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

Because of its direct relation to the cost of Government, I desire again to bring to the attention of the Congress the necessity of more effective organization of the executive branch of the Government, the importance of which I have referred to in previous messages. This subject has been considered many times by the Executive and by the Congress, but without substantial results. Various projects are now before the Congress.

The need for reorganization is obvious. There has been with the years a gradual growth of the Government by the accretion in its departments and by independent executive establishments, boards, and commissions as problems requiring solution confront the President and the Congress. Today the Government embraces from 150 to 200 separate units, dependent on the method of notation used. Governmental units when once set up have a tendency to grow independently of other units. This leads to overlapping and waste. Moreover, there is a marked tendency to find new occupations when the initial duties are completed. The overlap and the number of agencies can be reduced.

Consolidations Effected.

A few consolidations, notably in law enforcement and the veterans' services, have been effected. Both of these reorganized agencies have been able to discharge the very greatly increased burdens imposed upon them without such an increase in administrative expense as would otherwise have been the case.

In the present crisis the absolute necessity for the most drastic economy makes the problem of governmental reorganization one of paramount importance. The amount of saving in public funds to be effected by a thoroughgoing reorganization, while difficult to estimate accurately, will be material, amounting to many millions of dollars annually. Not only will the Government's business be conducted more efficiently and economically, but the great body of citizens who have business relations with their Government will be relieved of the burden and expense of dealing with a multitude of unnecessary and sometimes widely separated public agencies.

We may frankly admit the practical difficulties of such reorganization. Not only do different fractions of the Government fear such reorganization, but many associations and agencies throughout the country will be alarmed that the particular function to which they are devoted may in some fashion be curtailed. Proposals to the Congress of detailed plans for the reorganization of the many different bureaus and independent agencies have always proved in the past to be a signal for the mobilization of opposition from all quarters, which has destroyed the possibility of constructive action.

Should Be Made Gradually.

There is little hope for success in this task unless it is placed in the hands of some one responsible for it, with authority and direction to act. Moreover, the consummation of a comprehensive reorganization at one moment is not in the best public interest. Such reorganization should be undertaken gradually and systematically, predicated on a sound and definite theory of government and effectuated as the result of study and experience gained in the actual processes of reorganization.

I recommend, therefore, that the Congress provide for—

(a) Consolidation and grouping of the various executive and administrative activities according to their major purposes under single-headed responsibility, the Congress designating the title of the officer to be placed in immediate charge of such groups as are not now possible under existing organization.

(b) Adoption of the general principle that executive and administrative functions should have single-headed responsibility, and that advisory, regulatory and quasi-judicial functions should be performed by boards and commissions, thus permitting the transfer of certain regulatory functions from executive officials to existing boards or commissions, and executive functions from boards and commissions to executive officials.

(c) Authority under proper safeguards to be lodged in the President to effect these transfers and consolidations and authority to redistribute executive groups in the ten executive departments of the Government or in the independent establishments, as the President may determine, by executive order, such executive order to lie before the Congress for 60 days during sessions thereof before becoming effective, but becoming efective at the end of such period unless the Congress shall request suspension of action.

Changes in Some Titles.

The ten major executive department and the major regulatory and financial boards and commissions should of course be maintained. Some of these existing agencies are already organized upon the basis of their major purpose, but functions of the same major purpose now outside of these groups should be transferred to them.

It will be necessary also to authorize changes in titles of some officials and to create a few new positions in order to permit grouping and consolidation not now possible. With the enormous growth of governmental business there has been great expansion and diffusion of authority among minor officials. At the same time there is an insufficient number of officials of definite and concentrated responsibility to the public. The additional expense of such officers over and above the salaries now paid to officials who would be displaced would be less than $40,000 per annum. The saving in cost of administration would be many times this sum. The most important of the posts of this character are the following:

Public works administrator (new office).

Personnel administrator (change from chairman of Civil Service Commission).

Assistant secretary for public health (new).

Assistant secretary for education (change from commissioner).

Assistant secretary for merchant marine (new office).

Assistant secretary for conservation (new office).

Assistant secretary for agricultural research (change from present assistant secretary).

Assistant secretary for agricultural economics (change from director).

The establishment of an assistant secretary for merchant marine would enable the consummation of the proposals in my message of December 8 in respect to the Shipping Board.

Service of Construction.

The public works administration should be partially a service agency to the other departments of the Government, executing certain construction work, the subsequent operation of which should be carried on by those departments.

It should also be partially an agency administering certain contract work which can not be delegated to any one department.

Naval, military, and some other highly specialized construction work should not be transferred to this agency. The supervision and construction of rivers and harbors work should be continued under direction of the Army engineers, who should be delegated by the Secretary of War to the service of the administration of public works for this purpose.

The personnel administration should comprise various agencies relating to the personnel of the Government as a service agency to all departments of the Government. I recommend that the Civil Service Commission should be maintained as an advisory body to the personnel administrator, and the approval of this body should be required in all regulatory questions. The personnel administrator should be the chairman of the commission. Other functions relating to the personnel of the Government should be transferred to the personnel administration as may be deemed wise from time to time.

Reclamation Service.

With respect to certain agencies in the Government, I recommend a separate legislative reorganization of policy. The first of these is the reclamation service. Reclamation should have a broader import than that of bringing unproductive land under cultivation. We do not need further additions to our agricultural land at present. Additional agricultural production except such marginal expansion as present projects warrant is inadvisable.

The conservation of water by storage is required, not alone in the West, but in all parts of the country.

The effective development of water conservation through storage is largely an interstate question in the aid of domestic and industrial water supply, transportation, irrigation and flood control. Where construction work for storage relates to these larger issues, it is properly the work of the Federal Government. Where water power is developed as a by-product, it should be disposed of in advance by contracts which will fairly reimburse the Government for its outlay. The reclamation service should be extended to cover these broad purposes of storage and conservation of water rather than the narrow purpose of irrigation.

Such important projects as the dam at Boulder Canyon, the dam at Cove Creek, and the development of the Columbia should ultimately be undertaken when there is need for such service and when contracts can be made for the sale of power to amortize the cost of construction to the Government.

The actual construction work under this plan should be carried out by the public works administrator and the completed projects administered by the reclamation service.

Conservation of Western Ranges.

There should be a change in policy in dealing with public lands if we are to preserve their value for grazing and other purposes. The committee on conservation and administration of the public domain, authorized by act of the Congress approved April 10, 1930, completed the task assigned to it a year ago. Its report has been transmitted to members of the Congress. Legislation carrying into effect the recommendations of the committee also is before the Congress. These proposals are the result of painstaking study and earnest deliberation. They offer a solution of the problems connected with this remnant of our public domain, which have persisted for the past 25 years. I commend the report to the attention of the Congress, deeming the legislation of sufficient importance to justify early action.

Conclusion.

In conclusion, I can not recommend too strongly that the Congress give the subject of effective organization of the executive branch of the Government its early and serious attention. It is an essential part of a sound reconstruction and economy program. A patchwork organization compels inefficiency, waste, and extravagance. Economy and efficiency can come only through modernization. A proper reorganization of our departments, commissions and bureaus will result, not only in much greater efficiency and public convenience, but in the saving of many millions of dollars now extracted annually from our overburdened taxpayers.

RESOURCES DECLINE IN NATIONAL BANKS

Comptroller's Report Shows $4,137,398,000 Drop During 1931.

(Associated Press.)

Aggregate resources of 6,373 national banks in the United States on December 31 were $24,662,286,000, a decrease of $1,083,778,000 since September 29 and a drop of $4,137,398,000 in the year.

Deposits of the banks aggregated $19,244,347,000 on December 31, a decrease of $1,135,037,000 since September and a decrease of $3,627,299,000 in the year.

The figures were made public yesterday by John W. Pole, Comptroller of the Currency and compared those in the December 31 bank call with the data compiled from the calls of September 29 and December 31, 1930.

Total deposits in the December 31 report included balances due to correspondent banks and bankers and certified and cashier checks outstanding of $2,301,018,000, United States deposits of $261,441,000, other demand deposits of $9,071,432,000 and time deposits of $7,610,436,000.

In the time deposits were saving bank deposits of $5,557,766,000 included in 15,005,802 accounts, time certificates of deposits of $1,078,731,000 and postal savings of $353,825,000.

Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, amounted to $11,921,389,000 and showed decreases in the 3 and 12 month periods of $558,546,000 and $2,440,650,000, respectively.

Investments in United States Government securities of $3,176,475,000 showed a decrease since September of $112,792,000, but an increase in the year of $521,639,000. Other bonds and securities held amounting to $4,024,950,000 showed a decrease of $355,066,000 in the three months and $412,280,000 in the year.

Capital stock, paid in, totaled $1,621,449,000 which has $34,925,000 less than in September and $100,710,000 less than on December 31, 1930.

Surplus funds of $1,381,612,000 and net undivided profits, excluding reserve accounts, of $351,597,000, a total of $1,733,209,000 showed a decrease of $192,566,000 in three months and of $331,128,000 in the year.

The 6,373 national banks in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, on December 31, compared with 6,658 in September and 7,038 a year before.

Aiding of Diamond Laid to U.S. Agents

Drug Officials Shielded Gangster From Police, House Group Hears.

(Associated Press.)

Federal narcotic agents were accused of having shielded the notorious Jack Diamond from New York City police yesterday at a House committee hearing on the advisability of investigating narcotic law enforcement.

Representative Black (Democrat), New York, said Deputy Police Inspector John Coughlin had sought to arrest the gangster, since dead, for questioning in connection with his criminal activities.

"Diamond got wind of it and appealed to his friends in the narcotic force," said Black, in urging the investigation. "He surrendered to the Federal narcotic people at Mount Vernon, N. Y., became Federal property, received Federal protection and was let out on bail."

Higher Latin-America Postage Rate in Force

(Associated Press.)

The Postoffice Department yesterday discontinued the 2-cent rate for letter mail to Central and South America and installed a new rate calling for 3 cents for 1 ounce letter mail.

The department now has no country on the list to which 2 cents will carry a first-class letter. A rate of 2 cents for postal cards to Latin America and 4 cents for double postal cards was instituted. The department figured the new rates would increase revenues approximately $2,000,000.

SALES TAX PROGRAM IS READY FOR HOUSE

Treasury-Drafted Bill Will Go Before Committee Tomorrow.

(Associated Press.)

A Treasury-drafted manufactures sales tax bill will be submitted to the House ways and means committee tomorrow with the distinct understanding the administration does not sponsor the proposal.

Secretary Mills divulged to a subcommittee yesterday in executive session that the measure would embody administrative provisions which would enable the department to collect revenue in the event it is incorporated in the new tax bill.

The Cabinet officer made it clear the Treasury maintained its original stand for heavy excise taxes on selected industries as the preferred way of increasing revenue to balance the budget in 1933.

Acting Chairman Crisp announced he would advocate to the committee a provision to make the $1,240,000,000 tax bill an emergency measure with a time limit to be fixed to cover the period necessary to replace the Government on a solid financial basis. This is the first time such a suggestion has been made by a Democratic member of the committee.

The Georgia Democrat said the committee would meet with Secretary Mills again tomorrow. Estimates of revenue from increased income and estate taxes, not based on the Treasury's retroactive feature, will be received.

The Treasury has insisted upon making the proposed increased corporate and individual income taxes apply on 1931 incomes.

"The committee is just in the wilderness as to how to raise the money needed," Crisp said. "We have made some progress, but we have yet to decide on how to raise $800,000,000."

The group already has agreed on higher income and estate taxes, somewhat larger than the Treasury's revised proposals, but they have not been made public.

Substitute Postal Clerks Seek Relief

Baltimoreans Show Pay Averages Less Than $10 Per Week.

In protest against employment conditions affecting substitute postoffice clerks in the Baltimore office, a delegation, headed by Joel Seidman, substitute clerk, called on members of the Maryland delegation in Congress and on Postoffice Department officials yesterday.

As evidence of meager earnings the delegation exhibited pay checks to show that their earnings averaged less than $10 a week. Most of these substitutes have been in the service for a number of years and are trained distributors. They conferred with Chairman Mead, of the House postoffice committee, and Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, on relief legislation. Mr. Seidman contended the Government should guarantee a minimum number of hours of employment and fix a limitation on the period of time for substitution. At present substitutes may work as such for as many as seven or eight years before being appointed to a regular position.

Van Orsdel Speaks Before Rotarians

Phone Company Official Urges Continuance of Washington Ideals.

R. A. Orsdel, general counsel of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., was the principal speaker yesterday at a meeting of the Washington Rotary Club in the Willard Hotel. The meeting was dedicated to the memory of George Washington and Mr. Van Orsdel summarized the First President's ideals for the Nation durnig his term in office.

"In a time of business disruption such as the present," Mr. Van Orsdel said, "much may be gained from a checkup to see how far we are observing American traditions as embodied, for example, in Washington's Farewell Address."

The speaker referred to Washington's stand against entangling alliances with other countries and pointed out his insistence upon maintaining the financial integrity of the Government.

GLASS WARNS OF EUROPEAN RAIDS ON U. S. GOLD SUPPLY

ceased to function. The bankers have become timid and frightened. The chief psychological advantage of this bill is that it gives assurance to these timid bankers."

The measure drew the active support of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and Senator Walcott (Republican), Connecticut. They joined Glass in an exposition of its terms.

No opposition whatever developed during the opening debate. A vote today seemed certain. Passage was assured.

In bringing up the foreign situation, hitherto spoken of very guardedly, Senator Glass said:

"I suppose I may say, without exceeding the caution which ought to be observed, that the Reserve System has been threatened with raids upon its gold supply by foreign nations, notably by France. I would not have said that here, but it has been publicly said elsewhere, so I repeat it here. There has been that threatening situation, the conjecture—and it is a conjecture—that that country wanted to affect our situation with respect to reparations, and with respect to her indebtedness to the United States. I do not make that assertion. I say that is a conjecture.

"The officials of the Bank of France have simply outwitted the officials of the Federal Reserve System of this country, and they have them in that position. The real purpose of this section of the bill is to put foreign nations upon notice that if they, in conjunction with their business men, want to raid the gold supply over here, this is a method of replenishing it."

$1,500,000,000 Expansion.

Responding to the direct question of Senator Shipstead, (Farmer-Laborite), Minnesota, Glass said technically the bill would permit an expansion of the currency by about $1,500,000,000.

This, he said, can be brought about through the release of "free gold" and its use to back new note issues.

While the Federal Reserve has estimated the free gold at $750,000,000, Senator Glass, yesterday put the figure at $465,000,000. He said the banks had a reserve of 76 per cent in gold now whereas they are required only to have a 40 per cent reserve.

Senator Morrison, (Democrat), North Carolina, objected to the reserve member banks being called "hoarders," in the absence of statistics showing their condition.

"Before calling them hoarders," he said, "we ought to know their deposits and what loans already have been made to find out if they are in a position to make further loans. It might possibly be very reckless if they had less paper than they hold now."

Walcott replied he was not "impugning any ulterior motive" to these banks, but it was generally known they had much eligible paper on hand.

Three Amendments Offered.

Senator Thomas, (Democrat), Oklahoma, proposed an amendment to the bill which would eliminate the one-year limitation on operation of the measure.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, introduced an amendment to prevent loans for stock speculation. It provided that advances made by a Federal Reserve Bank to a member bank which loaned for speculation would become immediately payable, and the bank would be ineligible as a borrower for a period of 90 days.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, offered an amendment to eliminate the feature requiring banks to form groups of five to obtain the new rediscounting privileges under the permanent provision of the bill.

Glass read statistics showing that fewer than 100 banks of the 7,600 belonging to the Federal Reserve System, have actually exhausted their paper eligible for rediscount, while more than $8,000,000,000 of good paper are held.

He said he had been convinced after consultation with those responsible for the country's banking system that such a measure as this is necessary to make the bankers of the country "realize their obligations to the Nation and stop hoarding their eligible assets."

Senator Walcott also charged a large number of the member banks were "hoarding" eligible paper.

Bank Hoarding Assailed.

"In the banks today hoardings are so numerous," he said, "that business in the places where the banks are located finds it difficult to borrow money. Currency is hard to get. The facts that loans are not being made where they ought has brought about a situation which has only one remedy.

"There will be no recovery until that eligible paper can find a place to lodge safely and receive United States currency in its place and release the cash to avenues of trade.

"We must eliminate fear. The figures show that while our banking system is filled with eligible paper, loans are not being made and business and industry is suffering."

Walcott said enactment of the measure "will build up a gold supply so it will be a gold Gibraltar that will defy the world."

"Our free gold supply," he said, "will be so great that the world will be amazed at our strength."

He said application of the term "inflation" to the features for broadening Federal Reserve rediscount eligibility "may be" justified but asserted it is "not a dangerous kind of inflation, such as Germany and France understood after the war."

$10,000,000 Farm Fund Is Created by Congress

(Associated Press.)

Congress agreed yesterday to contribute $10,000,000 toward providing credit for the farmers, but was still undecided on how liberally to make loans with the money.

Both the Senate and House passed measures creating a $10,000,000 revolving fund for advances to agricultural and live stock credit corporations or to individuals forming such corporations. The House vote was 151 to 35, while the Senate did not go on record.

The House would make the fund permament, but the Senate would not permit loans after July 1, 1934. Also, the Senate would restrict loans to 50 per cent of the corporations' capital stock, while the House bill would raise the limit to 75 per cent.

Insurance Official Fights Home Loan Bank Project

(Associated Press.)

William H. Kingsley, vice president of the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, yesterday opposed the Administration Home Loan Bank bill on the grounds there was no immediate need for new homes.

He told a Senate banking subcommittee considering the bill that it also would "wind up with the Government owning a great deal of real estate through mortgage foreclosures" and that its purpose already was embraced in the reconstruction act.

"There is an oversupply of modern homes purchasable at lower figures and on easier terms than could be applied to new houses," Kingsley said, "hence the latter would deflate and further lower values, thus lessening security under mortgages now in good standing and probably would necessitate additional foreclosures."

Kingsley agreed there should be some agency created to permit home mortgages to be used as collateral for loans, but objected to having it permanent.

SPEYER DIES; 'MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY'

Held Pro-German During War, Sir Edgar Quit Post in London; Came to U.S.

Berlin, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Sir Edgar Speyer, once known as the modern "man without a country," died in a clinic here last night in his seventieth year.

He arrived in Berlin recently for a nasal operation and appeared fit, but died of hemorrhage. Mrs. Speyer was expected from New York shortly.

During the World War, while Sir Edgar was a member of the British privy council, and the man who ran London's subways, there arose a clamor over his patriotism. Newspapers said he was pro-German. Sir Edgar resigned from the privy council and asked that his baronetcy be revoked. He said he felt honor bound to do so.

The baronet came to America, but soon was called upon to defend his membership in the privy council and it was decided that he was entitled to his seat. In 1920 Sir Edgar sold his holdings in London and it was announced he was going to the United States and would not return.

The next year a stattitory committee took up the question of his citizenship again and at the end of its inquiry it was announced his British naturalization had been revoked. The revocation applied to his wife and minor heirs also.

Records showed that Sir Edgar Speyer was born on September 7, 1862, at Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany, the son of Gustave Speyer, head of a prominent banking house. Friends said he was a native of New York. Speyer & Co. issued a statement in New York yesterday giving biographical data intended to show Sir Edgar was a native of New York City, the brother of James Speyer, of the New York banking firm. Sir Edgar became a citizen of the United States when his British naturalization was revoked.

When Sir Edgar's citizenship was revoked the reasons given were that he had traded with the enemy during the war and had shown disloyalty to the king. Strangely enough he retained his British title. When he offered to give it up in 1914 the king had notified him that he was "not prepared to take action."

COSTA-RICA CAPITAL CLEARED FOR BATTLE

Quesada's Barracks, Across From U. S. Legation, to Be Bombarded Today.

San Jose, Costa Rica, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The government today ordered that all civilians evacuate San Jose, the capital of Costa Rica, by 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, the hour set for a bombardment of the Bella Vista Barracks, headquarters of a rebellious movement led by Manuel Castro Quesada, defeated candidate for president.

Several rounds of artillery were fired into the barracks by loyalist troops this afternoon. Throughout the day government troops and the rebels exchanged shots, but only a few were wounded. The government announced tonight that the barracks had been completely surrounded.

Ricardo Jimenez, victor in last Sunday's presidential election on the basis of unofficial returns, declared he would not renounce the presidency.

Panama City, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Dispatches from San Jose, Costa Rica, said today that the government had ordered the United States Legation abandoned and that the Bella Vista Barracks, just across the street from the legation, were being bombarded in an effort to break up the rebellion.

A considerable battle was going on, the dispatches said, and the rebels had lost many killed, wounded and prisoners. Previous reports from the Costa Rican capital declared that Charles C. Eberhardt, the American Minister, had offered his good offices to mediate the conflict.

ATTACKING BUREAUCRACY.

Reorganization of the executive departments is a necessity of Goverment economy. Hundreds of useless bureaus, agencies, commissions and boards now sap the vitality of the Government. Vast sums of money are wasted in the duplication of work and the unrolling of red tape. Reorganization in the interests of economy and efficiency is a demand that Congress must face.

President Hoover has brought this subject to the attention of Congress several times. Nothing has yet been done. In the meantime the Government has acquired a $2,000,000,000 deficit. Economy has become an absolute necessity. The President's special message puts the issue before Congress in such a way that it can not be ignored.

The President offers to take much of the responsibility for this retrenchment into his own hands. Congress has tried before to reorganize the departments, but politics has always frustrated its efforts. Elaborate plans have been made and then sidetracked, because of pressure from the interests affected by the proposed reform. "Proposals to the Congress of detailed plans for the reorganization of the many different bureaus and independent agencies," says President Hoover, "have always proved in the past to be a signal for the mobilization of opposition from all quarters, which has destroyed the possibility of constructive action."

The Senate finance committee has already approved a measure giving the President authority to consolidate the agencies under his supervision and redistribute their functions. This is virtually the same authority that Mr. Hoover requests in his special message. His plan is to center the reorganization work in the White House, with the provision that Congress might set aside executive orders for this purpose within 60 days of their issue.

In this way the President could relieve senators and representatives of the necessity of voting on measures that affect their friends and constituents in the executive departments. Most congressmen realize that a major operation on the bureaucratic structure of the Government is essential, and they would rather let the President do it than attempt it themselves. With the proper safeguard proposed in the President's message there seems to be no reason why he should not have this authority.

Mr. Hoover's plan, however, would not relieve Congress of responsibility. He suggests that Congress by law should designate the title of officers to be placed in executive control of each major group of administrative activities. Congress might thus shape the general trend of the reorganization without attempting to work out the details of consolidation, into which political pressure chiefly enters.

The problem is not one that either the President or Congress can solve alone. If Congress should set up the guide lines and give the President ample authority to fill in the details—in such a way that no hardship will be worked upon employes who have given part of their lives to the Government service—many millions of dollars can be saved. The elimination of red tape and duplication would also save expense to people doing business with the Government. This proposed reorganization is of sufficient importance to be included among the emergency reconstruction measures.

EXIT LAVAL.

France is left in a difficult predicament by the overthrow of Premier Laval's cabinet. Contrary to the general practice, M. Laval went down under an adverse vote in the Senate, which is controlled by the radical party. He still has the support and confidence of the Chamber of Deputies, which is dominated by the more conservative groups. It will be extremely difficult to form a new cabinet that can command support in both chambers.

A notable weakness in the French system of government is brought out in bold relief by this situation. In Great Britain the cabinet is responsible only to the House of Commons. In the United States the administration is not responsible to Congress at all. But in France either chamber of Parliament may upset the government by simply voting lack of confidence. That practice makes it extremely difficult to formulate a stable cabinet when control over the two houses is divided. Antagonistic politicians are able to keep the administration in a continuous state of disorganization.

Premier Laval was denied a vote of confidence because of his general policy. The only immediate issue before Parliament was the electoral reform bill, which M. Laval carried through the Chamber of Deputies last week. By eliminating proportional representation this measure would have weakened the left groups, which have gained considerable strength in recent elections. Aside from this, however, there is widespread discord resulting from Premier Laval's international policies.

Dissatisfaction with the results of M. Laval's visit to President Hoover is undoubtedly an important element in his defeat. The French premier was unable to establish any link between reparations and war debts, or to obtain any concessions from the United States. Insofar as tangible achievements are concerned, his excursion to the United States was a complete failure. The result is always the same when French statesmen come to America and return home claiming more than they have obtained.

Furthermore, France has felt the pangs of depression in recent months in common with the rest of the world. In some respects France has considered this era of distress her opportunity to extend her domination over Europe. France has accumulated a huge supply of gold. Only under terrific pressure did M. Laval agree to the Hoover moratorium, and then only in part. In the face of world-wide distress and burdensome taxation, Premier Laval's government took an extremely arbitrary attitude toward disarmament at the Geneva conference. If the policy announced by Andre Tardieu, minister of war, is maintained by France it will mean that the world, including French taxpayers, can expect no relief from excessive burdens of armaments.

Unemployment, heavy taxes, an adverse balance of trade and business stagnation are beginning to change the attitude of the French people on some of these fundamental policies. France can not refuse to cooperate with Europe without weakening her own economic structure. Dissatisfaction may be expected to gather momentum unless a more conciliatory attitude is assumed by the new administration. France is not powerful enough to "bestride the world like a Colossus." In the formation of a new government, as well as in the forthcoming elections, the French people may demand reasonable moderation of national policy.

FIGHTING THE UNEMPLOYED.

It seems incredible that the advocates of Federal alms for the unemployed should renew their drive in Congress immediately after the La Follette-Costigan bill went down to overwhelming defeat in the Senate. Yet the Democratic substitute measure, calling for $750,000,000 in the form of loans to the States and donations for public improvements, has been reintroduced in the Senate, and efforts are being made to bring the dole issue before the House.

Two votes in the Senate show that that body is unalterably opposed to Federal handouts to the States. Therefore it would be futile to waste the time of the House in consideration of such measures. Furthermore, it is certain that if both houses should be stampeded into voting for a bureaucratic charity system, the measure would be vetoed at the White House. There is not even a remote chance that the depleted Treasury can be opened to the unemployed.

Politicians who continue to arouse hopes in the hearts of State legislators, city councilmen, charitable organizations and distressed citizens that a Federal contribution will be forthcoming are practicing vicious deception. They are actually frustrating the orderly functioning of local relief agencies. So long as there is hope of largess from Uncle Sam, State and local officials hesitate to perform their obvious duty. Instead of performing a service to the unemployed the false Santa Clauses on Capitol Hill are demoralizing the institutions upon which the needy depend for sustenance and shelter.

Blatant demagogues have attempted to make this an issue of relieving hungry citizens. That is not the question decided by Congress. Accusations that the foes of the La Follette dole would let children starve is the rankest nonsense.

Every one knows that American communities will not allow their suffering ones to go unrelieved. The only question on which the Senate has passed is that the States and local agencies of government rather than a Federal bureau must provide relief. It is preposterous to assume that the cities, counties and States, the agencies of the people themselves, are incapable of handling this problem. Distribution of the tax burden is inequitable in some States, but that is no reason why the Government should take over their responsibilities. Relief is being and will be supplied by the States and their political subdivisions.

Every effort to revive the dole issue in Washington is a blow at the institutions which the people have set up to assist their unfortunate fellow citizens through this crisis. Every politician who further wastes the time of Congress by agitation for bureaucratic alms is an enemey of the unemployed.

SOVIET COTTON.

News from Russia of a novel machine for harvesting cotton is causing interest if not some alarm among cotton planters in this country. In 1929 of the combined cotton imports to Great Britain from the United States and Russia only .05 per cent came from the Soviet. In 1930 the amount increased to 1 per cent, while in the first eleven months of 1931 it rose to 30 per cent. The Associated Press reports that exceptionally fine cotton is arriving by shiploads in Liverpool and Manchester from Russia.

Nearly one-third of the world's cotton spinning spindles are within a radius of 30 miles of Liverpool and Manchester. The exchanges in this district are the only ones in the world where every type and quality of commercial cotton is to be had for prompt delivery. English spinners and cotton growers from every part of the world have at their command unequaled information and facilities. It is, therefore, significant that Lancashire reports Russian cotton to be superior in staple length, grade and all-round spinning qualities to the better American varieties. Russian cotton is selling in England at 55 to 75 points higher than comparable American types.

The Soviet Chamber of Commerce for western trade has announced that a mechanical picker built in Russia has been tested in central Asia and found successful in harvesting fifteen to seventeen acres a day. If this machine is practical it will revolutionize the industry. With modern tractors and cultivators a man in this country can manage 200 acres alone, except that three times a year he needs at least 25 workers to bring in his crop fast enough to keep it from being damaged by the weather. In America a new invention which will be used for the next crop will permit a man to handle up to 100 acres alone.

Most American growers, however, expect to make a year's income out of 100 days' labor required in raising their cotton crop. Such a system could not survive in competition with the intensive methods employed in Russia. Recently a Soviet official at a banquet for an American trade delegation predicted that within a few decades Russia would be competing with America in all the cotton markets of the world, with a crop of 15,000,000 bales. The growing competition of Russia, as well as from other countries, warns the American cotton planter he must give more attention to diversification of crops, investigate the cultivation of ramie and regulate cotton production to conform more nearly to the demands of the American market.

The new Reconstruction Finance Corporation is besieged with applications. The difficulty will be separating those asking for loans and those seeking jobs.

The popularity of short-wave sets that tune in on police signals accounts for the diminished sale of detective stories.

The 5-5-3 ratio seems to be five notes from the league, five from Uncle Sam and three new places captured by Japan.

The league says that it will not recognize any territory seized by Japan. It would be hard for anybody to recognize it.

AMERICA AND JAPAN

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. Navy.

IV.

In the three preceding articles we estimated the effectiveness of the combatant ships of the United States and Japanese navies. We concluded that their relative effectiveness during 1932 could be expressed by the ratio: United States, 10; Japan, 8.6.

Now this was based upon an evaluation of the tonnage and material effectiveness of the ships. Two other factors are necessary for completing the picture. The first is naval personnel. We mention this more to show the incompleteness of our picture than to give any concrete opinions as to the relative efficiency of personnel. Frankly, I know of no person today who is able to give an authoritative opinion on this point. If we could have the Japanese fleet conduct our engineering competitions and target practices and then compare their scores with ours we might be able to gain a good idea of the relative efficiency of American and Japanese naval personnel. But until that time it would be both idle and dangerous to speculate in public on this point. I could state my belief that our personnel is inferior to none, but every Japanese officer would probably say the same for his service. I mention the factor of personnel only to show that it is an unknown quantity of predominating importance and one which, when determined by the first events of a naval war, may modify greatly all purely material comparisons of forces.

The other factor to which consideration must be given is the supply and repair of the fleets. Should our fleet be based in the western Pacific it would be under a disadvantage in having inadequate bases and, in particular, dry docks. This disadvantage, however, should not be exaggerated. In the first place, our fleet has been made self-supporting to a remarkable degree. We have developed our fleet repair facilities to a degree unknown in other navies. The cruise of the fleet around the world 24 years ago was a demonstration of our ability in this respect. This was confirmed by the recent fleet cruise to Australia. Admittedly the problem of repairing underwater damage is a difficult one. But our constructors have always taken great precautions to build our ships to resist underwater attack. And, if necessary, we must fall back upon that ingenuity and resourcefulness for which Americans have always been noted. Possibly it may be rather an intangible argument, but I can not believe that the men whose ancestors built Baileys Dam and saved an entire fleet will fail to patch up such a hole in a battleship's side as a mine or torpedo may now inflict.

Thus far our story has related only to 1932. It may now be of interest to forecast the developments of 1933. It is a remarkable fact that Japan's extensive building program ends with 1932. Not a single vessel will be completed during 1933 and only a very few will then be building. However, the modernization of all their capital ships will be completed. Work on two out of three of our capital ships under modernization will also be completed. This will bring our capital ship strength to fourteen ships of 430,600 tons to the Japanese total of 272,070. For 1932 we considered our ships 15 per cent more effective. Now that all the Japanese ships have been modernized we believe this superiority should be decreased to 10 per cent. Subtracting this amount from the Japanese total gives 244,863.

The completion of three fine 8-inch cruisers, which should be the best afloat, will add 30,000 tons to the United States total in this type. Two submarines, totaling 2,260 tons, also will be completed. These changes will give the following comparative totals for 1933:

United States	898,785

This gives the ratio of 10 for America to 7.8 for Japan during 1933.

If we go beyond that year we can add our fifteenth battleship, two fine 8-inch cruisers and what should be the best aircraft carrier afloat. However, as against these favorable items, we must make drastic reductions for the increasing ineffectiveness of our destroyers and submarines. These losses in destroyer and submarine effectiveness will almost counterbalance our gains in the larger types. With our present building program the best ratio we can hope to reach seems about 10 for America to 7.5 for Japan.

Deeper, Deeper!

POST HASTE.

If the millions of citizens who are aiding the unemployed had suspended work yesterday to let Uncle Sam do it, the dole appropriation, wisely defeated in the Senate, would not have lasted two weeks.

Analysis of the adverse vote on the La Follette dole bill gives the added assurance that any similar measure that might secure a majority vote could not be passed over a veto.

Double check on Senator Davis! Last week he flopped on prohibition to catch Pennsylvania wets, and then he had the pipedream that he could capture Pinchotites by voting for a Federal hand-out.

The sorriest and most unexpected spectacle during the Senate vote on the dole was to see the Hon. James Hamilton Lewis, spats and all, astride the fence.

A vote by Republican senators alone would have defeated the La Follette bill by 27 to 15; Democratic senators opposed it by 21 to 19. The Seventy-second Congress had given repeated proof that there are American principles which supersede party differences.

Since Japan does not appreciate the irony of her demand that the Chinese do the retiring from the Shanghai area it is easy to realize why Occidental suggestions do not penetrate.

Technically Premier Laval's fall was due to a vote on a minor electoral matter; actually it was the result of his failure to take back from Washington active support for French reparation and defense policies. His was but the fate of other French envoys who have come here with ingenious schemes for overreaching Uncle Sam.

British authorities have ordered Miss Madeline Slade, Gandhi's disciple, out of Bombay. It is going to be hard for her to find another job where the cooking and laundering will be so light.

Senator Moses, in Chicago, protested that he had quit making biological allusions, and in exchange delivered himself of the sage counsel that "the great need is to restore the country's pay rolls and build up the American market for America's products."

The American legion job drive placed nearly 17,000 unemployed in positions the first day. That's better than a barrage on the empty 'ole in the Treasury.

Joe Tumulty said right out in meeting that politics has been "making an appeal to prejudices instead of an appeal to the handsome passions of men." And it was a ladies' club, too.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

JANET COMPLAINS.

I'm tired of being nine years old
And always doing as I'm told,
I'm tired of saying what I should;
Tired of rememb'ring to be good,
And tired of being fit to see,
Dressed up in things picked out for me.

I'm sure it must be nice to be
All old as thirty-two or three
And have nobody telling you
What's wrong with everything you do.
I'm tired of being called back to say
"Excuse me, please," and "if I may."

It must be nice to come and go
And never hear the cry, "No! No!"
Or sit at table, and when they Pass spinach greens, look up and say,
"No, thank you," and not start a row
And have to eat them anyhow.

I'm tired of being sent to bed,
Of being washed and being fed,
Of being thoughtful and polite,
Of doing things exactly right.
I'm tired of hearing people scold;
I'm tired of being nine years old.

The Lieutenant and Not the General Feels the Need of Salutes.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MANY people long for wealth because they wish to "be somebody."

They are not unhappy for want of great houses, servants, fleets of cars and yachts.

They live in baleful discontent because they feel inferior, and they covet wealth because they believe it would enable them to feel important.

It is not wealth they desire, but self-respect.

To plan your life on the assumption that wealth is essential to happiness or decent pride is to invite and merit disaster.

There isn't enough wealth in the land to provide a surplus for everybody; the winning of wealth requires rare good fortune or a peculiar type of mind and conscience; and no fortune is secure against the moths that corrupt and the thieves that break through and steal.

As the sole and proper foundation of self-respect, wealth commends itself only to the unthinking and the simple.

There is another and better foundation, available to all. It consists in being respectable.

Consider the engineer of a locomotive.

He has no wealth, but he is content with himself and his world. He feels at ease in the presence of the rich and the great. His job is necessary and useful; he is a trained man not easily replaced; he knows his worth to the world, demands and receives respect, and therefore respects himself.

He isn't unhappy without wealth because he doesn't feel inferior without it.

You can enter any community in America, except the resorts of the social elect, and win universal respect simply by working at your job, speaking the language of intelligent and well-informed people, and behaving like one who respects himself and takes it for granted that the world will respect him as well.

If that were not true, middle-class people would be uniformly miserable.

The first essential is to deserve your own good opinion. Once that is achieved, you can face the world without misgivings and no mere money loss can break your spirit. You may enjoy wealth, if good fortune brings it, but you won't need it.

College degrees mean little to an inventor who has won fame and fortune without them.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

New York "Uplifters" in Kentucky.

Middlesboro (Ky.) Daily News.

The Crusading Uplifters from New York City have come and gone.

Coming into southeastern Kentucky heralded by headline blasts, flanked by grinding cameras and self-appointed press agents, prepared to lift fallen humanity out of its misery here in the mountains, the Uplifters met a cold, sullen, ominous hostility on the part of the Kentucky mountaineer. They found they were not wanted, and retired in disorder, disappointed, discouraged, disillusioned.

It was a merry band of Uplifters who started out. They had heard of much "misery" and "starvation" in the mountains, from the Dreiser delegation. There was a chance for a bold stroke, both at uplifting and headlining. All being writers and "liberal" crusaders, they had a double opportunity.

Invited by the officials to distribute their food products in the mining camps where it was needed, and not in the City of Pineville, where local welfare agencies were taking care of their needy as best they could, the Uplifters demurred. They fumed. They did not think it right. They had "constitutional rights." They felt the officers were arbitrary. They had come all the way from New York City to snap and film a great mass meeting of Uplifting on the court-house lawn, and they could not admit defeat. The circumstances of the uplifting were more important than the Uplift. After several hours in an atmosphere of growing hostility, the situation became tense. Rumor flew around that an attempted jail delivery was at hand. Suspected disturbers were rounded up and jailed. Then in the deep, heavy night which settles so ominously on the hills, the writers were escorted out, and told never to return.

Senate Inquisitors.

Chicago Tribune.

Secretary Hurley was inevitably destined to suffer insolence and pettifogging in the Senate committee hearings on Philippine relations. But he has done a public service in refusing to submit. Senate inquisitions have become a scandal in recent years. Time after time the interrogation of citizens in these proceedings has descended to the level of an old-time justice court and senators with the ethics of shysters repeatedly have bullied witnesses and tried to pervert their answers. Committees or committee members have flagrantly infringed the guaranties of civil rights and abused their authority, exploiting the respect in which the Senate, as an institution, is held to overawe citizens summoned before them, confuse them, and impose unfair implications upon their responses.

Domestic Issue for Democracy.

Kansas City Times.

Why should Democracy "go to New York for a candidate," asks Gov. Murray, of Oklahoma, "when we have lost it in 'three straights,'" and when "neither of them (Smith or Roosevelt) can carry it at this time?" It is a pertinent question, and the governor has put it at the strategic moment. The idea should strike fire at once, for all the governor's modesty in launching it. Why should Democracy go East for a candidate when it can get one in Oklahoma?

Eager to Cooperate.

Indianapolis Star.

If Al Smith keeps on emphasizing that he is not a candidate, he will find Roosevelt men doing their best to agree with him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Hard-Boiled Republican Wants All Democrats "Kicked Out" as Necessary Prelude to Prosperity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to compliment The Post for the editorial entitled "The House Tariff Bill." I wish it were possible for it to be reprinted in every newspaper in the country, for it truthfully shows what we the people can expect if we are foolish enough to entrust the national affairs of our country to a Democratic administration for the next four years.

The Democrats accuse the President of being a tool of the international bankers, yet they propose to adopt measures that the international bankers have been trying without success to get the Republicans to adopt. The Democrats should remember that it was their party in power during the World War that tried to get the United States entangled permanently in the European mess. We were told that we were fighting to end war forever, and the way the Democratic politicians put it, there would be no future wars, no unemployment for labor, in fact, many people were lead to believe that the millennium was due to be ushered in. Yet look what has resulted from the superidealism preached at that time! Italy is ruled by a dictator, Russia by a small group of paranoiacs, called the Soviet; Germany is threatened by a civil war, India is in turmoil, as well as China, France is more militaristic than Germany ever was, before 1914; England has lost prestige by the stupid rule of a Socialist Labor government, and if the Democratic party had been in control of our national Government since 1920, I shudder to think of the conditions that the country would be in now. It would make the present depression look like a picnic.

Let's get back to sanity and kick out the so-caled progressives and Democratic theorists, and elect a majority of conservative Republicans to both houses of Congress this year. Then prosperity will be restored.

EDWARD D. LYLE.

Unwise to Turn Philippines Loose Until They Can Maintain Independence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When Secretary Hurley said to the House insular committee, "The political chaos in the Orient today is such that in my opinion this is no time to deal with Philippine independence," it was in my opinion a convincing earful.

Whether in the first place it was wise to hold the Philippine Islands in political leading-strings was open to question. Now that they have under our guidance, made notable progress in the direction of political and economic stability, care should be taken lest by hasty action we sacrifice what has already been accomplished. There is wisdom in the policy of those who would defer granting the islands their independence until it seems certain that beyond the shadow of a doubt they are fully competent to maintain their governmental integrity.

Accordingly, it will be the part of wisdom to defer consideration of Philippine independence so long as "the political chaos in the Orient" continues. Even admitting that the Filipinos are fit and ready for self-government, to cut them loose at this time would be unkind, and might before long acquaint them with conditions more irksome than those with which they are familiar as wards of Uncle Sam.

FEDERALIST.

Parent Sees Danger to School Children Exposed to Bad Weather in Capitol Exercises.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I understand that on Washington's Birthday 10,000 school children are to assemble and sing on the Capitol steps.

This is unfortunate. February 22 is winter, not summer. It is earlier even than that pneumonia-infested day, March 4. City children are not hardy enough to stand in line on a winter day for the long wait that always precedes such an event, or hardy enough to sit still in chairs or on cold steps while the managers of the affair keep themselves warm hustling about.

PARENT.

Congress a Good Check Rein on War-like Propensities in Times of Stress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Having followed with approval your straightforward and judicious comments on Japan's invasion of China, my feeling of pride is renewed in the fact that under our Constiution the Congress stands as a definite check against undue manifestation of the militaristic spirit if, unfortunately, it should ever dominate the administrative branch of the government in our foreign intercourse.

If the need for such a check were as well recognized in the countries of the Old World as it is in this, it would bring us a long step nearer to world peace, and in the present attitude of Japan we have a frightful illustration of what is likely to happen where it is not in force.

C. P. WEED.

Hopes Places of Business Will Close on Washington's Birthday.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is a rumor that some stores will remain open on George Washington's Birthday. In view of the fact that the Capital City is most interested in the Bicentennial and that the majority of places of business, including Federal offices, will be closed, I should think the stores would wish to express their patriotic spirit by remaining closed on this day.

Most persons would be satisfied to shop on the Saturday preceding Washington's Birthday. Then, too, what a much better showing this would be for the many visitors in the District of Columbia.

ROOSEVELT PONDERS FARLEY ACCUSATION

Governor Hears Evidence Against Sheriff and Tammany Chief.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—A demand by Samuel Seabury, Tammany foe, for the removal of Sheriff Thomas M. Farley of New York was taken under advisement by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today at the end of a two-day hearing, during which the governor called upon Farley to give a "credible explanation" of his large bank accounts.

What political effect, if any, the governor's decision would have on the attitude of Tammany Hall toward his presidential candidacy or the position of Southern and Western Democratic foes of Tammany was a subject of wide speculation. The governor is not expected to give a decision on the case of Farley, a Tammany leader, before Sunday. He will leave tomorrow for a trip to the western part of the State and will return Sunday.

Seabury Charges Graft.

At the hearing today Samuel Seabury, investigator of New York's government and an anti-Tammany Democrat, pleaded with the governor to remove Farley. The word "graft" echoed in Seabury's impassioned argument as he sought to show that the "wonderful tin box" explanation of Farley's $375,000 bank deposits was "an insult to your excellency's intelligence."

In return, a charge that Farley was an honest man victimized by Seabury's "vaulting ambition" was made by the 6-foot sheriff's counsel, Siegfried Hartman.

"I don't understand why the governor didn't remove him at once," Seabury said.

"Multiple Deposits" Claim.

The Farley defense was based on "multiple deposits," the contention that the same money was chalked up on bank records many times in transactions involving loans, real estate deals and security purchases and sales. But the governor said deduction of these items still left some $250,000 inadequately explained.

"You see, sheriff, my trouble is this," the governor said. "Every time we run down one of these items we find either that it has been deducted already in making up the total of the $357,000, or else that it has been added to the total known assets, salary plus commissions, and it still leaves a discrepancy of somewhere around $250,000."

"It is pretty hard to explain it in detail when I haven't got the records before me," Farley said. "I never took a dishonest dollar in my life. Every dollar I deposited was money I had saved."

"How could you save that money on your salary?"

"Of course, it is a large sum to have deposited, but when it is taken out and redeposited over again it doesn't take long to have the amount increase."

Senator Harris Rests Well.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia, was said yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital to have passed a somewhat restless night, but was described as resting more easily yesterday. The senator, who is 64, is suffering from intestional influenza and a kidney condition which will necessitate an operation.

FURTHER GAS RATE SLASH SEEN LIKELY AFTER HEARING

een months will benefit consumers to the extent of more than $642,000.

"I want to call attention to the fact," Mr. Lambert said, "that in September, 1930, less than eighteen months ago, the companies appeared here with their first application, made shortly after the present interests had acquired the company, and they made the offer to reduce to customers by way of rates submitted at that time, in amounts which they estimated—your honors will recall the testimony given by Mr. Burroughs, which was very illuminating. They expected to suffer a loss, or, rather, it would cost $400,000 or more to put into effect the rates they were offering, but by economies and increased popularization of gas and the use thereof it was anticipated that it would be a beneficial thing for both the company and the public.

"The prophecy that he made in that respect has proven correct, because we come here now with this schedule and ask approval of rates which we estimate will save the people of Washington some $211,000. That added to what we have saved them under the rate schedule which you appropriately approved in September, 1930, would mean a saving to the people of Washington of something over $642,000 in less than the 18-months period with what may come in the future months."

Just a short while before the hearing adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, placed Thomas R. Tate, valuation engineer for the commission, on the stand and questioned him briefly regarding thirteen alternative domestic schedules and a half dozen proposals on schedule C, a commercial service.

The one domestic schedule which stood out and upon which Mr. Roberts based most of his questioning of the witness proposed a charge of $1 for the first 1,000 cubic feet, 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for the next 2,000, and 85 cents per 1,000 for all in excess of 3,000 cubic feet used each month. This would result in a total saving of $134,484 to Schedule A customers or would exceed the reduction submitted by the gas company by nearly $35,000.

This schedule is similar to an alternative proposal made by People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech and provides for about the same total reduction, but it differs from the latter's first proposal designed to throw most of the saving to the average consumer.

People's Counsel Keech yesterday morning proposed a rate of $1, per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 1,500 cubic feet and 85 cents per 1,000 for all in excess. This contrasted with the present rate of $1 for the first 1,500 cubic feet and 90 cents for each additional 1,000 and the four-step proposed reductions of $1 for the first 1,000 feet, 90 cents per 1,000 for the next 4,000 feet, 85 cents for the next 45,000 feet, and 80 cents for each 1,000 feet in excess of 50,000.

Under Mr. Keech's proposal savings of from 7 to 16 cents would be made on the monthly bills of the average customers instead of only 5 cents under the gas company's schedules. Those savings are based on consumption from 2,100 to 5,000 cubic feet consumption each month.

Another Schedule Offered.

Within the classification of average consumers using between 3,200 and 3,500 cubic feet of gas a month, Mr. Keech's proposal would fix a rate of 9 cents under the present charge and of 4 cents under the proposed rates of both the company and Mr. Roberts.

Another schedule submitted by Mr. Roberts late yesterday would eliminate the demand charge in Schedule B, which is the house heating service, and would substitute a minimum charge of $4 or $5. It is his contention that the public does not understand a demand charge. The minimum rate would be applicable for only seven months, thus eliminating the summer charge, as the company itself has already proposed.

Testimony of gas company representatives yesterday morning indicated that the Washington Gas Light Co. is planning to compete seriously with the Potomac Electric Power Co. in the fields of heating and refrigeration. The company proposed two new schedules to cover this service and suggested a considerable rate cut in a third schedule.

Policy Is Defended.

Walter M. Russell, chief engineer of the gas company, explained the concern's reduction proposals at length during the morning and defended the policy of devoting the major benefits of rate cuts to the large domestic user and the commercial customers. He declared that the small customer is relatively unimportant in producing revenue. The proposed schedules, he admitted, are promotional and designed to produce greater consumption of gas.

Arthur Dean, counsel for Chase, Harris, Forbes & Co., New York bankers, who negotiated the purchase of the gas company two years ago, did most of the examination for the gas company although Wilton J. Lambert, local counsel, participated.

Because of the volume of Mr. Roberts' statistical tabulations submitted late yesterday, both Mr. Dean and Mr. Keech asked for more time to question the commission's witness regarding the computations. The hearing, which was expected to last only a day, consequently was carried over until tomorrow. Today the members of the commission and Mr. Roberts must attend a hearing at the Capitol.

U. S. ECONOMY PLEA IS MADE BY RITCHIE

Charges Taxes Could Be Cut if Useless Expenditures Were Eliminated.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland last night urged that the Government balance its budget and "make a determined try at spending not more, not the same amount, but less of the earnings and savings of the American people."

Speaking under the auspices of the American Taxpayers League, the Maryland chief executive, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the cost of Federal Government had increased, "roughly, 450 per cent" during the last two decades.

"Every dollar the Government spends is taken from the pockets of the American people," he said. In 1913, less than twenty years ago, the combined income and earnings of the American people were $34,000,000,000, and of this amount governmental expenditures took $3,000,000,000, or less than 9 per cent.

"Last year the combined income and earnings of the American people were $70,000,000,000, of which amount Government expenditures took $14,000,000,000, or 20 per cent."

He said, in looking over the list of Federal activities, it was obvious that a lot of them could be eliminated.

He added that the Government gave intricate information about such things as "the efficacy of vending machines for hot dogs, the habits of frogs, and whether love-making is more prevalent indoors or out."

Even more costly, Gov. Ritchie said, were excursions into "the realm of private business."

Fliers Photograph New District Areas

Plane Encounters Gale and 14 Below Zero at High Altitude.

Flying more than 4½ miles above the city, two Bolling Field men yesterday made photographs of the District which, when developed, may also include a considerable part of Maryland and Virginia.

Both the pilot of the plane, Lieut. David W. Goodrich, and the photographer, Sergt. Andrew E. Matos, were obliged to use oxygen tanks at the high altitude, encountering a temperature of 14 degrees below zero and a 70-mile gale.

The flight was made in a specially equipped photographic plane, powered with a supercharged motor for flying in the rare atmosphere. Sergt. Matos accidentally cut off his oxygen supply and became unconscious, not reviving until the plane reached the denser air of a lower altitude.

The GIRL About Town

THE recent marriage of Mrs. Edith Sanger Carlisle to Maj. Barnes is the culmination of a youthful romance. Maj. and Mrs. Barnes will be stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, and the latter's daughter, Kate Carlisle, is pursuing her musical interests at the Peabody Institute in Baltimore. Kate seems to come by her musical talent naturally, as her aunt, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, is one of Washington's well-known musicians, and has done much to further production and appreciation of music here.

The announcement of Caroline Morton's engagement to Brent Morgan signalizes the union of two extremely attractive and popular members of the younger set. I have it on good authority that Caroline broke several hearts in Leesburg last summer. As a member of an old Alexandria family she is appearing as one of her ancestors at the ball at Gadsby's Tavern.

Washington artists showed their abilities in costume designing and decorations at the colorful Bal Boheme, which I hear was quite a financial success. Many of the costumes were grotesque, some amusing, but one of the handsomest was a period costume of wine-colored velvet worn by Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor. Dr. Grosvenor was not in costume, but Melville Grosvenor was wearing the garb of a Breton fisherman, and young Mrs. Melville wore an authentic French peasant costume.

I WAS tremendously impressed by the dancing of Escudero, the Spanish gypsy, and his two danseuses, Carmela and Carmita. There was a decided contrast between the two, Carmela having a certain haughty distinction, but lacking the animation and vivacity of Carmita. It seems paradoxical that much of the expression and rhythm in the dancing comes in the hands and face as well as in the feet. The manipulation of the castanets plays an important part as was ably demonstrated by the three artists.

CARDOZO'S NAMING PROTESTED BY DRYS

William H. Anderson and Civic League Official Question Fitness.

(Associated Press.)

The elevation of Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo to the United States Supreme Court was protested yesterday by two of his fellow-residents of the State of New York. They were invited to appear tomorrow before a Senate judiciary subcommittee and express their objections in person.

The protests came from William H. Anderson, general secretary of the American Protestant Alliance, and O. R. Miller, Albany, an official of the New York Civic League.

Anderson is a former State Anti-saloon League official. He served a term in prison for forgery several years ago. The State Court of Appeals, of which Judge Cardozo was a member, upheld Anderson's conviction. Anderson said yesterday in a telegram that he would testify "against Judge Cardozo's fitness as indicated by his contribution to the consummation of an infamy of injustice perpetrated through the Tammany control and prostitution of the courts, shown by Judge Seabury's revelations." Miller's protest said Cardozo's elevation to the Supreme Court would "be an offense to the whole dry sentiment" of the State of New York.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—William H. Anderson, general secretary of the American Protestant Alliance, who has protested the nomination of Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo to the Supreme Court, was a political power in New York State until a prison term for forgery ended his superintendency of the State Antisaloon League.

Acacia Bill Meets House Opposition

Committee Also Hears Protests on Distrcit Building Bonds.

Action on two District bills, one of them already approved by the Senate District committee, was delayed yesterday by House District committee members when opposition to the measures developed.

Application of the Acacia Mutual Life Association to engage in the general life insurance business was opposed by Representative Lynn S. Horner (Democrat), West Virginia, who said he had received protests from members. The organization now is restricted to Masonic fraternal insurance. The Senate committee reported the measure favorably.

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WITH more than 2,000,000 boys and girls scheduled to be graduated this June from American schools into an uncertain world, complicating a situation already grave with widespread unemployment, the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education will inaugurate a radio series of vocational guidance programs designed to help both the graduates and the general unemployed to find work suited to them.

John M. Brewer, director of the Bureau of Vocational Guidance of the Graduate School of Education at Harvard University, and Joseph Jastrow, former head of the Department of Psychology at the University of Wisconsin, will inaugurate the series this afternoon (WMAL, 4:30 o'clock).

Others to be heard on the next seven Sunday afternoons will be Dr. Daniel A. Poling; Dr. Paul Douglas, University of Chicago; Dr. Clarence Yokum, University of Michigan; Cyrus F. Ching, U. S. Rubber Co.; Dr. C. R. Mann, American Council on Education; Dr David Snedden, Columbia University; and Dr. L. P. Jacks, Oxford, England.

American listeners will hear part of the world premiere of an all-American opera when the first act of "Caponsacchi," by Richard Hageman, is broadcast through WMAL at 1 p. m. today from the stage of the municipal opera house in Freiburg, Germany. Based on Robert Browning's "The Ring and the Book," the story of Caponsacchi has been successful in many literary forms. Arthur Goodrich, American playwright, is responsible for Hageman's libretto. Hageman is well known in the United States through his long association with the Metropolitan Opera Company Orchestra.

A second rebroadcast of an opera from abroad may be heard over the WEAF network, but not WRC, at 4:25 o'clock this afternoon, when Hans Pfitzner's fantastic new opera, "Das Herz," is picked up from Berlin. Wilhelm Furtwaengler will conduct.

A little earlier in the afternoon, the second act of "Tristan and Isolde" will be broadcast from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House (WJZ-WBAL network, 3 p. m). Gertrude Kappel, soprano, will sing the role of Isolde and Lauritz Melchoir, tenor, that of Tristan.

TIMES change. Not so long ago a call at a congressman's office might have brought the response: "I'm sorry, but the congressman has gone home for a few days. He is speaking at a meeting of * * *" Now it's different. A representative from a far Western State recently dashed into the offices of a concern in the National Press Building, which makes a specialty of this work, and demanded that a ten-minute talk be recorded by him in a hurry. He wished to put it aboard the next air mail to be broadcast in two days from the home radio station. Economy in time and expense, and much more effective than the old way. And so it goes.

One member records and broadcasts regularly a weekly Washington news letter. This column has told of two other, members who are using this method of keeping in touch. Electrical transcriptions, as commercial concerns have known for some time, possess many advantages.

"Moments With the Movies" is the title of the program which the Fox Theater will broadcast over WMAL at 6 o'clock tonight. The program will feature information about Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy and James Kirkwood, who are the stars of "She Wanted a Millionaire," opening at the Fox Theater tomorrow.

AND still the anticrooners' letters come in:

"The letter you printed recently signed 'A. B. D.' criticizing the male crooner and the type of song he 'bleats' expresses my sentiments, too, except that I would also include women blues and torch singers," Mrs. B. R. A. writes.

"I heartily approve of his praise for Ludwig Laurier's slumber music, but I think it is a shame that it comes at such a late hour that I have to miss it. Most apartment houses have a regulation that all radios shall be shut off at 10:30 or 11, but even at that work-a-day people are in bed by 11 on most nights.

"I do wish we could have more of Laurier's music though I am not a person who can't stand jazz, on the contrary, I like it, but it doesn't give me the thrill of ecstasy that music such as Ludwig Laurier plays gives me.

"And how I hate the way some of these crooners and blues singers mutilate an otherwise pretty popular song."

"Lately I have been reading quite a bit about crooners and their suppression, suggested for the most part by readers of your column," writes "an ardent radio fan in spite of senior assignments" from State Teachers College at Fredericksburg, Va. "Well, here's one female who sincerely hopes that the members of her sex who are hailed as 'blues singers' get a big share in the depression suppression, repression, or, what you will, when it comes. I'm modern and I like my jazz all in its right place and quantity and played by an orchestra. But I ask, what could be worse than hearing Marion Harris struggle through 'Chloe,' the Ponce sisters doing a miniature imitation of an owl screeching 'Who-o-o-o,' or the 'Hello Everybody' that ushers in Kate Smith? They're all fierce.

"What is more beautiful than the Black and Gold Room Orchestra, Ludwig Laurier, the Metropolitan group of operas, Ann Leaf, the Harding sisters, and others who give us music we enjoy? Here's a booster for all of these and a hearty scowl of disapproval for those 'blues singers'—well named for the blues they give persons with temperamental radios and localities which, at times, permit only a station with a 'blues singer' program or stony silence."

"A difficulty I have in listening to crooners and radio jazz singers," another Post listener writes, "is in being able to tell whether men or women are singing."

A FORMER choir singer of Detroit, Dorothy Page, will make her national network debut with Paul Whiteman's Chieftains over the WJZ network tomorrow night at 10. * * * Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's drama of the Victorian era, "Second Mrs. Tanqueray," will be presented by the Radio Guild tomorrow afternoon (WRC at 4:15). * * * William McFee, author of "Casuals of the Sea," "The Harbour Master" and other books, will be interviewed (WJZ, 2:45 this afternoon). * * * WMAL will inaugurate a program for children tomorrow afternoon at 4. * * * "Now That I Have You" and "Auf Wiedersehn, My Dear" will be sung by Lanny Ross tonight (WJZ network, at 9:30). * * * The talk by Ferry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, before the Association of Federal Architects, will be broadcast by WJSV at 9 tonight. * * * Bebe Daniels will do three solos with Rudy Vallee's orchestra tonight.

Fashion Interprets the MODE

The modern version of the balloon sleeve and higher waistline accentuating the bust. (Seen in New York gatherings.)

New York, Feb. 17.

IT'S irresistible, as irresistible as the subject itself, as compelling. No one who writes about anything relative to women or woman's fancies or frivolities, can deny the urge to write about the mysteries of perfume and to repeat the subject every now and then.

Oh thou! Mysterious and powerful essence of allure! What would a world be without perfume, without the odor that the flowers offer up from their hidden blossoms, that the trees waft into the air from their arms, that the ocean offers the sandy shore!

A magic, an art, a weapon, a poison. Perfume is all of these, and clever women know it. And use it for all of these purposes.

Clever women do, but, unfortunately, all women aren't clever. Therefore the use of perfume is often an abuse, harmful to the user and damaging to the senses and nerves of the recipient.

Let me repeat some hints about the use of perfume, then; never spray or dab perfume on the skin areas that have a natural odor of their own. Never put perfume on any part of your clothing where the alcohol in the perfume will rot the material or change the color, and assume that all perfume will do this, to be safe. Don't put perfume on furs. Don't use several different kinds of perfume unless you rigidly adhere to the rule of using one fragrance consistently on one gown, and on all the accessories that you wear with that gown.

Select perfumes that have the same base. That allows you to safely have one fragrance, an appropriate one, for out-of-doors, another for afternoon, another for evening, and still another for your boudoir—and they will all harmonize into one faint and intangible odor when the mixtures evaporate with the alcohol and leave only the basic scent upon which each was built.

And realize that you yourself can not be a fair judge of the effect your perfumes have on others, as you will become accustomed to a scent and not be able to tell when you are using too much. If anyone can sense and define the perfume you are using, then you are using too much of it, and are in danger of being considered a lady of bad taste. Err on the conservative side in regard to perfume, for safety.

* * * *

The modern version of the leg o' mutton sleeve and very much higher waistline which accentuates the bust has appeared in one or two smart gatherings lately, so I just sketched an informal dinner gown with this effect on the larger figure, in today's illustration and an afternoon frock showing this kind of a sleeve and bust. This afternoon gown shows also something very new in the way of a higher neckline, which is formed, you see, by the closing of the frock.

Au revoir.

ALL winter, no matter what kind of house plant I buy, the ends of the leaves are sure to turn brown and become brittle.

MRS. LAWRENCE D. H.

When the ends of the leaves turn brown and become dry it is always due to the atmosphere, which is too dry and too warm. Except for desert plants, most of our house plants demand a moist atmosphere. The best way to overcome the lack of moisture in the air is constantly to spray the foliage with an atomizer filled with cold water. They should also be occasionally carried to the bathroom and given a steam bath. Turn on the hot-water faucets and when the room is filled with steam, set the plants on the floor and close the room, leaving them in the steam bath for an hour or two at least.

My dogwood tree has been attacked by oyster-shell scale. Do you know of a remedy or must I lose the tree?

MRS. CANNON L. K.

If you spray the tree during its dormant season with heavy-bodied petroleum oil, one quart to five gallons of water, you will soon rid your tree of the disease.

Please tell me why the buds of my calla lilies fail to open.

HANNAH F. E.

There may be several causes. All callas demand a great deal of moisture and a rather high temperature (68 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit). You must give them water every day. They also demand a rich soil and a great deal of sunshine. They never do well in a dark place. Try giving them liquid manure when the next buds appear.

I have tried many times to make kerosene emulsion but always fail. I follow the formula carefully, but the result is a mixture with the oil floating on top. I have been afraid to use this on my plants. Do you know of anything to take the place of kerosene emulsion?

PATRICIA O. W.

The home gardener is wise to use a form of tobacco emulsion instead of kerosene emulsion. It is difficult to make a good emulsion and one that is poorly made may injure your plants.

Please tell me when to prune the shrubs which bloom in the late fall.

PEGGY S. L.

Late summer and fall flowering shrubs should be pruned in the spring, as they bloom on wood made the same season.

Please tell me whether I must remove the seed pods from my primroses before they become entirely dry.

MRS. HOWARD V.

Primroses such as primula obconica and P. malacoides, should have their seed pods snipped off frequently. This will encourage them to flower very freely for many weeks. The plants have been growing at a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees in the greenhouse, and the nearer they can be kept at this temperature indoors the better. Keep the surface soil in the pots quite loose and water them whenever you notice the soil is dry. As a rule, they should be watered, if in a sunny place, once a day.

THE HOMEMAKER

By NANCY CAREY

TWO MENUS FOR FRIDAY.

SINCE a good Hungarian goulash calls for only 2 pounds of veal and vegetables, and is, therefore, an inexpensive and very delicious dish, we are going to suggest this for our dinner menu for tomorrow night. But this menu, of course, must be in addition to our usual fish-day menu. The latter happens to be quite a simple menu, calling for only one recipe, and we can afford the space for our two suggestions.

Nancy Carey.

MENU FOR FRIDAY.
No. 1.
Poached Fillets of Haddock with Mornay Sauce
Country Fried Potatoes
Scalloped Tomatoes
Dressed Watercress
Lemon Cream
Tea or Cofee

Poached Fillets of Haddock With Mornay Sauce.

2 pounds fillet of haddock
1 cupful fish broth
1 cupful milk
¼ cupful grated cheese
2 tablespoonfuls butter
3 tablespoonfuls flour
3 tablespoonfuls oil
½ cupful top milk or cream
Salt, pepper and lemon juice to taste

Cover the haddock with the fish broth, adding boiling water, if necessary, and simmer for 10 minutes. Remove the fish and place in shallow casserole or baking dish. Boil the fsh stock rapidly until it is reduced to about one cupful, and then add the milk. Heat the oil, stir in the flour and cook together. Then add the milk and stock, and beat until smooth. Add half of the cheese and the butter, blending thoroughly, season and pour over the fish. Mix the remaining cheese with a few soft buttered bread crumbs and sprinkle over the top. Bake in a moderately hot oven until nicely browned, which will take about 10 or 15 minutes.

MENU FOR FRIDAY.
No. 2.
Hungarian Goulash
Carrot Salad
Raisin Bread
Washington Pie with Filling
Coffee

Hungarian Goulash en Casserole.

2 pounds veal, cubed
4 onions, sliced
1½ pints brown stock
2 cups potato balls
1 cupful sliced carrots
1 cupful sliced turnips
12 small onions
Bacon fat
Pepper
Paprika

Cook together the veal and the four onions in a little bacon fat until brown. Remove to casserole, pour over it the brown stock and season with salt, pepper and paprika. Place in a moderate oven. Brown the potato balls, small onions, carrots and turnips in some more bacon fat. Add these with salt to the meat when it is partly cooked. Finish the cooking, which will take about two hours, adding more stock if necessary. If the broth is too thin, thicken slightly with browned flour rubbed smooth with water.

Raisin Bread.

1 pound flour
½ cupful sugar
3 eggs
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 teaspoonful salt
½ pint milk
¾ cupful raisins, seeded or seedless.

Mix all dry ingredients with raisins and add beaten eggs and milk. Put in warm place 15 or 20 minutes, and bake in moderate oven for almost an hour.

Washington Cream Pie.

½ cupful sugar
1 egg, separated
4 tablespoonfuls cold water
¾ cupful flour
1 teaspoonful baking powder

Cream the sugar and egg yolk. Add water, then the sifted flour and baking powder and egg white, well beaten. Bake in a pie tin in a quick oven. When cool, split with a sharp knife and add cream filling.

Filling.

1 pint milk
1-3 cupful sugar
Pinch of salt
¼ cupful coconut
¼ cupful flour
2 eggs
¼ cupful thick cream

Heat the milk in a double boiler with the coconut. Beat eggs and sugar, add salt and flour. Pour hot milk over this mixture and cook in boiler until it forms a custard. Flavor to taste with vanilla. Add whipped cream just before serving. Cover the top with a soft chocolate icing.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DIETS IN TUBERCULOSIS.

TWO diets for people with various forms of tuberculosis are having fairly extensive trials in Germany. Several years ago these dietary methods of treating tuberculosis were reported in this country. They have had a limited tryout for time enough to make possible something of opinion as to whether they have value or not.

So far as main principles are concerned these two diets are the same, though they differ in details. They are rich in fats and proteins, but low in carbohydrates. Since they call for a marked restriction in meats, the usual source of proteins, there must be some increase in milk, milk products and eggs, in order to supply the amount of proteins called for.

The fats given are butter, fat meats, gravies and oils, including cod liver oil. Breads, cereals, desserts and sweets are used sparingly. Uncooked vegetables and fruits are allowed in considerable quantities. Cooked vegetables and fruits are permitted, but they are cooked in their own juices in waterless cookers. The amount of water allowed is much below the customary amount, but the deficiency is made up with fruit juices.

An important part of the diets is the low salt content. It is not permissible to season the food with salt. In place of table salt, or sodium chloride, there is an allowance of calcium chloride or calcium lactate; or calcium phosphate may be used.

Partly as drugs and partly as foods, salts of magnesium, strontium, aluminum and silicon are given. Because our appetites are so trained to foods seasoned with salt these German diets are rather highly seasoned with spices.

Dr. Edgar Mayer, who has seen these diets on trial at Saranac, N. Y., for a considerable time, thinks they are of some value. They seem especially serviceable in the treatment of what is usually called surgical tuberculosis, as distinguished from consumption, or pulmonary tuberculosis. Patients who have complications are apt to do well on them. On the other hand, they have not seemed to offer much in consumption.

All in all, while these diets have a place in the treatment of consumption, they are of secondary importance.

BODY LICE.

Mrs. M. W. writes: What is the cause of body lice? Will ill health cause them to germinate, or will a skin eruption create them, or must they be taken from some other person? This case can not be caused from filthiness. Please give treatment to get rid of them.

REPLY.

Lice hatch from lice eggs. When a person has them they have got onto him from some one who is infested. The skin eruption of louse infestation is due to scratching. It is one effect and not a cause. The standard remedy is kerosene; warm vinegar is the remedy used to get rid of the eggs. When treatment is supposed to have failed, the recurrence is generally because of further association with infested people.

IRREGULAR HABITS.

Mrs. L. E. writes: My son, 24 years old, has been idle now for nearly a year and is irritable, miserable and hard to advise. He has made good money and squandered it and now has nothing. He is very nervous, thin and not strong. He is a great reader and often, when returning home near midnight, reads until 3 or 4 in the morning. Then, of course, he has to sleep in the daytime. Is this harmful to his system? It has not been yet, only headaches sometimes, and I fear the consequences.

REPLY.

Irregular habits and particularly irregular sleeping habits are unwholesome. The boy's behavior may be indicative of a disordered personality, and that is more important than poor sleeping habits.

PERIODIC DRINKER.

E. M. writes: My husband is a periodic drinker. He gets drunk only once a year, but at that time, for a period of a month or more, he does not stop until he is in bed with a doctor in attendance. I cannot afford to send him to a sanatorium for a cure. I would like to know if there is anything I can give him to stop his drinking. He has been drinking for years and people tell me he is too old to cure.

REPLY.

Men become drunkards because they have a mental disease. By this I refer to mental disorder as a cause of drinking, without raising the question as to how much mental disorder is caused by drinking. There are specialists in insanity who say the man who never touches a drop between drunken bouts but who, once a year, or at some other interval, drinks until he lands in the gutter, is the most abnormal mentally of all the drinkers.

If you accept these views as being even half right, you can see the futility of trying to cure a drunkard of the type mentioned by "giving him some medicine." Such hope of cure as there is lies in building from the ground up.

Would he consider voluntary commitment to a State institution? Or could you get him to arrange for a year or more of training and upbuilding?

Failure is certain unless the man is willing to try, and to keep on trying.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

NOTHING TO LOSE?

SHE is young and "modern" and the man for whom she works finds her soothing to the eye, and so she writes to ask "what she can lose" by being "above antiquated conventions," since "people will talk anyway." And we, being wordly-wise, wonder what she herself would answer to that ten years hence! Especially if she tries out her idea of "modern freedom." In the first place about the most old-fashioned thing under the sun is the girl who lends a listening ear when the villain drapes himself gracefully over the back of her chair and tells her that the old tabby cats are sure to talk about any pretty girl anyway and so why should not he profit by that fact—or words to that effect, only carefully chosen to conceal his personal interest and callousness to consequences so far as she is concerned.

Since long before the bloodhounds chased Eliza across the ice, there have been men of the stripe described by this very "modern" young stenog. In days gone by they twirled a wicked mustache and had a roving eye. Today they do not bother to be even romantic-looking. This one, for instance, is even "untidy." But does that matter? Not so long as he happens to be "the boss" and to offer the forbidden. And if there is anything especially modern about falling for the forbidden, then we do not know our Bible! And it is even older than that, we will wager!

Read this girl's letter, and if you are a business girl who pondered the same question when you came fresh from school to vanquish the business world, tell her how you decided—and whether you are glad or sorry. We can venture a guess that two-thirds of the girls who read it will say "I know the type," and marvel that any girls so well prepared to meet the world should be so easily stumped by the old, old stuff that so many girls have quietly settled without help from the League of Nations:

"To begin with, I am a college graduate, which may account for an intolerance of antiquated standards for women, as such. Also I possess great self-reliance and could never blame another for any decision I might make. I have told him all this. Our stand is that it is our business. He does not particularly attract me, so it is not any overwhelming emotion that moves me. I am rationally asking what I have to lose—since any fairly good-looking young woman is talked about anyway. He is many times a millionaire, erratic and untidy, really, but he could make life mighty interesting, whereas without what he offers I would live and die without ever seeing the world in which I lived—and all to please the poor tabby cats who love to disparage all who get any joy out of living. I know what would be said of me. It will be said whether I do or don't. So what have I to lose? His wife is a dowdy soul and they meet about twice a year at a funeral or similar joyful meets. Whose business would it be if I accepted this man's offer to make life something more than an endless round of days that start with a screaming alarm clock and end with a rush for a crowded train, rain or shine, sick or well. I feel equal to making the break and standing the consequences. On what do the moralists base their wry faces and uplifted hands? MODERN."

Modern? Or just plain old-fashioned? The girl who wants to "see the world" and is ready to walk the back alleys while she sees it, paid by an untidy old man to give up youth and all youth's high hopes to follow in the steps of all the girls who have preceded her in his untidy schedule of existence!

Will a few really up-to-date business girls tell this Alice in Wonderland what it is all about?

NEW LAURELS WON BY ROSA PONSELLE

Hailed by Her Audience at Concert; Stuart Ross, Pianist, Liked.

Rosa Ponselle, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, was recalled again and again at the close of her concert in Constitution Hall yesterday by a wildly applauding audience, which would not be satisfied until Miss Ponselle had obliged with four encores, after which generous gift to the program the thousands of music lovers moved reluctantly out of the concert hall.

Miss Ponselle was in fine form, her voice, like a thing of beauty, a joy forever, and her program one of surpassing vocal achievements. The concert was given under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

In the concert Miss Ponselle was ably assisted by Stuart Ross, who was not only an admirable accompanist, but proved to be an outstanding solo pianist as well, judging from the group of solos he played yesterday afternoon.

The golden tone, the impeccable technic, the artistry of presentation and the charm of well nigh perfect diction all contributed to the Rosa Ponselle the audience heard yesterday a lasting enchantment and attraction. The audience sat rapt as song after song and aria after aria issued from the singer with such vocal ease that all one had to do was just to listen to a musical treat unexcelled in the season's offerings in the concert line.

The aria, "O Divina Afrodite," from Romani's opera, "Fedra," was chosen by Miss Ponselle to open her program. Its appeal was evident from the ovation which followed its close. Then came a group of delightful songs including Schubert's "Der Erlkoenig," usually sung by contraltos, but given good account by yesterday's diva. Chopin-Jackowska's "Tristesse Eternelle" brought out new facets of Miss Ponselle's vocal genius.

A Debussy Prelude in A Minor and a Chopin Nocturne were played by Mr. Ross with skill and a singing tone. Then followed Miss Ponselle's second aria of the afternoon, "Bel Raggio," from Rossini's opera, "Semiramide."

After a second group by Mr. Ross, Miss Ponselle concluded her program with a group of English songs. Frank La Forge's "Come Unto These Yellow Sands" pleased the audience so that it would not be content until Miss Ponselle had sung four encores to it and taken many curtain calls in addition.

Dr. Ryan to Address Lenten Adult School

Dr. John A. Ryan, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, will deliver the principal address at the second session of the Lenten Adult School of Religion at the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tonight. Dr. Ryan will speak in the assembly hour at 8 o'clock on "Unemployment Relief and Federal Aid."

The other lectures in the study courses, beginning at 7 o'clock, will deal with the relation between the church and religion and politics. John J. Esch, former chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will speak about "The Church and Politics," and Dr. Irving F. Wood, professor of Biblical literature at Smith College, is to talk on "Isaiah—Religion and Political Life."

Naming of Justice Letts Is Confirmed by Senate

Action of the Senate judiciary committee in approving appointment of F. Dickinson Letts to the District Supreme Court bench, over opposition of a disbarred attorney, received the formal confirmation of the Senate yesterday.

Judge Letts, a former Iowa representative, and one-time judge for the Seventh Judicial District of Iowa, and Judge Daniel W. O'Donoghue, also a recess appointee, both were opposed at judiciary subcommittee hearings. O'Donoghue received immediate confirmation, but action on Letts was subject to delay.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

LEON JANNEY, one of the most talented of the younger screen stars, will arrive in Washington for a brief glimpse of the National Capital this morning at 8:45 o'clock. He is not booked for personal appearances at any local theater, nor is his visit of a professional character, as nearly as could be ascertained last night.

If you do not immediately identify this gifted young man by name, he is the ebullient youngster who made his first impression upon the picture-going public in the spring of 1930 as the youngest son in First National's picturization of the stage play, "Courage," in which the mother role was played by Belle Bennett and the oldest daughter by Marian Nixon. More recently, the juvenile Mr. Janney appeared in First National's dialogue screen version of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod and Sam."

Mr. Richard W. Westwood, chief of the editorial staff of the American Nature Association, publishers of the Nature Magazine, writes as follows:

"Perhaps you would like to note in your 'Home Town Boy Makes Good' department the fact that 'The Gay Caballero,' coming to the Fox on the 26th, is the literary offspring of a Washingtonian. It originally oozed from the typewriter of Mr. Tom Gill and made its first bow to the waiting world as a serial under the title of 'The Gay Bandit of the Border,' later appearing in book form under the same title.

"Gill admitted to being a Yale man until Rudy Vallee made a similar admission. Now he merely confesses to being a forester by training, having served with the U. S. Forest Service in the field and in the Washington office, and is at present the forester of the Charles Lathrop Pack Forestry Trust. Let's give the local boy a big hand!"

All right, let's.

The prospective engagement of Peggy Fears' forthcoming production of "Child of Manhattan," originally announced for the National Theater the week of February 29, following the appearance here of Lenore Ulric and Sidney Blackmer in "The Social Register," has been canceled. My understanding is that the new piece will play a breaking-in week in Newark, N. J., and then go directly to Broadway.

Those who have decried the absence of substantial worth in the current theater need seek no further than the Belasco for an answer to their supplications for the restoration of the glamour of a day that seems remote.

As that discerning and erudite observer of the theater, Col. Frank P Morse, disclosed in The Post's Tuesday morning review, it is the Ethel Barrymore of "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," "Sunday" and the earlier successes of her distinguished career who appears in the delightful revival of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's satirical comedy, "The School for Scandal."

The first half of a Tuesday evening of vivid contrasts for this column was spent in a front row chair at the Belasco and it is therefore with utmost enthusiasm that I reiterate Mr. Morse's rather more than implied suggestion that this generation probably will never have opportunity to see this ageless play so perfectly enacted as at Mr. Taylor's temple of Thespis this week.

The hour or two following "School for Scandal" Tuesday night was devoted to a preview screening of Tod Browning's production of "Freaks" at the Columbia.

Here is one of the most extraordinary offerings in the history of the cinema. What its public reception will be at Loew's Palace tomorrow can not be foretold. It is peopled, and in the main played, by as weird a collection of nature's blunders as have ever been utilized for such a purpose. It is impossible to evade the consciousness that this is not a gallery of grotesque Lon Chaney makeups, but the actual handiwork of a droll fate that has cheated its victims of every vestige of normal appearance and normal life. If one does not view these strange people of a sensitive and vengeful race apart with revulsion, he must, at least, with pity. When the first shock to the spectator's sensibilities has worn away, there is a melodramatic story of unique conten and development that will rivet interest in no uncertain fashion.

If this is to be ranked among the "horror" pictures that are both prevalent and popular, it should be no less a sensation than "Dracula" or "Frankenstein." It is assuredly no less novel and no less sensational than either one, or both, of those gooseflesh specials!

Guthrie McClintic has announced the last two weeks of Pauline Lord in "Distant Drums," by Dan Totheroh, at the Belasco Theater, in New York.

The play opened in the Belasco Theater in this city early in January and was accorded its New York premiere on January 18. The production both here and on Broadway stimulated discussion and won much praise and some censure. February 27 will see its final curtain.

Lenore Ulric, supported by Sidney Blackmer and a notable cast, will again take possession of the National stage next week, beginning Monday night, in "The Social Register," a satirical comedy by John Emerson and Anita Loos.

The story parodies the lives of all chorus girls who marry rich young men of illustrious lineage.

The Belasco, beginning Sunday night, will offer for a week's engagement a revival of "Blossom Time," the perennial operetta that utilizes many of the familiar compositions of Franz Schubert, as arranged by Sigmund Romberg, to aid in the relation of the love story of that great master. Kathryn Reece and Joseph F. Wilkins sing the principal roles.

On Sunday afternoon, at the National, E. M. Newman will conclude his series of five Sunday afternoon travel talks, with "England and Wales" as his subject.

Margaret Anglin, brilliant star of the stage and student of Greek drama and pageantry, will be seen in the stellar role of Percy Mackaye's masque, "Wakefield," inaugurating the Bicentennial celebration of the birthday of George Washington, in Constitution Hall next Sunday night. The masque will be repeated on Friday night, February 26, in the same auditorium.

Beginning with the regular Sunday matinee, the Gayety Theater's attraction for the new week will be "Girls From Joyland," starring burlesque's most beautiful singer and exponent of the dance, Ann Corio.

Dorothy Gordon, singer of folk songs for children, is announced as the soloist at the sixth concert for children and young people to be given by the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D. C., at Central High School Audtorium this afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Hans Kindler conducting.

Miss Gordon will sing two groups of folk songs and the orchestra will be heard in a specially selected program, during which Mr. Kindler will sketch again the functions of the percussion instruments and demonstrate their uses.

Jose Iturbi, the brilliant Spanish pianist, who will make his only local concert appearance of the season at Constitution Hall Saturday evening at 8:30, as the sixth and final attraction of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Saturday evening concert series, has changed his program to include two Debussy numbers, "Jardin sous la pluie" and "Poisson d'or," in place of the Schumann Phantasie, Op. 17, as originally announced. The remainder of the program remains unchanged.

Screen diversion for the new week will be supplied by the following: Metropolitan, George Arliss, in "The Man Who Played God," and "Washington—the Man and the City;" Columbia, Clark Gable, Wallace Beery, Conrad Nagel, Cliff Edwards, Dorothy Jordan and Marjorie Rambeau, in "Hell Divers;" Fox, Joan Bennett, James Kirkwood and Spencer Tracey, in "She Wanted a Millionaire," and Fanchon & Marco's "Hot Java" Idea; Earle, Joe E. Brown, in "Fireman, Save My Child," and Earle La Vere headlining the vaudeville; RKO-Keith's, Constance Bennett, in "Lady With a Past," and Gus Van headlining the vaudeville; Rialto, Sidney Fox and Bela Lugosi, in "Murders in Rue Morgue;" Palace, Leila Hyams, Wallace Ford and Olga Baclanova, in "Freaks," and "Follies of 1932" revue.

True to his word, Jimmie Dunn, Adonis of the films, is back in town casting an appraising and an approving eye over the work of his favorite prima donna, June Knight, in "Hot-Cha!"

And this is reported as having been overheard in an elevator:

First lady: I certainly want to see that poet at the Earle this week..

Second lady: What poet?

F. L.: Edwin Arlington Robinson. He's in the movies now, you know.

THURSDAY FEBRUARY 18, 1932 SPORTS

WORLD RECORDS SHATTERED IN MILE AND SHOT PUT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

FROM out of the West where Mickey Walker is hibernating among the cauliflowers there comes the suggestion from Jack Kearns, his old side-kick and manager, that Walker engage Jim Londos, the champion of the pachyderms, in a boxer-wrestler match to decide whatever the match will decide.

And from out of the East where Londos is practicing his art among the grovelers of grunt and grimace there comes the polite declination, with thanks, of Kearns' suggestion, through the good offices of Mr. Ed White, the gentleman in charge of Mr. Londos' mat matters. The idea doesn't seem to have reached even the proportions of a stalemate, for as far as Mr. White was concerned it isn't even worthy of consideration.

So the brogan appears to be on the other shank in the legalized mayhem industry. This department remembers that it was not so many years ago that the wrestlers of the land, beading their way about the bushes in an effort to maintain a regular schedule of meals while their prize fighting contemporaries were living on the fat of the land, were the lads who were issuing the challenges to the box fighters to meet them in mixed matches.

Mr. Ed White, who has cashed in on the wrestling renaissance that has swept the country, will have no parts of the boxers now that the groveling game is in the saddle.

Anent Walker's proposal that Londos meet him in a mixed match, White terms the suggestion "the old ballyhoo racket—the bunk." He says that Tom Packs, St. Louis promoter, and others, seeking to restore what he termed the waning popularity of boxing at the expense of wrestling, had called in "the master of ballyhoo, Jack Kearns."

There is none to say that White ain't right. When wrestling was in the doldrums and the box fighters were packing them in, no more than six years ago, old Strangler Lewis himself, then the undisputed champion of the wrestling realm, found it expedient to challenge Jack Dempsey to meet him in a catch-as-catch-can-sock-and-duck match as a means of getting his name in the paper and in an effort to stimulate interest in the mat game. But the boxers turned deaf ears, and who can blame the wrestlers now?

Joe Turner's smile that won't come off is not a facial child of his present affluence in the wrestling industry which he reached as a promoter after 25 years of journeyman rassler. It's the relic of an incident that made Washington's wrestling public laugh out loud 18 years ago at the Gayety Theater where Turner held forth as the middleweight champion of the world with the Police Gazette belt to prove it.

Turner was meeting Pinkey Gardner, of Boston, that evening in 1914 in one of the epic matches of Washington's early wrestling history and the bout which finally ended after three hours of bitter tugging was wearing into its second hour as Joe lay on the mat all but down and unconscious beneath the pressure applied by Gardner who had clamped on a body hold.

Gardner was lying full on Turner's stomach with the latter's shoulders a fraction of an inch from the mat when Turner pulled the coup de mat which won him everlasting fame as a canny wrestler. Gardner's back was to the referee as he labored to pin Turner's last protesting shoulder to the canvas when Turner, with one hand free, worked it around Gardner's back and tapped him lightly three times in the same manner of a referee deciding the winner.

Gardner thought he had won the match, released his hold, and rose to his feet. Imagine his embarrassment when the referee motioned him to continue. Turner's ruse had worked beautifully and he proceeded to throw Gardner and win the match in another hour. So that, my children, is the story of Turner's smile.

Basket ball in Washington has a similar story. It happened at the Arcadia in 1925 when George Marshall's proud Palace team was playing the Original Celtics in the American Professional Backet Ball League.

Marshall had nursed a long ambition to beat the Celtics. To that end he hired for his Palace Club big "Horse" Haggerty, the bruising center, who had formerly performed with the New York team. Thus fortified, Marshall sent his team into the game with high hopes.

Haggerty was a tower of strength. He dominated the game as the Washington team matched the Celties point for point and with five seconds to go held a 1-point lead over the New Yorkers. The ball went out of bounds. To Haggerty was given the task of throwing it in to a teammate. The game was Washington's if it could be kept out of possession of the Celtics for five short seconds. The New Yorkers were frantic as Haggerty made ready to toss the ball back into play.

Nat Holman, captain of the Celtics, cut down the floor directly underneath the Celties' goal where Haggerty stood. "Here! Here!" he yelled at Haggerty. And Haggerty actually threw him the ball. Holman's shot went into the basket with a swish and the Celtics won the game. Haggerty couldn't explain his mental acrobatics except to plead that his long career with the Celtics had taught him to obey the command of Holman's voice. The incident hastened George Marshall's exit from professional basket ball, perhaps.

Levinsky Foe Of Dempsey Tonight

Old Champ Reaches Crossroads on His Comeback.

Sell-Out Is Forecast for 4-Round Bout at Chicago.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (U.P.).—Jack Dempsey reaches the crossroads of his comeback campaign tomorrow night when he meets King Levinsky, Chicago's clouting clown, in a four-round exhibition bout in the Chicago Stadium. The result will determine whether Dempsey is through as a first-class fighter or whether he has a chance to beat his way back along the comeback trail which was too tough and treacherous for Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries and Jess Willard.

In Levinsky, Dempsey meets his most important test since he began his exhibition tour at Reno, Nev., last August 19. Levinsky is ranked No. 7 among the heavyweights by the National Boxing Association. He is a dangerous opponent for Dempsey because of his punch, a terrific roundhouse right which floored Tommy Loughran three times, hurt Primo Carnera and dropped Leo Lomski nine times in five rounds.

Should Prove to Be Real Battle.

The match is advertised as a 4-round no decision exhibition, but it will be a fight in everything except name. Dempsey has proved in his numerous exhibition bouts that every time he enters the ring he is there for a fight. The gloves, which weigh 9½ ounces each—3½ ounces more than regulation fighting mitts—take the match out of the exhibition class and bring it into the realm of a possible knockout.

Dempsey is fresh from a knockout-a-minute in two bouts at Flint, Mich., Monday night, and a 3-round knockout over Meyer (K. O.) Christner at Cleveland last Thursday night.

Dempsey's legs, as some insist, may not have the strength and ability they did when he won the heavyweight title in 1919, but the old Manassa mauler has demonstrated that he possesses virtually the equivalent of the deadly attack of old.

Not only does Dempsey have plenty of dynamite in both fists, at 36, and several years after he lost his title to Gene Tunney, he still is the greatest attraction in the boxing game.

A complete sell-out is assured with less than 500 ringside seats left, and the demand for tickets for an indoor bout unprecedented in Chicago ring history. The crowd probably will exceed 23,000.

Frisch, Admitting Cut, Not Yet Signed for '32

St. Louis, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Frank Frisch, captain and star second baseman of the world's champion Cardinals, and "most valuable player" in the National League last season, has been asked to take a reduction in salary for 1932 and has delayed signing a contract.

Frisch, from his home in New York, today wired the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in reply to a telegraphic inquiry: "Received a reduction in salary. Have not signed as yet."

Frisch, the highest-paid Card player, receives a reputed salary of $18,000 to $20,000. Rumors put the amount of the proposed cut at $5,000.

Two other Card regulars have held off signing, pending discussion of salary terms. They are Outfielder Chick Hafey, who led the league in batting in 1931, and Shortstop Charley Gelbert.

Kirkwood Is Injured In Florida Auto Mishap

Tallahassee, Fla., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—News of an automobile wreck near Defuniak Springs, Fla., yesterday in which Joe Kirkwood, famous trick shot golfer, was injured, reached Tallahassee today.

A tire blew out and the car plunged into a ditch. Kirkwood was thrown out on his head. He was given medical treatment and proceeded to Tampa. Doctors said he would not remain for an X-ray examination and therefore the extent of his injury was not fully determined.

His caddy, Clark Hammond, received bruises and lacerations.

Walter Hagen, following them in his automobile, took them to a hospital.

They were en route to Tampa for the opening of the Gasparilla Golf Tournament tomorrow.

L. B. DAILEY, FORMER NET HEAD, DIES

U. S. L. T. A. Chief of 1930 Was Foe of Bill Tilden.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Amateur tennis lost one of its most prominent figures today with the death of Louis B. Dailey, former president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, at the Orange, N. J., Memorial Hospital.

Dailey, who was 56, became ill with a severe cold a week ago. Double pneumonia developed and caused his death.

President of the U. S. L. T. A. in 1930 and for several years prior to that actively connected with tennis in the East, Dailey was known as an advocate of strict economy in the conduct of amateur tennis. He had frequent verbal conflicts with Big Bill Tilden when the latter was this country's leading amateur. He was long known as an outstanding and outspoken "progressive" in tennis affairs.

Foe of "High Powered" International Play.

During his tenure as national president, Dailey proved an arch foe of "high powered" methods in international play. Among other things, he advocated restriction of the period of Davis Cup training and suggested a limitation of three years for the participation of any player in Davis Cup competition. His policies, however, did not meet majority support within the association.

Dailey was president of the New York Real Estate Board, vice president of the Equitable Building Corporation of New York and an official of numerous other concerns.

He never attained prominence as a player.

Cupid Scores K. O. Over Jackie Fields

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Jackie Fields, newly crowned world's welterweight champion, solved the mystery of his sudden disappearance today by returning with a wife.

He and his bride, the former Martha Lynn, of St. Joseph, Mo., admitted they were secretly married several days ago at St. Joseph.

Kummer's Widow To Marry Sande

Former Great Rider Obtains License at Brooklyn for Second Marriage.

Special to The Washington Post.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Earl Sande, trainer and former jockey, and Mrs. Marian Adele Kummer, widow of Clarence Kummer, who was probably as well known a rider up to the time of his death as was Sande when he retired, obtained a license to wed this afternoon at Borough Hall, Long Island City, Queens.

The marriage will be the second for Sande, as well as for Mrs. Kummer. His first wife, a niece of the late Sam Hildredth, noted trainer of horses, died September 2, 1927. Kummer died December 18, 1930, after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Sande gave his age as 33 and his occupation as "horseman." He said he lives at the Homstead Hotel, Kew Garden's Queens, while Mrs. Kummer gave her address as the Kew Hall Apartments, at Kew Gardens. She gave her age as 28.

The license was issued by Deputy City Clerk William Zimmerman. The couple did not indicate where they intended to marry or who would officiate. No information was obtainable at their homes.

Kocsis-Welsh To Fight at Maryland

Ritchie Coliseum to Be Scene of Bouts on February 29.

All-Star Card Will Usher in Bicentennial Sports.

AN all-star boxing card will usher in the Bicentenpial year at Ritchie Coliseum Monday night, February 29, it was announced last night. A championship match between Antol Kocsis, Hungarian bantamweight champion, and Dick Welsh, bantamweight champion of the South and conqueror of Billy Landers, will headline a card of four eight-round bouts and one four-round preliminary.

The bout will be for the bantamweight championship of the South.

Officials of Maryland University have turned over the coliseum, which is capable of seating 6,000 spectators, to the Bicentennial committee for the affair. The Alexandria Day Nursery A. A. last night announced it would not hold a weekly show Tuesday night in order that the Bicentennial show may be a complete success.

Welsh-Kocsis High Class Ringmen.

A general admission fee of $2, with ringside seats scaled at $3, will be charged for the bouts.

Both Welsh and Kocsis are high-class boxers. Welsh has met Midget Wolgast three times. Welsh has thrice whipped Billy Landers. He is well known both for his speed and punching power. Against Kocsis, who is a comer in the bantam division, fans will see a scrap that should be a hair raiser from bell to bell.

Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York boxers will make up the supporting card. All will be outstanding matches with gladiators who have appeared here in windup and semiwindup bouts.

Seats will be placed on sale in the near future at Spalding's, Vic Sport Store and at Goldie Ahearn's.

Tennessee Grid Coach Declines Badger Job

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Maj. Robert Neyland, University of Tennessee football coach, told the News-Sentinel by telephone from Chattanooga today that he had rejected an offer to coach at the University of Wisconsin.

While Coach Neyland has not signed his 1932 contract at Tennessee, university athletic officials expressed the belief he would sign soon. Meantime, Neyland has been going ahead with spring football practice at Tennessee.

Neyland said a member of the Wisconsin athletic board called him and asked if he would be interested in the Wisconsin post.

"I told them I wasn't interested in the job," he added.

Young Swiss Defeats U. S. Two-Man Sled

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Reto Capadrutt, 120-pound bundle of Swiss courage and daring, got his revenge today on Hubert Stevens for the heart-breaking loss of an Olympic championship. Driving through a sleetstorm on a track slowed by overnight snow, the 19-year-old university student put together runs of 2:7.98 and 2:6.79 to beat his Olympic conqueror, Stevens, for the North American two-man bobsled championship.

His total of 4 minutes 14 77-100 seconds was eleven seconds faster than Stevens' total of 4:25.30, the best the Olympic champion could do, with his brother, Curtis, bobbing frantically beside him, was 2:12.25 and 2:13.05.

HOST NOTRE DAME PILOT.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Paul Host, of La Crosse, Wis., will lead the fighting Irish of Notre Dame into battle next autumn. Host last night was elected captain of the 1932 team at the annual monogram banquet.

Host, who divides left end with Ed Kosky during the past two campaigns, was elected over the latter.

Sensational Breakers of Track and Field Records

Gene Venzke (left), Pottstown, Pa., high school boy who last night broke all world records, indoor and out, for the mile race with his time of 4 minutes 10 seconds at the New York A. C. games. MAT PARADE IS ON VIEW TONIGHT

Many Types Perform With Grobmeier as Chief Attraction.

IT is a strange assortment of mat mammoths your grandfather's uncle Father Joe Turner has lassoed and dragged to town to display at the Strand Theater tonight. All are typical of this day and age in the mat sport where wrestlers like Strangler Lewis produces snores and the gamboling Doc Wilsons grow rich.

Strangest of the lot is a gangling 6-foot-4 gent named Fred Grobmeier who meets Matros Kirilenko for three-quarters of an hour or so in the main event. Grobmeier is mostly arms and legs, painfully thin, except for his shoulders, and has a leech-like figure-four scissors which reduces stout-stomached rivals to a jellied mass.

His opponent, Matros Kirilenko, goes in for heavy glowers and righteous expressions. He appears garbed in a leopard skin tunic, waves his arms a great deal, and practices little besides the conventional headlock.

Kley to Provide Acrobatics.

Fritz Kley, who meets one Fred Carone in another match, is primarily an acrobat, who has been blessed with a 200-pound frame. Kley could wiggle through the eye of a needle without scraping sides, and squirms out of "holts" like a slippery porker. He does handsprings in the ring.

Doc Wilson, who confines most of his wrestling to plucking the nerve of an opponent, and playing dead just before he wins the match, meets another member of an illustrious rassle clan in Ernie Dusek, the tough little 220-pound brother of Rudy. Dusek, if he is as good as his past performances show, should reduce the good doctor to a headache powder.

Kotsonaros a Former Movie Villain.

George Kotsonaros, who meets Tiger Nelson, was a movie villain until the talkies went into the drawing room era. Nelson is an amiable old fellow who has absolutely set aside the badges of wrestling for a mixture of rough by-play, and always gives an amusing show.

The show will be opened by Harry Nixon and Eddie Shabo, a couple of middleweight wrestlers who happen to belong to different branches of the Service.

Whitney's Sir Lindsay Breaks Down in Race

Nebury, England, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—John Hay Whitney's Sir Lindsay, prominent American candidate for the grand national, which will be run at Aintree March 18, broke down during the running of a three-mile steeplechase race today. A later examination showed the famous jumper to be suffering from a split pastern.

G. W. TO HOLD SPOTLIGHT TONIGHT

Wake Forest Courtmen Promise Colonels Battle.

THE George Washington University a better team in the eyes of their coach, now that have tasted of defeat, returns to the local basket ball wars tonight at the Colonial gymnasium at 8 o'clock, after having witnessed their twelve-game winning streak crumble before the attack of the burly Dukes of Duquesne Monday night.

In Wake Forest the Colonials face another Grade A opponent tonight, for the North Carolinians come to Washington on the tail end of an impressive series of victories and number in their destructive path a victory over North Carolina State, which, in turn, has beaten North Carolina U.

G. W. Looks for Real Battle.

Anticipating a battle from the opening whistle, Coach Jim Pixlee sent his Colonial giants through a stiff training session last night, using the same combination which has carried the school to unprecedented heights in the court game this year—Parrack and Burgess, forwards; Hertzler, center; Zahn and Chambers, guards.

"Duquesne beat us cleanly and without question," Pixlee said yesterday. We have no alibi, but we did miss a couple of snowbirds under their basket which might have changed that score of 38-32. Duquesne was unbeatable in the second half. It took seventeen cracks at the basket and made nine of them."

TERRY NEAR AGREEMENT.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Bill Terry, first baseman holdout of the New York Giants, indicated tonight that he and the club owners are nearing an agreement as to terms of his salary for next year.

MARYLAND U. WINS 14TH IN ROW

Defeats St. John's, 24-20, in the Final Minute of Play.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND'S long string of basket ball victories was threatened seriously at College Park last night by St. John's of Annapolis, but the Old Liners came through in the final minute to gain a 24-20 verdict over the Johnnies. The win, its fourteenth in a row, practically gave Maryland the championship of the free State, it having won four out of five starts against State rivals.

With the score tied at 20-20, and just a minute to play, Rufus Vincent caged a 2-pointer under the basket. Pretending to freeze the ball in the back court, Maryland came through with another court goal in the last half minute when Bucky Buscher cut down the hardwood to register again, giving the Old Liners their 4-point winning margin.

Score Tied Twice in Last Five Minutes.

The score had been tied twice in the last five minutes, once at 18-18 and again at 20-20.

Vincent started the scoring with a foul and Berger boosted the count to 3 to 0 with a long looper. The Johnnies came back, however, to gain the lead at 9 to 8 on Carpenter's side-court shot and at the intermission were in the van at 14 to 11.

Two pointers by Norris and Ronkin gave Maryland the lead early in the second half, the latter's goal being a particularly brilliant running-in shot.

Lary Carpenter, St. John's forward, was high scorer with 9 points, his total including four court goals and one foul. Maryland's scoring was well divided, Berger being high with 6 points.

Venzke Sets New Mark Of 4:10

Sexton, Former G. U. Star, Puts Shot 52 Ft. 8 3-8 In.

Two Feats Surpass All World Indoor, Outdoor Records.

By ALAN GOULD.

MADISON Square Garden, New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—America's newest boy wonder of foot-racing, galloping Gene Venzke of Pottstown, Pa., thrilled 10,000 howling fans tonight by running the mile in 4 minutes, 10 seconds, for a new world record, his second in 10 days on the garden track.

All official world marks for the classic mile distance, indoors and out, were surpassed by Venzke as he flashed an amazing burst of speed through the last half of the race. The school boy star, racing like a champion of champions, sped the last quarter mile in 59 2-5 seconds, beat the redoubtable Leo Lermond by fully 40 yards and left three other rivals staggering in the ruck as he broke the tape amid a veritable tumult of cheering.

Sensational Race By Youngster.

It was a spectacular exhibition of speed and stamina by this American youngster who has raced into the company of the world's greatest runners of all time within barely a fortnight. His time clipped 1 1-5 seconds from the world indoor record he set in the Millrose A. A. games February 6, surpassed the listed world outdoor mark of 4:10 2-5, held by Paavo Nurmi, and bowed only to the unofficial outdoor mark of 4:09 1-5, set last summer by Jules Ladoumergue of France.

Four of the five watches caught Venzke in 4:10 flat and the fifth in 4:09 4-5.

Second only to Venzke's highly dramatic performance was the brilliant shot putting of Leo Sexton, of the New York Athletic Club, who surpassed all marks for the 16-pound iron ball with a toss of 52 feet 8⅛ inches. This not only wiped out all indoor marks, including Sexton's only record put of 51 feet 11⅛ inches in Boston last Saturday, but bettered the world outdoor record of 52 feet 7½ inches, held by Emil Hirschfeld, of Germany.

Crowley Sets Fast Pace in Mile.

Venzke was helped to his world mark by the fast pace for the first half-mile, set by Frank Crowley, Manhattan College runner. Crowley jumped out in front on the second lap, hit the first quarter pole in 61 1-5 seconds and the half mile in 2 minutes 6 1-5 seconds.

On the seve th lap, Venzke tore past Leo Lermond, then Crowley. He looked like Twenty Grand in the stretch as he took the lead, and the only contest over the last four laps of the eleven-lap journey was that between Venzke and Old Pop Time. He dashed around the last lap like a sprinter, leaving several of America's best milers far behind.

Venzke dashed past the three-quarter mark in 3 minutes 10 3-5 seconds, and then covered the last quarter in the amazing time of 59 2-5 seconds, to gain his new record.

Lermond staggered in 40 yards behind the winner. Crowley was so worn out by the pace that he dropped back to last in the field of five.

Toppino Twice Equals 60-Yard Record.

The new indoor sprint king, Emmett Toppino, of Loyola University, New Orleans, twice equalled the world indoor record of 6 1-5 seconds in sweeping all heats and the final of the 60-yard dash. Toppino showed his heels to Ira Singer of New York, the national indoor champion, as well as George Simpson of the Los Angeles A. C.

Kelly, G. U. Ace, Bows In 60-Yard Semifinal

Special to The Washington Post.

Madison Square Garden, N. Y., Feb. 17—Emmitt Toppino, chunky, blonde sprinter from Loyola of the South, again left Al Kelly, of Georgetown, in his wake as he went on to win the 60-yard dash at New York A. C. annual games tonight. This time it was in the semifinal that Toppino, along with Ira Singer eliminated Kelly.

John Lyons, of Catholic University, was second to Toppino in the third and fastest heat, run in 6.4, but failed to survive the second semifinal, trailing George Weinstein, of N. Y. U., and George Simpson, of the Los Angeles A. C.

A heart-stirring finish by Gale McGuigan, of Catholic University, gave the Capital team a victory in the 1-mile college relay over Villanova, Seton Hall, Rutgers and St. John's of Brooklyn. Vincent McDonald stayed within striking distance of the leaders, in third place, at the end of the first leg, and some rough running by Tom Campbell on the second leg gave him the lead, which he lost at the end; but John Hickey, on the third leg, came up to give McGuigan a scant lead, which he increased to a good 10 yards over the Villanova anchor man, to finish in the fair time of 3 minutes 32 seconds.

Lake Placid Felicitated For Modest Prices and No Charge for Climate

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—In the distribution of cheers for persons involved one way or another in the Olympic winter games, it would be unfair and unsporting to neglect the hotelkeepers, the merchants and the speakeasy proprietors of Lake Placid, who showed remarkable restraint in the presence of an opportunity to use the gun on the visitors and, on the whole, treated them as customers, not as victims.

Even the kidnapers of Lake Placid manifested the spirit of moderation when they named the modest sum of $1,000 as the ransom price of the guest who was stolen from a cottage at night. The prohibition agents, although their prices are confidential, obviously were reasonable and amenable men. Five of them called to inspect the Cellar A. C. one evening and took the proprietor out for a walk in the night air, but 30 minutes later the bobbers of all nations were beating the tables with their ale glasses again and singing their stein songs as before.

Inasmuch as there was no advance in the price of ale, which remained at $1 a quart throughout the meeting, it stands to reason that they could not ave been excessive in their dealings with the proprietors.

It was unfortunate that the bobbers, alone, were allowed to train on ale. It is the constant purpose of the bobber in training to put on fat, so that he will ballast his bobsled the better, but the athletes engaged in the other sports must remain as skinny as possible and therefore did not frequent the Cellar A. C.

It was the speed skaters, who are skinny athletes and strict nonale-drinkers, who caused the worst quarrel of the Olypic winter games, but in ten nights in the barroom of the Cellar A. C., with the bobbers of many nations sitting at adjoining tables and sometimes mingling at various tables, there was never any note in the chorus which had the sound of a squawk.

There are very few fat reformers. Possibly in some future winter, when the country has become snow-conscious and the people are turning to the mountains for their pleasure as avidly as they used to turn to Florida and other Southern recreation centers, the prices will go up and the customers will have to protect themselves at all times. But, on the record to date, the business men of Lake Placid deserve generous

Booth, Radiant With Health, Returns to Yale to Graduate

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Victorious over a lung infection that halted his brilliant football career, little Albie Booth left a sanatorium today, tucked his school books under his arm, and returned to the Yale campus to finish his studies.

He will start his final semester in Sheffield Scientific School, and if all goes well, will graduate with his class in June, for he has not neglected his lessons since he went to Gaylord Farm Sanatorium at Wallingford with pleurisy last December 1.

Next fall, it was announced, he will join the football coaching staff. Until then he can not participate in athletics.

Albie's release was a surprise to everyone except his fiancee, Miss Marian Noble, and Coach Elmer Ripley, of the Yale basket ball team, who will be a sort of nursemaid to the three-sport star.

There was hardly any need to ask how he felt, for Albie looked the picture of health. His cheeks glowed, his handclasp was firm and he weighs 158 pounds, 10 pounds more than at any time during his careeer as captain of the Yale football and basketball teams and member of the baseball squad.

From the athletic office Miss Noble accompanied Albie to Ripley's apartment, where he will live until June.

His parents live in New Haven, but a considerable distance from the campus.

In the center of the apartment was a group of footballs—the ones used in Yale's games last fall. They had been stuffed into shape, shellacked and the score of the contest painted on each.

"I'm going to put these in a glass case where they can be seen but not touched," Booth said.

"All but this one—this is going under a half dozen locks."

He picked up a ball inscribed, "Yale, 3; Harvard, 0." It was the one he booted for a field goal and victory in his last game, just before pleurisy put him to bed.

Bouts Moved to Silver Spring, Evading Police at Kensington

SHADES of the pioneer era of prize fighting descended on Kensington last night when under pain of the penalty of the law and with Montgomery County police mobilized in three precincts, the Authorities of the Kensington National Guard were forced to make a hurried transfer for their program of boxing bouts to the Silver Spring armory where no interference was met.

Capt. Clarence V. Sayer, commandant of the Howitzer Company of the Kensington Guards, yesterday afternoon declared his intention to stage the bouts despite the refusal of the Maryland Boxing Commission to issue a license and the threat of the county commissioners and town council to invoke the police if the bouts were held. Police stationed at the precincts at Rockville, Bethesda and Silver Spring were ordered to stand by for possible riots by the county commissioners.

Early last night the decision was made to move the bouts to Silver Spring and the ring was transported across the town line while members of the Howitzer Co. shooed several hundred fans, who were congregating at Kensington over to Silver Spring, where despite a late start, the bouts were staged.

The bouts were held for the benefit of the Howitzer Co.'s athletic fund and Capt. Sayer pointed out that they met with opposition from the Town Council despite the fact that the armory houses the Kensington Fire Department and the offices of the council with rent and heat provided free by the Guardsmen. Capt. Sayer intimated that the refusal of sanction would enter into the town elections in May.

Jack Baxter, of the American Legion, was awarded a technical knockout over Stanley Crielleski, of Baltimore, in the third round of their bout, the feature match of the program. George Rutt, 112-pound Legionnaire, lost a decision to Al Bruno, of Baltimore, Ralph Smith, of the American Legion, gained the decision over "Bump" Gibson, of the Howitzer

ROYAL RUFFIN WINS AT HIALEAH AFTER SEVEN FAILURES

Gelding, 6-1, Half-Length Winner

Jaz Age, Choice, Is Second; Rip Van Winkle Third.

Winner Closes Fast to Cop in Final Furlong of Race.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—After seven vain attempts over the local course, Desha Breckenridge's gelding Royal Ruffin struck his winning stride and won the Bahama Purse of one mile here this afternoon. Hubert Callahan brought the $13.90 for $2 shot home by a length in 1:38 flat. Jaz Age, the choice, saved the place by three lengths from Rip Van Winkle.

Bede Clifford, governor of the Bahama Islands, and party, were guests of the Miami Jockey Club and the distinguished English visitor presented a silver trophy to the winner's trainer, Mose Lowenstein.

Breckinridge's Gelding Runs Game Race.

Royal Ruffin displayed vastly improved form and ran a very game race. The Coventry gelding was badly outrun to the stretch. Jaz Age showed the way, closely attended by Dancing Mack and Rip Van Winkle. Royal Ruffin circled the leaders turning into the stretch and closing very fast on the outside, he collared Jaz Age inside the sixteenth pole to draw away slightly in a drive. Jaz Age easily stood off Rip Van Winkle for the place. Dancing Mack faded back to fourth position. The others never were prominent.

Plutarch started long shot players off with a bang when he led home a very ordinary lot of platers in the one mile opener to pay $73.10 for a $2 ticket. The colt beat Banker Sam by a length, with Morocco beaten a similar margin for the place. Bozo acted in his usual fractious manner and was left. Plutarch got to the front around the bend and stood off Banker Sam's bid gamely in a drive. Morocco closed a big gap to land third money.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLUTARCH, $73.10, $27.80, $11.90; BANKER SAM, $17.60, $6.00; MOROCCO, $3.20.

PLUTARCH, out run from the break, gradually improved his position and responded gamely to a drive in stretch run. BANKER SAM was blocked at turn out of back stretch. Smith was wobbling all over the saddle in final stages. MOROCCO broke very slowly and was crowded back. He closed a big gap and, finishing stoutly, was up in the final strides to beat CRUSHED STONE for third place. Latter was blocked at turn out of back stretch, where he was taken up. Montgomery's finish was a weak effort. BOZO refused to join his field at the break.

SECOND RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:47. Off at 2:57. Winner, J. P. Atkin's ch. g. (2), by Kai Sang—Macron. Trained by William Robinson. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:35 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JOHN DAVENPORT, $5.10, $4.90, $3.40; BLARNEY CASTLE, $64.60, $33.20; REVONAH, $7.60.

JOHN DAVENPORT, bumped at the start and crowded back, gradually improved his position first quarter and closed with a rush in final furlong. This is evidently a good colt. BLARNEY CASTLE broke fast and ran straight, showed lot of early speed, but tired when put to a drive. REVONAH was driving hard to stall off SEYMOUR. LIGHT ACTION, in a jam in final stages, was eased up.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Big Business. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:24. Off at 3:25. Winner, Mrs. E. L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAMILTON, $10.90, $4.00, $3.60; CLEAN PLAY, $3.30, $2.70; TEA CRACKER, $4.10.

HAMILTON, rated along under slight restraint until rounding the far turn, where he went around CLEAN PLAY. He kept drawing away in stretch run after being shaken up at furlong pole, CLEAN PLAY, breaking rapidly, bugged the rail all the way. He was driving hard at end. TEA CRACKER moved up rounding the far turn, but hung in stretch drive.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. Gaineswood Purse. For 3-year-olds Start poor. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 3:59½. Winner, Mrs. M. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY PURCHASE, $7.40, $3.70, $3.90; JAMBALAYA, $4.40, $3.50; BUOYANT DAYS, $26.10.

MY PURCHASE, in close pursuit of pace, moved up rounding the turn into home stretch, where he bore out some, came again in stretch run and hung on well in final drive. JAMBALAYA responded with a good effort to a drive, gradually improved his position after breaking slowly. BUOYANT DAYS closed on his own courage and finished on the winner's heels. SONG HIT, shut off soon after the break, tired after showing lot of speed to stretch turn. COMMON CARRIER went very wide into home stretch.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Bahama Silver Trophy. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:27½. Winner, Desha Breckenridge's br. g. (4), by Coventry—Pleasing. Trained by M. Lowenstein. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:11 3-5, 1:38.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROYAL RUFFIN, $13.90, $5.90, $3.60; JAZ AGE, $4.00, $2.60; RIP VAN WINKLE $2.40.

ROYAL RUFFIN, a trailer in early stages, began improving his position rounding the far turn, closed with a rush last furlong and was going strongest at end. JAZ AGE showed rapid pace from the start and Allen had him well in hand first six furlongs. He flattened out when the winner challenged. RIP VAN WINKLE raced on the outside of leaders all the way. JOHN P. was blocked when he attempted to come through on the inside at stretch turn.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:57. Off at 5:00. Winner, W. C. Weant's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MATADI, $4.10, $3.10, $2.70; SIR BYRON, $3.10, $3.40; ROCKTOR, $26.40.

MATADI, slow to begin, worked his passage up on the outside, made a wide turn into home stretch, but responded full of courage when called on. SIR BYRON, a forward contender all the way, charged on DEDICATE at top of stretch, but hung after disposing of latter. ROCKTOR closed with a rush on the outside. DEDICATE and CHICAGO GIRL tired.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:27. Off at 5:30. Winner, Mrs. A. Carfano's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PARTISAN, $5.80, $3.50, $2.80; STARBOARD LIGHT, $4.60, $3.20; FAIR BILL, $3.40.

PARTISAN had the speed of the field and raced along with a safe lead, saving ground under light restraint to the stretch, where he held on gamely when put under pressure. STARBOARD LIGHT broke slowly and was badly outrun for six furlongs, closed rapidly on the outside and was gaining with every stride. FAIR BILL did not get into his best stride until the last quarter mile, then made up a lot of ground. SAN PRESTO raced well up from the start, but was whipped around the bend and flattened out in final furlong. DUNROCK was made too much use of in early running and stopped after reaching the head of the stretch.

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 17.—Only four entries were received in the Palatki Handicap, a test over the three-quarter sprint distance, which features the program at Hialeah Park tomorrow. The contestants in this $1,500 headliner are well matched and under the weight assignment should produce a spirited contest.

W. M. Moore's highly regarded VANDERPOOL, which showed a return to his winning form last start, has been assigned 126 pounds in this event. Despite his impost, the Campfire colt should have little trouble in again taking the measure of PANETIAN, his most formidable rival. The latter has demonstrated his ability in sprints. The G. D. Widener gelding is favored for the place. DON LEON, with a 4-pound weight advantage, should finish in the money. FRENCH LASS will complete the field.

FIRST RACE—MOVE ALONG is selected to graduate. KATHLEEN J is gifted with plenty of early speed and may last to save the place, with CHIEF'S CAMILLE favored over the others for the show.

SECOND RACE—MODESTO, an easy winner last outing, is favored to score her second victory. DUSKY DAME is on the improve and is the place selection, with BRANDY and WHIRLING closely rated for the minor award.

THIRD RACE—On recent form, BLACK DOVE is the logical choice. SILVER LAKE is dropping down in this field, and figures to extend the top one. AFRIDI, third last start, should go as well here.

FOURTH RACE—GLENSIDE is selected to capture the honors. This consistent eternal gelding in the Mrs. V. M. Duncan string, is at the top of his form. PLEASE is another steady performer which is given the place call. SALISBURY is nicely suited and should hold the others safe.

SIXTH RACE—SUN TEATIME has shown the best form of his seven rivals, and should carry his speed to victory. COOTS is meeting his own class in this event, and should finish in the runner-up position. FELAXE has turned in several creditable performances and is favored for the short end of the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—BROOKSIE has raced well with better company than he meets here, and should score. BROADWAY LIGHTS may falter at the route, but should hold on long enough to save the place. IRON CZAR will have PHANTOM ROCK to beat for the show.

Dr. Freeland Second Choice at 6-1 in Agua Caliente Handicap.

AGUA CALIENTE RACE TRACK, Mexico, Feb. 17.—Phar Lap, the Australian wonder horse, is favorite in the winter books of the $50,000 Agua Caliente Handicap to be run on March 20, only 3-to-1 being offered on his chances of winning despite the fact that he has made little advancement in training since his arrival here.

Dr. Freeland, quoted at 6-to-1, is second favorite, with Reveille Boy and Joe Flores rated at 8-to-1 and Lucky Tom at 10-to-1.

Community League Fives on Final Lap

With the prospect of a triple tie in Section A of the Community Center League, play swings into its closing chapters tonight when Potomac Boat Club meets Mount Vernon at Central at 9:30 o'clock, and the Crescents play Mercury at 7:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow night Mount Vernon plays the Shade Shop at Macfarland at 8 o'clock and the Petworth Mets meet Phi Delta Zeta at 9. Saturday night the league will close with the meeting of the Mersury A. C. and the Ross Jewelers, at Eastern, at 9 o'clock.

The two league sections will meet next week for the league championship. All twenty teams will enter the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament, which begins March 1 at Tech High Gymnasium under the sponsorship of The Post.

Landon Is No Match For St. Alban's Five

St. Alban's accounted for another local rival in prep school ranks yesterday when Landon was turned back by a count of 31-to-17. The Saints took an early lead and bounded out in front all the way. They led 16-9 at the half.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

A MAJOR step forward in the direction of bigger and better basket ball for Washington was taken last night when representatives and advisers of the city's eight leading prep schools gathered at The Washington Post and formed complete plans for an elimination tournament to be played February 22, 23 and 24 at George Washington University Gymnasium.

The schools concerned are St. John's, St. Alban's, Georgetown Prep, Landon, Emerson, Friends, Gonzaga and Devitt.

Speakers for the schools rolled merrily into the business at hand last night, and with a cooperative trait which boded no altercations, rearranged schedules in sweeping style to make way for the tournament, which will establish beyond all doubt Washington's leading prep school basket ball team, a title which never before could be thoroughly laid claim to by any one school.

Shift Other Games For Tournament.

Georgetown Prep shifted its game with Central, scheduled for next Tuesday, St. John's postponed a game with Hyattsville for the same day and Devitt and Georgetown Prep moved back their proposed contest Wednesday. Gonzaga will meet Tech Monday night at Gonzaga, but graciously offered to play in the tournament against Friends, in the afternoon.

With decks clear, tournament plans progressed rapidly. It was decided to stage two games in the afternoon on Monday and two at night, after which there will be but four teams left in the swim. Tuesday will have one afternoon game and one night fray, and Wednesday's championship deciding tussle will be played at night.

There will be no admission fee for the city's thousands of basket ball fans. George Washington University can seat about 1,000 spectators and there seems little doubt that seats will be at a premium. They will be distributed on the first come, first serve system.

The District Playground office offered Joe Mitchell and Ben Kail, two of the District's leading court arbiters as officials for the game. Obie O'Meara, popular high school official, will serve as an alternate.

Post Trophy To Winner.

George Washington University, co-sponsors with The Post of the event, will issue programs listing the names and numbers and school colors of all the players. The Post has offered a large silver trophy to the winning team.

The meeting of team representatives last night unanimously awarded St. John's and Georgetown Prep the two seeded positions. The two crack clubs were placed at the top and bottom of the draw, respectively, and the names of the remaining six teams pulled out of "Count" Cornwell's casket-lined derby in the order in which they appear above.

Games will be made up of eight minute quarters.

With the ice at last broken, coaches and advisors of the prep schools, called a meeting to be held after the basket ball tournament with a view to bringing Gonzaga, St. John's, St. Alban's, Georgetown Prep and Landon together in a prep school football series, and all eight schools together in a tennis league.

Devitt Preps Down Gonzaga Five, 39-20

Devitt Prep added another game to win side of the ledger when it took the measure of Gonzaga, 39-20, in a

Co.; Johnny Schutz, American Legion, defeated Angelo Bradiol, of Baltimore, and Johnny Peruzzi punched his way to a well-earned victory over Johnny Meyers.

Hubert Barber, of Silver Spring, and Tom Clayton, of Chevy Chase, wrestled 30 minutes to a draw, and Bill Chapman, of Kensington, threw Tom Long, of Leonardtown, Md., in 49 minutes.

LADIES LEAGUE OPENS.

The Army Medical Center Ladies Basket Ball League opened its schedule at Walter Reed Hospital last night with the playing of two games. The Junior Aides defeated the Dieticians, 48-26, and the Senior Aides gained a 21-15 victory over the Student Nurses. The league will continue throughout the rest of this month, and through March and April.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

"REDS" Megaw last night threw cold water on the current rumor that he and Ollie Pacini had dissolved their bowling partnership. "I don't know who is circulating these reports, but I do know that Ollie and I have no idea of breaking up," "Reds" said, his ire aroused. "Why, what would Pacini do without me? I ask you, what would he do? Why he would not be worth a dime," he continued, his chest expanding several inches. "I tell you, son, I've been a big help to him in doubles, and he knows it. No, I will not leave my pal when he is depending on me to pull him through, and that is final."

Pacini was rather reluctant to discuss the affair. "I can't leave 'Reds.' Why, he'd be lost in a doubles match without me. I've carried him through so many of them that I'd feel like I was shirking my duty if I hooked up with another partner. You know, I joined the Boy Scouts when I was a youngster, and I've been doing my one good deed a day ever since. I've come to regard doubles matches with Megaw as a partner as a fulfillment of the Boy Scout pledge, and if I left, well * * *."

So it looks like the red-headed Irishman and the olive-skinned Italian will continue to make things hot for the other teams in this neck of the woods for some time to come.

Peck Chapel No. 1 hung up a new set record for the Georgetown Church League when it piled up 1,678 pins at Arcadia. The new mark included a game of 576. Sam Corcoran bagged the game honors with his 135, while Dick Holmes and Sanford ran a dead heat for the set laurels with 353 each.

Polly Shugrue's 118 game and 339 set were important factors in the Lucky Strike's 2-1 win over Recreation in the Ladies' District League at Columbia. Billie Williams toppled the maples for scores of 116 and 303 to lead the losers. The Strike team rolled a high game of 515, and totaled 1,497 pins for the match.

Ray Watson knocked a few pins loose from their moorings to cop the individual set prize in the Bureau of Standards loop at Columbia. Ray bagged 350 pins. Ubele's 139 was good for high game. The Engineers rolled a game of 547 and set of 1,576 and won all three from Technologists. B. T. U., Files and Mimeos downed the Industrialists, Chemists and Ceramists by the odd games.

Catherine Quigley pasted up a neat little 349 set score in the Deal's Service-Meyer Davis, Ladies District League match at King Pin No. 2, and was forthwith awarded a prize. Rena Leavy was not far behind with her 336 total, which included a 140 game. Incidentally, Deal's won all three games.

The Five Greeks got in a few licks in preparation for their match with the Sunrise Bakers at Convention Hall Saturday, by winning all three from the Nationals in the King Pin Business Men's League last night.

A game of 154 and a 357 set were good for a couple of prizes in the Bankers League at Arcadia. McCambridge had the game and Yerkes (He must be Swedish) owned the set. Federal-American's 587 and 1,634 scores copped the team prizes.

The National Pale Drys were moving along in full stride in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike last night, and as a result, Judd & Detweiler lost a trio of games. The Drys rolled 582, 611 and 635 to their opponents 522, 533 and 570. Astor Clarke's 153 and Jack Wolstenholme's 390 scores topped the winners.

The Bill Woods won a couple of close ones from Columbia in the Ladies' District League at Lucky Strike. Elsie Fischer's 338 set and 123 game, both of which counted for Columbia, took the individual honors.

In another Ladies' District League match at the same alleys, the King Pin quintet copped the deuce from the John Blicks. Miss Kellog's 144 game and 330 set failed to save the Johnnies from defeat.

Osgood's 153 score for the ten boxes and Thompson's 375 for the three games, led the individual scoring in the C. & P. Telephone loop at Lucky Strike. Installation had a 644 game to lead the teams in pinspilling.

Joe Pricci and the Hecht Co. won the prizes in the Business Men's League at Convention Hall. Joe mauled the maples for a game of 149 and set of 391, while the department store crew chalked up a set of 1,664, included in which was a 582 game.

Ed Connick's 153 and 392 score enabled him to take home the bacon in the Electrical League at Convention Hall. Pepco Station, F 1, established a new team game record for the loop with a mark of 596. Central Armature No. 1 rolled a set of 1,601, high for the night.

Tony Santini's 146 game and 393 total was high in the Knights of Columbus League at the Hall. Marquette walked off with the team honors with a 616 game and 1,766 set.

GOLF DATES ASSIGNED IN D. C.

U.S. Open Trials Due June 6; D. C. Amateur Sept. 7-8.

THE sectional qualifying rounds of the national open golf tournament will be held in Washington on Monday, June 6, it was announced last night by David L. Thomson, president of the District of Columbia Golf Association, at a meeting of the executive committee last night at the residence of Herbert T. Shannon, on Cleveland avenue.

President Thomson was appointed a committee of one to confer with the clubs of the District concerning the site of the qualifying rounds with the probability being that the Columbia Country Club will be selected.

The executive committee has arranged a tentative schedule of events for 1932 subject to the approval of the District association at its annual meeting March 14 at the Racquet Club.

D. C. Amateur Sept. 7-8 At Chevy Chase.

The District of Columbia amateur championship was assigned to the Chevy Chase Club on September 7 and 8. The District junior championship will be staged at the Army and Navy Club on September 1, and the District senior championship at Woodmont October 14, it was announced.

The club invitation tournaments have been listed as follows:

Chevy Chase—May 17, 18, 19, 20.
Columbia—June 14, 15, 16, 17.
Army and Navy—May 3, 4, 5, 6.
Congressional—September 20, 21, 22, 23.

Closing Date Near For A.A.U. Entries

Teams Must Get Blanks In by February 23 to Earn Title Chance.

The time is drawing dangerously close to February 23, when the curtain will ring down on entries in the District A. A. U. basket ball championship, to be contested in seven different weight and sex classifications beginning March 1 at Tech High gymnasium.

The majority of the nearly 1,000 players who will compete in the gigantic joust already are registered, but stragglers have been warned by A. A. U. officials to fill out amateur registration blanks and present them to Charles M. Fyfe at the Boys' Club.

Blanks for amateur registration and for team entries may be secured at The Post sports department.

A record-breaking galaxy of teams, ranging from the 100-pound clubs, up through and including the 115, 130, 145 and unlimited men's and junior and senior women's, will be in the swim for the seven coveted titles. The race is wide open, with only two of the 1931 champions defending their titles, either because they have passed on to heavier weights or disbanded.

Y. M. C. A. Matmen Beat J. C. C., 23 to 9

Victors Handicapped in Match for Unofficial D. C. Team Title.

The Y. M. C. A. wrestling team won the unofficial championship of the District last night before a packed gymnasium at the Jewish Community Center when the highly touted J. C. C. grapplers were turned back by a count of 23 to 9, one of the most decisive defeats ever handed the losers.

The Y. M. C. A., handicaped by having to use two of its men in two separate matches, showed good form throughout as a team. In one of the most interesting matches Broaddus, Y 145-pounder, defeated Sills, J. C. C. ace, in two extra periods when Sills pulled a tendon. The two youths traded fists at the end.

125 pounds—Jack Kosowski (J. C. C.) defeated Shockley (Y). Time advantage, 2:10.

135 pounds—Paine (Y) defeated Blumberg (J. C. C.). Time advantage, 1:10.

165 pounds—Whitworth (Y) defeated Deavers, fall, 1:10.

135 pounds—Paul (Y) defeated Margolis, fall, 7:32.

Heavyweight—Silverman (J. C. C.) defeated Ballard. Time advantage, 3:10.

1:25 pounds—Shockley (Y) defeated Iskow, fall, 7 minutes.

FIREMEN PLAY G. W. FROSH

The Bethesda Firemen will tackle the powerful George Washington University Freshmen quintet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase gym. Marines Defeat Gallaudet Five Devil Dogs, Off to Good Start, Stave Off Blues' Rally to Win, 42-33.

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Feb. 17.—Gallaudet College, of Washington, lost a hard-fought game to the Marines here tonight, 42 to 33. The Blues were outclassed, but not outfought by the Devil Dogs, and action was fast from start to finish.

The home team assumed the lead at the outset of the fray, running up 13 points before the visitors had tallied. The half ended with Gallaudet on the short end of a 24-to-13 score. The latter rallied in the second half, and with Walnoha sinking long shots from beyond the center of the floor boosted its total to within five points of the leathernecks. Some clever floor play on the part of Gaunt, however, prevented further damage.

Locke, Zeher and Gaunt were the outstanding players for the Marines, while Jensen, who led Gallaudet in scoring, Walnoha, and "Bilbo" Mohoghan were the leaders for the collegians. Jensen provided the fans with a few thrills with his one-hand shots from the side court.

Badminton Club Lists Round Robin

The Washington Badminton Club's round robin tournament for the city badminton team championship got under way last night at the Y. W. C. A. with the Wednesday Group holding an 8-6 lead over the Thursday Group at the conclusion of the night's 14 matches. Play will continue tonight, with 14 matches scheduled.

Men's singles—George Clarke defeated J. Ed Murdock, 15-16; Jack Purinton defeated H. R. Hathaway, 15-2.

Men's doubles—Murdock and Hathaway defeated Clark and H. Clay Thompson, 21-14; Purinton and Beattie defeated Walker and Jordan, 21-17; Hathaway and Beattie defeated Cartwright and Thompson, 21-21 (5-0).

Women's doubles—Mrs. Rebe Ford and Mrs. H. C. Thompson defeated Mrs. A. O. White and Mrs. W. R. Willoughby, 21-11; Mrs. Margaret Graham and Mrs. Malcolm Beattie defeated Mrs. Murdock and Mrs. A. O. White, 21-15; Mrs. Graham and Miss Pinnette defeated Miss Frazier and Mrs. Beattie, 21-1.

Mixed doubles—Mrs. Willoughby and Murdock defeated Mrs. Thompson and Clark, 21-21 (5-1); Miss Pinnette and Thompson defeated Mrs. Willoughby and Walker, 21-18; Mrs. Murdock and Beattie defeated Mrs. Thompson and Purinton, 21-18; Mrs. White and Jordan defeated Mrs. Ford and Beattie, 21-18; Mrs. Graham and Cartwright defeated Miss Frazier and Hathaway, 21-4; Mrs. Willoughby and Walker defeated Mrs. Beattie and Clark, 21-8.

Community Center "B" Title to D. & H.

Coal Dealers Trounce the Typewriter Gray Five, 36 to 16.

Exhibiting a championship caliber of play throughout the entire game, the Delaware & Hudson quintet clinched the title in Section B of the Community Center League by winning over the United Typewriter Grays by a score of 36 to 16 at Central High School last night.

The teams fought on a fairly even basis in the first half, which terminated with the coal dealers on the long end of a 13-to-8 score. With the advent of the second half, however, the eventual winners speeded up their attack and quickly pulled away from their opponents. Jim Ryan and George Beach led the attack, ringing up 23 points between them, or more than enough to win the game. Bob Gaylor, former Maryland University star, played a clever floor game for the winners, in addition to tossing in a couple of field goals. Fred Scheele was best for the winners. The Grays were held scoreless in the final period.

In other league games played last night the Tremonts defeated the Adelphites, 32 to 26, and the Crescents triumphed over the Ross Jewelers, 41 to 24. All of the teams are in Section A.

Congress Provides $10,000 For Commerce Aquarium

The beautiful aquarium in the new Department of Commerce Building will have occupants gathered from Government hatcheries from Oregon to Florida, as Congress has appropriated $10,000 in answer to the requests of Commissioner of Fisheries Henry O'Malley to stock the 40 tanks of the aquarium with water denizens enough to make the collection the largest fresh-water piscatorial exposition in this country.

Marine growth and decorations will be placed in the tanks to make the fish feel at home, and companions from their habitat will swim side by side in the aquarium.

Spencer, the dean of the collection, a 15-year-old sturgeon, who outlived three former companions in captivity, will occupy a prominent home in the exhibit, where he will direct the activities of his 400 subjects that will make their homes in nearby tanks. His kingdom will be well supplied with the droning music of Louisiana bullfrogs, and fish of golden and rainbow hue will decorate the collection.

Maintenance of the new aquarium will cost $10,000 a year, of which $5,000 will be expended for the service of an expert aquarium attendant and a helper. A $2,000 food bill is expected during the year, and $3,000 will be the cost of transportation of the fish, some of which will make the trip from Alaska.

The Bureau of Fisheries uses the exhibit to study the habits of the fish, and school children will utilize the collection for biological study.

Two Women Are Hurt When Auto Hits Tree

When their auto ran off the road near Floral Park, Md., and hit a tree yesterday, two Washington women were injured, one seriously.

They are Miss Margaret Hausman, 27, whose injuries were diagnosed at Casualty Hospital as lacerations of the forehead, contusions of the back, and a possible fractured skull, and Mary Fears, 21, also treated at Casualty for lacerations of the legs. Both women were brought to the hospital by passing motorists.

1 Seized in Liquor Storehouse Raid

40 Cases of Alleged Rum Confiscated by Police in Prince Georges.

A storehouse for alleged liquor in Columbia Park was raided yesterday by Prince Georges County policemen who arrested one man and seized 40 cases of reputed whisky.

The prisoner gave his name as Raymond Riggs, who lives near the garage where the contraband was found. The cases of jars were neatly stacked in a small garage, the policeman said, and were guarded by a huge Newfoundland dog. Riggs moved the animal into the cellar of the house before police could approach the cache. Riggs was charged with possession of liquor and released in bond of $1,000.

The raid was made by Sergt. H. G. Machen, and Policemen Claude Reese, Ralph Brown, and William Clifton. Columbia Park is across the Pennsylvania railroad tracks from Tuxedo. Police believe the alleged whisky was being kept at the house until a suitable opportunity for moving it into Washington was found.

Clarendon FireAuxiliary Picks Committee Heads

The committee chairman of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department, were announced Tuesday night as follows: Membership, Mrs. H. O. Kale; ways and means, Mrs. H. W. Hendley; entertainment, Mrs. Sara E. Carl; publicity, Mrs. Stephen E. Childs; welfare, Mrs. Pearl M. Dewey; refreshments, Mrs. M. G. Keyes. Mrs. Carl and Mrs. Mayme E. Smith were elected to the board of trustees.

Plans are being completed by the fire department for a series of card parties, the first of which will be held the evening of March 9 in the Lyon Park Community House.

'Macon' Name Chosen For Largest Airship

The third naval vessel to bear the name of a small Georgia city of 53,829 population will probably be the largest airship in the world for some time to come. Representative Carl Vinson (Democrat), Georgia, announced yesterday that the ZRS-5, now under construction, would be named Macon, after a city which is in his district under the new apportionment.

The floating giant, which the Navy hopes to make 1,000,000 cubic feet larger than the Akron, with 6,500,000 cubic feet, will be the third craft in naval service named after the Georgia city. The first was a Confederate wooden gunboat, and during the Word War, a cargo ship, the City of Macon, was acquired by the Navy.

Numerous requests from various cities had come in asking that the airship be named for them.

SUICIDE TRY HINTED AS LITTLE IS MOVED

Arlington Man Is Rushed to Insane Hospital as Rope Is Found in Cell.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

J. W. Little was removed to the Southwestern Hospital, at Marion, Va., for the criminal insane; early yesterday morning, in custody of Arlington County Policemen Raymond Crack and James D. East.

Little was judged insane by a commission composed of Drs. B. H. Swain, W. C. Welburn and S. T. Noland, after finding the body of his wife in the home at Arlington Sunday afternoon.

A warrant charging Little with murder was issued yesterday by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas.

The trip to the asylum was expedited because Deputy Sheriff L. Woodyard found the slip of a pillow missing in Little's cell yesterday. The slip was torn and tied as a rope and was found hidden under a mattress.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association meeting last night at the Ballston Firemen's Hall completed its plans to participate in the parade to be held Monday at Alexandria as a part of the Bicentennial celebration. Each of the departments will be represented in the line of march with one piece of apparatus.

The association voted to request Sheriff Howard B. Fields to send police to all fires in the county, particularly at night, to protect the lives of firemen.

President G. Frank Allwine presented to the Clarendon Fire Department a banner for the greatest membership attedance to meetings of the association during the past year. The banner was accepted on behalf of the department by its president, Walter U. Varney.

Lyman M. Kelley, member of the county board, addressed the meeting, speaking on "The Duties of a Fireman."

Miss Emma Chiera, secretary at the Italian Embassy, is announced as the principal speaker at the dinner meeting of the Arlington County Business and Professional Women's Club to be held this evening at 6:30 o'clock at Windsor Arms, Glebe road, Arlington County.

E. J. Skidmore, chairman of the Arlington County Welfare Board, has been appointed by Gov. John Garland Pollard as his representative on the unemployment committee for Arlington County. Mr. Skidmore fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Harry A. Fellows.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Stonewall Jackson School, Mulhall, Arlington County, will hold its founder's day program in the school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

The "Land of Sunshine," in an illustrated lecture, will be given by Arlington Camp, No. 16,937, Modern Woodmen of America, this evening at the Washington-Lee High School at 8 o'clock. The program is a part of the educational activities in the fight against tuberculosis.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School, Aurora Heights, Arlington County, will hold a founder's day program at the school this evening at 8 o'clock.

Hyattsville Special Lent Services Are Announced

A series of special services every Wednesday evening during Lent in Pinkney Memorial Church in Hyattsville has been announced by the Rev. Clyde Brown, pastor of the church. The Rev. Edward Gabler, of Christ church here spoke last night.

On February 24 the Rev. W. W. Shearer, of St. Timothy's in Catonsville, will preach, while March 2 will be marked by an illustrated lecture on the foreign mission field. The Rev. W. Cosby Bell, D. D., of the Virginia Theological Seminary, will hold services on March 9, and on March 16 the Rev. Ze Barney Phillips, chaplain of the Senate and pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, will speak. The services are at 7:30.

OLD METING HOUSE CEREMONY SUNDAY

Second Presbyterian Rites to Honor Washington and Masons.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Rev. Dr. William B. McIlwaine, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, will preside at a Bicentennial ceremony to be held in the old Presbyterian Meeting House on South Fairfax street in honor of George Washington and his fellow Masons, the service beginning at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening.

The speakers will be James H. Price, Lieutenant Governor of Virginia, past grand master of Masons in Virginia, and present grand commander of the Knights Templar, and the Rev. John C. Palmer, grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons in the District of Columbia. Harry K. Green, recently elected grand master of Masons in Virginia, will be present and deliver a short address, and it is expected that Charles H. Callahan, past grand master of Masons in Virginia, will introduce the speakers.

More than 100 Knights Templar, in full uniform, are expected to attend the service, and a special quartet of Alexandrians will sing, many of their selections being Masonic music.

It is in honor of George Washington, the Mason, and the more than 25 fellow Masons who are buried in the old churchyard, that this service is being held. Among these fellow Masons of Washington are Dr. James Craik, chief physician and surgeon of the Continental Army and first surgeon general of the United States Army; the Rev. Dr. James Muir, chaplain of the funeral lodge of Masons which buried Washington; Col. Dennis Ramsay, one of Washington's pallbearers and who, as mayor of Alexnadria, delivered the farewell address to Washington on behalf of his fellow townsmen when he left to assume the Presidency of the United States in 1789; William Hunter, jr., junior warden of the Alexandria Lodge in 1789, and founder of the St. Andrew's Scottish Society; Dr. James Gilles, worshipful master of the Alexandria Lodge from 1795 to 1797; John Kincaid, first deputy grand master of the Grand Lodge of the District of Colmbia, and many others.

The George Washington Birthday Association of Alexandria will place a wreath on the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon at a formal ceremony to be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The officers of the association are preparing an elaborate program, which includes Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, U. S. A., who will be the grand marshal of the parade Monday afternoon, and who will be the orator. It is expected also that Maj. Gen. John H. Russell, of the U. S. Marine Corps, and Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, of the U. S. Coast Guard, will be present and deliver short addresses.

The reception committee of the association has mapped out plans for the reception which is to be held in Gadsby's Tavern beginning at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. It has not been fully determined whether President Hoover will attend the reception, and if he does not he will go directly to the reviewing stand on North Washington street, leaving there for Mount Vernon immediately after the parade has passed. However, Gov. John Garland Pollard, of Virginia, will attend the reception, which will end promptly at 2 o'clock and the guests will then go to the reviewing stand. The parade will start at 2:15 o'clock and will require approximately three hours to pass a given point.

Plans have been made for parking automobiles of all visitors on Royal street between Queen and Cameron streets, which will be blocked off for the purpose.

Souvenir buttons to aid in defraying the expenses of the parade will be sold by members of the Business and Professional Women's Club at their various places of business. Those who will have the buttons for sale are Mrs. Mary W. Troth, Southern Railway office, Princess and Fairfax streets; Miss Eleanor Watkins, First National Bank; Miss Adelyn Apperson, office of the Alexandria Water Co.; Mrs. Helen V. Reed, Burke & Herbert's Bank; Mrs. Mary J. Hullings, George Mason Hotel, and Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, 907 Prince street. Buttons were also placed on sale at Timberman's Drug Store, King and Washington streets.

Tickets for the public reviewing stand on North Washington street will be on sale at the stand by Gilbert J. Cox, jr., 110 North St. Asaph street; Warfield's Drug Store, King and Pitt streets, and will be procured and delivered by the American Automobile Association to its members.

The International Fire Chief's Association will be represented in Alexandria in the celebration Monday by International President D. W. Brosnan, of Albany, Ga., who, with other international members, headed by Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., of Alexandria, will make a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon and place a wreath on the tomb of Washington on behalf of the organization, Washington having been an ardent fireman and a member of the historic Friendship Fire Engine Co., of Alexandria.

Others who will accompany President Brosnan are Richard Lee Smith, of Pittsburgh, first vice president of the association; Frank B. Moore, Nashville, Tenn., a director; Chief W. H. Joynes, Richmond; Chief R. S. Vaughan, Norfolk; Chief Richard Alexander, Portsmouth; Chief R. S. Roster, of the Portsmouth Navy Yard fire department; Chief George S. Watson, of the District of Columbia fire department, and Chief August Emrich, of Baltimore.

Board of Supervisors Gives Approval to Transfer After Long Fight.

A controversy of many years standing was brought to a close yesterday when the board of supervisors of Fairfax County, Va., relinquished the control of the county traffic police. The county police force, composed of Capt. Heywood J. Durrer, Carl T. McIntosh, Lewis L. Pinks and Arthur W. Mills were placed under the complete control and supervision of Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby, of Fairfax County.

Prior to this, the traffic force was responsible to the board of supervisors, but was under the supervision of County Highway Engineer F. N. Larkin, who was made

THE GREAT RAZOR BLADE MYSTERY.

"Fifty thousand dollars worth of safety razor blades were stolen from a truck held up on the Boston Post road last night."—News item.

"Good morning, Mr. Holmes," said Dr. Watson, "I've come to tell you—"

"About the stolen razor blades," interrupted Sherlock Holmes. "I've already heard. A most unusual crime, indeed."

"Fifty thousand dollars worth of razor blades is a lot of razor blades," mused Dr. Watson. "How many would you say, to be exact?"

"Elemental, my dear Watson, elemental!" returned the great detective. "A problem in simple mathematics. What is the latest quotation on razor blades?"

"Thirty cents a half dozen in my drug store, when I last inquired," replied Watson, "but that was 48 hours ago."

"Well, say 5 cents a blade," figured Holmes, puffing on his trusty pipe. "That makes twenty blades for a dollar. Multiply that by 50,000 and you have what?"

"One million," answered Watson, after a few minutes' work.

"Precisely," said Holmes, pacing his laboratory. "And it is the volume that intrigues me."

"Who could want a million safety razor blades?" asked Dr. Watson, dumbly.

"Who, indeed, and under what circumstances?" replied the master sleuth. It is a well-known fact that the average man seldom provides for more than one or two blades ahead of his immediate needs."

"Which proves?" asked Watson.

"Which indicates that the robbery was the work of an exceptional individual, a fellow who really planned his shaves far ahead. He would also be a man below middle age."

"Why?"

"The average blade is good for three shaves," said Holmes. "One million blades would give three million shaves. A man who would anticipate that many would necessarily anticipate many years of living. I think, too, that he might be a fellow who had just had week-end guests."

"How so?" asked Watson.

"Because it is after a visit by week-end guests that a man finds all his blades used and a desperate need of new ones," said Holmes, gazing across the moor.

* * * *

"If you have the crime worked out in such detail, why do you not proceed to get your man?" asked Watson.

"Because," explained Holmes, "I am not satisfied it was a man. It might have been a woman. A hotel maid, for instance."

"Why a hotel maid?" demanded Watson, jabbing the great detective with his hourly hypodermic.

"Such a crime might very logically be the work of such a girl, made stark mad by repeated mutilations from old razor blades carelessly left on window sills and shelves," suggested Holmes, substituting a stogie for his clogged pipe. "I have often imagined a hotel maid suddenly resolving to wage a war against all razor blades."

"Amazing!" exclaimed Watson.

* * * *

The phone rang. Mr. Holmes answered it. "Not so good," he meditated as he hung up. "My operative reports the theft of the million razor blades was done by a man, not a woman. And I must be off at once."

"Where to?" asked Watson.

"To look for a man with multiple lacerations of his chin, cheeks, ears, neck and nose," snapped Sherlock, putting on his cap.

A SHIP OF MYSTERY AND TERROR FLASHED DOWN UPON ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL CITIES OF JUPITER—WITHOUT WARNING, AND WITH RUTHLESS CRUELTY, IT HAD TURNED ITS DEADLY DISINTEGRATOR BEAMS ON THE FRIENDLY POPULATION, WHICH WAS QUITE UNPREPARED FOR SUCH AN UNWARRANTED ATTACK.
IN AN INSTANT THE CREW OF THE MYSTERY SHIP HAD DEBARKED AND SWARMED DOWN INTO THE BUILDING ON WHICH IT RESTED—THE TREASURE OF THE UNITED NATIONS OF JUPITER.

STOCK MARKET SAGS AS GAINS DISAPPEAR

Profit Taking Halts Advance, With Losses Ranging Up to 6 Points.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Unable to improve on Tuesday's top prices, the stock market turned reactionary today, and gave up what had been gained in yesterday's advance.

Forenoon transactions were characterized by considerable irregularity. One or two attempts to push the list through the recent highs fell fractionally short of success. Thus discouraged, traders then adopted the surer program of taking profits already at hand and the market slipped off sharply in the later hours, closing with a heavy tone. Many pivotal issues were off 1 to 6 points net, averaging into a net loss of 2.8 points, against a rise of 2.7 in the previous session. Sales totaled 2,180,813 shares.

The swift reversal came when the news was as much favorable as otherwise. American Telephone's directors fulfilled market expectations by declaring a regular quarterly dividend of $2.25, though perhaps some professionals were disappointed because yesterday's rumor that payments for a full year might be voted was not substantiated. Telephone led the decline with a 6-point break.

Steel Drops 2 Points.

United States Steel tried valiantly to cross 50, which it touched yesterday, but was unsuccessful and fell back more than 2 points net. Speculative enthusiasm for Radio waned. American Can, du Pont, Case, National Biscuit, American Tobacco B, North American, Consolidated Gas and Sears Roebuck lagged 2 to 2½. Union Pacific and Santa Fe lost 4 each. Auburn, as usual, was out of bounds with an 8-point loss.

Decision of Southern Pacific's directors to take "no action" on the quarterly dividend until the May meeting recalled the course adopted by some other roads, notably New York Central, in postponing a decision until the earnings position is clarified.

Thus the stock is not officially taken off a dividend basis, which means that it is not automatically eliminated from fixed trust portfolios. Also, continuity of payments, from the standpoint of annual disbursements, remains unbroken.

Production of Steel.

Although car loadings showed an encouraging g in in the first week of February, production of steel worries along at an unprofitable rate. Iron Age estimated the current average at 27 per cent, against 28 per cent a week ago, and said the industry had become reconciled to the probability "that a sizable gain in orders and plant operations will be slow to materalize and may be deferred until the second quarter." The Ford company, it is understood, has not yet placed any large steel orders, and volume production of the new models may be delayed until late next month.

First quarter earnings for most steel companies, unless conditions improve promptly and markedly, are found to be unprofitable. The stock market, in its recent mood, however, has appeared willing to overlook immediate probabilities in favor of hopes that business will be stimulated later by Nation-wide measures to stem deflation.

Steadiness of the money markets suggests that panking circles are expecting little stringency in connection with the large March 1 settlements. Also, it is apparent that losses of gold are causing no concern. Foreign currencies were more favorably disposed toward the dollar.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—More than 2c a bushel quickfall in wheat prices today followed upturns to a new top record for the season.

Advances in wheat values were simultaneous with fresh widespread circulation of reports about "favorable" official announcements expected from Washington. Subsequent tumbles in prices came chiefly after President Hoover's special message to Congress was received. Many traders expressed disappointment and said they had expected he would dwell upon prohibition or some other subject likely to have considerable influence on the grain markets.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¼@1⅝ under yesterday's finish; corn, 1⅛@1½ down; oats, ¼@¾ off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to 12 cents gain.

Profit taking sales on the part of recent buyers, especially houses with Eastern connections, were a feature of the late dealings. Wheat when the market was dropping from the day's top level. A statement from one of the leading bulls denying that the Federal Farm Board had been selling wheat futures on every advance in prices failed to check the reaction. Earlier, the wheat market fluctuated rapidly with traders showing a decided tendency at times to take their cue from the course of securities, United States Steel in particular.

Bears in wheat made much of Liverpool reports of prospective enlarged supplies from Argentina. An opposite factor was unfavorable crop advices from parts of western Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado, also reported, together with serious dearth of moisture, and absence of a snow blanket. Overseas demand for North American wheat was confined mostly to wheat grown in Canada. Clearances of wheat and flour from North America for the week were small.

Corn and oats paralleled the wheat market. Country offerings of corn were of fair volume and shipping demand here was slow.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to hog market upturns.

BOND PRICES HIGHER AFTER SLIGHT LOSS

Average Gain Is Fractional at Closing; U. S. Issues Continue Advance.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Although bond prices sagged somewhat in late trading today, apparently in sympathy with a weakened stock list, the market refused to give up all of its gains and closed fractionally higher.

United States Government issues continued their upward movement and five of the Treasury loans established new record highs for the year. The Liberties also advanced moderately.

Secondary rail bonds were up from 1 to around 9 points during most of the session, but a flurry of realizing near the end brought the averages for this department down to just where they finished yesterday.

Earlier buying in the carrier section was attributed to a better feeling regarding future prospects for increased business. An upturn in carloadings for the week ending February 6, also aided sentiment.

While declines of a point or more were registered by some bonds of such recent favorites as Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Chicago & Northwestern and others, sensational gains were made by issues of Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Alton, Chicago & Western Indiana, Delaware & Hudson, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

There was a revival of interest in the utility department with the result that prices moved moderately higher. International Telephone and Western Union liens were higher and Gas & Electric mortgages advanced. The industrials, like the railroads, finished in the same position they occupied yesterday.

Bonds of Argentine, Australia and New South Wales were the leaders in the foreign category, increasing their prices substantially. Uruguay obligations also were higher on announcement that the Government is suspending its foreign debts sinking fund, but maintaining interest payments. The European list was steady and Japanese loans were easy.

Sales totaled $12,729,000 and the average for 60 corporate securities advanced one-tenth of a point.

CAPITAL NOW FIFTH IN BUILDING WORK

Survey of 563 Cities Gives Washington $1,304,725 in Construction.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Of 563 cities and towns in this country reporting building permits for January, Washington was fifth, with a total of $1,304,725, a substantial increase over the total of $925,785 reported in December, but comparing unfavorably with the $1,816,700 announced for January, 1931.

Among the 25 cities with the largest volume of permits for January, New York was first, with $15,019,386; Cleveland, second with $2,901,900; Los Angeles, third, with $1,862,171 and Seattle, fourth with $1,750,510. The total for the 563 cities was $48,516,351, or 15.3 per cent less than December, as compared with a normal expected seasonal decline of 10.5 per cent, and 55.4 per cent below January, 1931.

Freight traffic handled in 1931 by the railroads of this country measured in net ton miles, (the number of tons of freight multiplied by the distance carried), totaled 340,148,081,000 net ton miles, according to complete reports for the year just received by the Bureau of Railway Economics and made public yesterday.

Doherty Earnings Increase.

Henry L. Doherty & Co., with local offices in the Southern Building, reported yesterday that gross earnings of Cities Service Co. for the 12 months ended January 31, 1932, were $37,138,000.

The company's net earnings in January, 1932, exceeded those of the same month last year. Expenses in January, 1932 are 15 per cent under January, 1931. Net earnings to common stock and reserves were $1,922,000 in January of this year, which is also an increase over those of January, 1931.

The company reports 521,686 common stockholders as of February 15, which includes a net gain of 3,250 in the past 30 days. The company's net earnings to common stock and reserves for the month of January, 1931 are the second largest in the past 13 months.

That the company's January, 1932, net earnings advance over those of January, 1931, in the face of a decline in the consumption of natural gas and oil for heating purposes, due to the unusually mild weather prevailing this winter, is gratifying, as the company has large interests in these two branches of business.

The next earnings of Cities Service Co. for the twelve months ended January 31, 1932, are larger than those of any twelve months' period in the company's history, ended December 31, with the exceptions of 1929 and 1930. The company has published 21 annual statements of earnings since its first, covering the year ended December 31, 1911.

Carl Board Reelected.

At the recent meeting of stockholders of Call Carl, Inc., the following directors were reelected for the ensuing year: Herman F. Carl, Edmund O. Carl, Louis C. Carl, Frederick Carl, George E. Keneipp, Chapin B. Bauman, Joseph A. Burkart, James E. Smith and Elliot H. Thomson.

At the organization meeting of the directors, the following officers were reelected: Herman F. Carl, president; Edmund O. Carl, vice president; Louis Carl, secretary; Frederick Carl, treasurer; George E. Keneipp, general manager; Chapin B. Bauman, attorney; Joseph A. Burkhart, counsel. The president's report brought out the fact that Call Carl had a gratifying year, despite the general business conditions.

The National Coal Association, from incomplete car loading reports from the railroads, estimate bituminous coal production in the United States, for the week ended February 13, as nearly 6,950,000 net tons. A report of the Bureau of Mines shows production of 6,411,000 net tons for the week ended January 30, and 7,233,000 for the week ended February 6.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Mill operations in the Youngstown steel district were at an estimated rate of 34 per cent at midweek, contrasted 36 per cent at the opening of the week. Despite the decline, reports from Youngstown indicate a trend toward more active operations for some of the mills.

Sir Hugo Cunliffe Owen, chairman of the board of the British-American Tobacco Co., here on an inspection of its American interests, said the company's business is maintaining a satisfactory trend, although it has been affected to some extent by the depression.

Reports to Bradstreet's show 577 business defaults for the week ended February 11, which is a decrease of 20.7 per cent from the preceding week's total of 728 failures. All of the business groups recorded decreases.

A reorganization plan for the American Solvents & Chemical Corporation, adopted by the committee headed by Joseph P. Ripley, vice president of the National City Bank, provides for the raising of new cash of $1,650,000 through the sale of certain idle properties and $731,500 to be realized through an offering of 133,000 shares of common stock in the new company.

M. H. Cahill, chairman of the board of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Lines, said today that the road by practicing rigid economy in the last half of 1931, was able to earn its fixed charges and place itself in a favorable position to make a good showing during 1932 if traffic does not fall below that of last year. Trade signs in Oklahoma and Texas indicate a steady and rapid improvement by spring, Mr. Cahill said.

Electric power output for the week ended February 13 was 1,578,817,000 kilowatt hours, a decrease of 6.2 per cent from the corresponding week last year. In the preceding week output showed a decrease of 5.4 per cent from last year. The central industrial region registered a decrease of 9.7 per cent, Chicago district, 8.5 per cent, and Atlantic seaboard, 4.2 per cent.

Eastern railroad executives will discuss the leading problems of the transportation industry at their meeting tomorrow at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Their meeting will precede a session of the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives. Motor truck competition, rate matters and the recapture clause of the transportation act will be among the matters considered by the executives.

The price of stock exchange seats took another jump today, a membership being arranged for sale at $175,000, or $19,000 above the previous sale. Since the end of last week seat values have risen $40,000 and from the low price of the year, they have advanced more than $50,000.

DAILY GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Another substantial decrease in the country's monetary stock of gold resulted from today's transactions in the metal.

The New York Federal Reserve statement showed the following exports: $4,134,600 to Belgium: $130,000 to Switzerland; $100,000 to France, and $50,000 to Holland.

These shipments, plus an increase of $13,370,300 increase in gold under earmark for foreign account, resulted in a decrease in the gold stock of $14,654,630, this remaining after allowing for imports of $3,112,300 from Canada and $118,000 from the Straits Settlements.

Berlin, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank's gold devisen (foreign exchange) coverage on February 15 was further improved .07 per cent to 25.8 per cent, it was announced today.

Contraction of note circulation by 120,900,000 marks (about $29,016,000) and a gold and foreign exchange decrease of 2,218,000 marks (about $531,320) were cited.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Call money steady, 2½ per cent all day. Time loans steady, 60 days, 3½@3¾; 3-6 months, 3½@3¾ per cent.

Prime commercial paper, 3¾@4.

Bankers acceptances unchanged.

Bar silver barely steady and ¼c lower at 30c.

THE Columbus Memorial parade, June 8, 1912, turning into Pennsylvania avenue from Fifteenth street, on their way to the Union Station to unveil the monument to the memory of the discoverer of America, Christopher Columbus.

The memorial at the station is one of the most beautiful in the city, comprising a large monument and fountain and made of pure white marble throughout. The statue was designed by Lorado Taft, cousin of President Taft, who was then in the White House and who delivered the unveiling address. The completed memorial cost $70,000 to construct and it required Taft two years to draw the designs. The Italian Ambassador also spoke and the plaza was packed with the largest throng that ever witnessed an unveiling in Washington.

The above picture shows Battery D, First Battalion, Third Field Artillery from Fort Meyer, Va. On the right is the old Corcoran Building that was torn down in 1917 to make way for the Washington Hotel that now stands on the site. TWO MEN ARRESTED ON CLERK'S CHARGE OF $500 EXTORTION

Detective's Gun Kicked From Hand and Discharges on Hitting Fence.

ONE OF ACCUSED SEIZED AFTER BATTLE IN HOUSE

Grocery Worker Complains at Friend's Suggestion; Afraid at First.

After a brisk struggle in which a headquarters detective's gun was kicked through an open door, discharging after it struck an iron picket fence, two men were arrested yesterday afternoon in connection with the alleged extortion of approximately $500 over a year's duration from a 22-year-old grocery clerk.

The men arrested are John W. Mahoney, 27, who said he is a painter but that he had no address, and Harry Buster Lewis, 27, same occupation of 48 B street southwest.

Detective Sergt. Thomas Nally was kicked on the thigh and knee by one of the men after they had been cornered in the lodging house quarters of their reputed victim, James Slusher, 22. The detective was treated at Emergency Hospital for his injuries after booking the suspects at the Fourth Precinct Station with the aid of Detective Sergt. Howard Ogle, who participated in the arrest.

Afraid to Make Complaint.

Slusher had complained to police after the drain of the purported extortions virtually exhausted his income as a clerk for a chain grocery store. He had been afraid to make complaint at first, he said, because of threats of the men, but did so at the behest of a friend.

The men had nothing on the youth, detectives said they learned, using threats of violence as a lever to force execution of their demands. Slusher had made the acquaintance of one of the men at Twelfth street and New York avenue about a year ago, not long after he came here from Winchester, Va.

Nally and Ogle waited in Slusher's rooms at 313 Eleventh street southwest yesterday until Mahoney and Lewis made their visit. They heard the men come in and demand Slusher's payment. The youth invited them to enter the room where the detectives were. Apparently scenting a trap they rushed into the hallway.

Discharges Against Fence.

In the corridor, Nally stepped forward with gun in hand, while Ogle slipped to the outside to prevent escape. Lewis kicked violently at Nally and the gun went spinning to the fence outside where it discharged. Mahoney slipped by, while Nally grappled with Lewis, who continued to kick and fight. Ogle seized Mahoney outside and Nally finally subdued Lewis.

The men were taken to the line-up at police headquarters last night in the possibility they might be linked in other recent crimes, but were connected with none of them. Police said they would place no charges against the men, pending further investigation.

Motorist Is Indicted For Fatal Accident

An indictment charging Sinclair Bowen Fowler, 38 years old, of 1540 Seventeenth street northwest, with manslaughter, was returned by the District grand jury yesterday.

The indictment charges that Fowler was the driver of an automobile that killed John E. Saunders, 50 years old, a switchman for the Washington Railway & Electric Co. employed at Wisconsin avenue and P street northwest, February 2. Saunders was changing trolleys on street cars when the automobile, pinned him against the side of a street car.

Girl Sues Owner of Car, Charging She Was Hurt

Alice Berkman, a legal minor, through her father, Aaron W. Berkman, 1943 Calvert street northwest, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a suit seeking $10,000 damages from Morris Bressler and his stepson, Frederick Horowitz, 3812 Kansas avenue northwest.

Through Attorneys Jack I. Resnicoff and A. L. Newmyer, Miss Berkman charged that she was a guest in the Bressler car, which was so negligently operated by Horowitz that it struck a pole on Michigan avenue January 1. The suit seeks to hold Bressler responsible because it was his car.

Citizens Fight Anti-Gaming Bill as Drawn

Members of the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association last night spoke out sharply against a provision of an antigambling bill introduced in Congress which would make the holding of a card party at which prizes are distributed a misdemeanor.

The Northeast citizens group also approved a resolution directing the president of the association to take up with the school and other authorities the purported overcrowding of the Crosby S. Noyes School at Tenth and Franklin streets northeast, which was dedicated last September. They said that although the school, a four-room affair, was planned to relieve congestion at the Brookland school, that students are already being transferred to the latter institution.

The association agreed that a delegation should attend hearings on the bill when they come before a congressional committee. Approval of the opposition expressed by Senator King, of Utah, to the card party provision of the bill was voiced at the meeting last night.

POLICEMAN CLEARED OF DRINKING CHARGE

"Irregular" Records Are Hit at Trial of Sorber, Second Precinct Private.

The Police Trial Board yesterday acquitted Pvt. George Sorber, Second Precinct policeman, of a charge of intoxication which grew out of a visit made by him to the Department of Justice during the Federal investigation of the use of third degree methods by District police.

During the trial Inspector O. T. Davis, presiding officer of the Trial Board, criticized the manner in which records were kept at the Second Precinct.

Several instances in which "the cart was put before the horse" in recording police business were cited by Inspector Davis.

Hits Method Used on Records.

Lieut. W. C. Balderson, in charge of the Second Precinct at the time Sorber visited the Justice Department, said that on the day in question the accused officer did not appear to have been drinking. It was during Lieut. Balderson's testimony that Inspector Davis remarked about the manner of keeping the records.

Detective Sergt. Fred Sandberg, fingerprint expert of the Police Department, testified that he saw Sorber on September 10, the day on which the policeman visited the Justice Department.

Sandberg said Sorber did not appear to have been drinking. Several other Second Precinct policemen took the stand in behalf of Sorber.

Acquitted of Assault.

A marking on the record book at the Second Precinct—the letters "B. P."—opposite Sorber's name on the day he was sent to the Department of Justice, drew the ire of Inspector Davis. He said that marking usually indicated a man was detailed to duty at the baseball park.

As a result of the Federal investigation last fall Sorber was indicted by the grand jury on an assault charge. He was later acquitted in the District Supreme Court on this count. The case was among several score others referred to the District Commissioners for their action by Corporation Counsel William Bride, who, at the behest of the Department of Justice, said they were not subject to judicial action.

Several of the latter cases have been set for hearing by the Police Trial Board, beginning on Wednesday of next week.

Girl, 18, Recovering From Dose of Poison

An 18-year-old girl, who gave her name to hospital authorities as Miss Georgia Brown, but who registered at a rooming house at 810 Twelfth street northwest several days ago as Mrs. Richards, was recovering last night from the effects of poison. Police say the girl swallowed the poison at the rooming house.

She collapsed at Twelfth and F streets northwest and was taken to the hospital after receiving first-aid treatment at a drug store.

SIGHTSEEING DRIVER GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Faces 5 to 30 Year Term; Clash of Complainant and Wife Averted.

After a trial lasting five days, Harry Clay Robertson, operator of sightseeing automobiles, was found guilty of a criminal assault charge yesterday afternoon by a jury in Justice F. D. Letts' court in District Supreme Court. Robertson faces a term in prison of from 5 to 30 years, and the jury was empowered by law to recommend capital punishment.

The failure of the jury to so recommend makes the possible maximum sentence 30 years.

A dramatic encounter between Robertson's wife and the complaining witness, Miss Margaret Soblotney, an 18-year-old girl from Uniontown, Pa., was enacted in the corridor of the basement of the courthouse shortly after the verdict. Mrs. Robertson met Miss Soblotney on the way out of the building, and but for timely intervention by policewomen and deputy marshals a physical encounter might have followed.

Assistant United States Attorney Julian Richards, who prosecuted the case, proved to the satisfaction of the jury that Robertson intrigued Miss Soblotney into a large sedan, took her to the outskirts of Anacostia, and there violently assaulted her.

Attorneys John Paul Jones, John B O'Brien and Willard LaRosa, on behalf of Robertson, denied the girl's story and attempted to show that the chief witness had changed her story.

Mrs. Robertson fainted in the courtroom as the jury was filing out to consider the case. Her husband was committed to jail pending an appeal. Probation is not possible for the offense for which he was convicted.

Bicentennial Held Prosperity Source

The George Washington Bicentennial Celebration will do much toward increasing the prosperity of Washington merchants, it was declared yesterday by George W. Offutt, president of the Washington Board of Trade, in an address before a luncheon meeting of the Lion's Club in the Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. Offutt, whose subject was "Why Worry in Washington," pointed out that the Government's extensive building program is also an aid to local business. Business men here, he said, are prospering far more than in any section of the country.

L. W. DeGast, first vice president of the organization, presided at the meeting. It was announced that a district dinner and reception in honor of Julien C. Hyer, international president of the Lions Club, would be held in Frederick, Md., February 23.

MAN HELD ON ARSON CHARGE IS ARRESTED AFTER BOND FORFEIT

Edward Frank, Who Had Jewelry Store Here, Seized in Detroit.

HIS BONDSMAN LEAVES TO PRESS COMPLAINT

Missing Man Is Located by Telephone Call Made to Washington.

Armed with a bench warrant, James Conroy, local bondsman, and an associate, were motoring to Detroit last night, where Edward Frank, 39-year-old Washington jeweler, is being held for District authorities in connection with his indictment for arson here last May and on which charge he "skipped" $5,000 bail last October.

Frank was traced to Detroit through several long distance calls made here Tuesday night. Police here were informed of the calls and telephoned Detroit police, who apprehended the jeweler, whose arson indictment grew out of a five-alarm fire at his shop at 430 Ninth street northwest last April.

Previously Convicted.

Before he could be brought into court on the accusation, the spring term had ended and Frank's trial went over until the fall term. It was found by his bondsmen that he had left town between October 6 and 8.

Before the disastrous blaze in Frank's shop, the jeweler was arrested on a charge of violating the small-loan act. He had been convicted once before. He was free on $500 bond on the latter charge when he was arrested on the arson count. Detectives had found evidences of incendiary operations on two floors of the shop at 430 Ninth street.

Cash Bond Was Seized.

The investigators had also found that Frank had bought the stock of the burned store a few days before for $400. He had then insured it for $500. Then he had obtained $6,000 insurance on stock in two other stores he owned in the same block.

Several weeks after Frank's indictment on the arson charge, internal revenue officials, inquiring into his income tax returns, seized the stock of the other two jewelry stores and a bank account of the jeweler approximating $6,000. They also took over a $2,000 cash bond he had deposited in connection with the arson indictment. He then was arrested and later freed on the $5,000 bond posted by Conroy, a professional bondsman.

Trolley Tubes Held Traffic-Jam Cure

Crosby Tells Transportation Club Banqueters of Downtown Need.

Washington's traffic problem will be solved only by the establishment of subways for street cars in the congested area, Maj. Gen. Herbert L. Crosby, District Commissioner, told members of the Washington Transportation Club at its twenty-sixth annual banquet at the Raleigh hotel last night.

The affair was attended by many guests of prominence, each of whom were called upon for short addresses by Charles H. Bates, the club's president. Among them were former Representative Philip Campbell, F. S. McGinnis, vice president of the Southern Pacific Railroad; Claude R. Porter, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission; Maj. D. A. Davison, Acting Engineer Commissioner of the District; C. C. Moore, Commissioner of the Land Office, and William H. Callahan, of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co.

Songs by the Keystone Quartet of the Pennsylvania Railroad were an entertainment feature. The dinner was arranged by a committee headed by Odell Smith.

Auto Injuries of Child Cause $20,000 Lawsuit

Through her father, Joseph Alper, 721 Emerson street northwest, 5-year-old Helen Alper yesterday filed a suit in the District Supreme Court for $20,000 damages because of injuries she suffered when an automobile owned by Linwood F. Hall, 7019 Georgia avenue northwest, knocked her down.

The suit claims that the child has suffered permanent injuries. She was struck at Illinois avenue and Gallatin street northwest December 20.

JEWS ARE PRAISED BY DR. SIMON FOR PART IN REVOLUTION

Senator Dill Tells of the Life of Washington and Quotes Letter.

BICENTENNIAL THEME PRESENTED IN MUSIC

Parallel Between Lincoln and First President Is Drawn at Meeting.

Participation of the Jews in the Revolutionary War was the topic of Dr. Abram Simon at a meeting of the Brotherhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation last night in the vestry rooms of the Synagogue. Senator Clarence C. Dill, of Washington State, told the brotherhood at their meeting, which inaugurates their celebration of the Bicentennial, of the life and ideals of Washington.

Dr. Simon, telling of the liberal tendencies of Washington in religious worship, said he attended the religious services of all denominations, and that at the first President's inauguration clergymen representing all faiths were present. He quoted a letter written by Washington to the Newport congregation in answer to their congratulations on his election.

Loyalty to Cause of Liberty.

The letter in part read, "May the children of the stock of Abraham who dwell in this land continue to merit and enjoy the good will of the other inhabitants, while every one shall sit in safety under his own vine and fig tree, and there shall be none to make him afraid."

The loyalty of the Jews to the cause of liberty was cited by Dr. Simon, who said, "In the very early days of the Revolution, the Jews rose equal to the responsibility of the great struggle. There were no Tories among them. Rabbi Gershom Mendez Seixas, who established his congregation in New York in 1672, fled the city when the British entered rather than hoist their flag above his synagogue."

Parallel Is Drawn.

Senator Dill lauded the liberal affiliations of Washington, and drew a parallel between him and Lincoln. He said he did not know or care whether the story of Washington and the cherry tree was true or not, and said that the facts of the story were immaterial, but that it embodied the expression of truthfulness that was held up as an example to the youth of America.

Irving Diener presided, and vocal and instrumental music in harmony with the Bicentennial theme was presented.

Bids Asked for Building City Postoffice Annex

The Treasury Department yesterday advertised for bids for construction of the new annex to the city postoffice, proposals to be opened on March 29.

Congress has set a limit of cost on the new building at $4,000,000. The contractor will have approximately two years after the opening of bids to complete the job. The annex will be located on the north side of the present main building and will be connected with it.

Downtown Parking Rules Are Scored

Chevy Chase Citizens Say Beauty Is Theory and Not Convenience.

Several members of the Chevy Chase Citizens Association last night asserted that parking regulations in the downtown area are developed more along the theory of beautification than for the convenience of vehicle owners. The matter was referred to a committee by the group, which met at the E. V. Brown School, and it was decided to discuss the matter more fully at the next gathering.

A resolution was passed expressing to the Federation of Citizens Associations the view that no proposed zoning regulation which has been rejected by a citizens' association could be acted on for three years thereafter by the zoning commission. It was said that sometimes such tentative regulations have been passed during the summer, when citizens' groups are not active.

The belief that Congress should not increase District taxes or else provide some benefits to accrue from a tax raise was expressed in another resolution. A resolution approving the proposed "safety responsibility" bill introduced in Congress also was passed.

Two More Monsters Added To List of Prehistoric Era

Bones of Hitherto Unknown Members of Great Dinosaur Family Are Unearthed by Smithsonian Institution Expedition in Montana.

Two hitherto unknown prehistoric monsters, members of the great dinosaur family, who wallowed in the semitropical swamps of northern Montana over 75,000,000 years ago, have just been described from a collection of fossil bones gathered by a Smithsonian Institution expedition.

Palaeoscincus rugosidens, the scientific name applied to one of the extinct reptiles, belonged to the armored dinosaur group, and at the tip of its 5-foot tail carried a bone-like mass weighing 50 pounds. According to the expedition group, the mass might have been used as a weapon, with which to protect the rear from enemy attack, or perhaps to brush aside the huge mosquitoes of an earlier day.

Study of the other bones of the beast shows, according to Dr. Charles W. Gilmore, curator of vertebrate paleontology, that the tail extremity could not have been used for such a purpose. It was so heavy that the animal could hardly have lifted the tail even with an extreme effort. The huge ball must have been dragged along the ground much as a convict drags heavy steel ball manacles. Investigators state that the reptile might have become stuck in the mud by his heavy appendage, and unable to work free remained for the institution to unearth him after ages of waiting.

The other animal, Dr. Gilmore says, had a thick bone plate protection to a 1 ton mass of slow moving body, and a six-horn skull with the name of styracosaurus ovatus, constitute its claim to the hall of fame.

Specimens of closely related species show that this great creature probably had, in proportion to its weight, the smallest brain of any animal that ever lived on land. The enormous skull, 6 feet long, contains a space for nervous tissue only about the size of a man's fist.

To imagine a Texas horned toad magnified 100 times, Dr. Gilmore says, would perhaps present a picture of the elephantine monsters that trampled the foliage laden mud of Montana in the days of the great dinosaurs. Formidable and ferocious as the animals appear, their food consisted of plants and vegetable matter.

REALTY "BLUE SKY" BILL BEFORE HOUSE

LaGuardia Would Bar Use of Mails Unless Value Was Sworn To.

A national real estate "blue sky" bill, based partly on facts uncovered by the Senate District committee in its investigation of real estate practices here, was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York.

The LaGuardia bill takes a leaf from the old law denying to lotteries the use of the mails. Realty operators would not be allowed to advertise through the mails unless the owner of property stated its valuation under oath, together with all superior liens.

Issuing brokers and investment houses would have to guarantee payment, both principal and interest, of the real estate security, and secure surety bond to the extent of 25 per cent.

The Senate District committee's investigation "showed growth over valuation and bleeding of investors in real estate securities in the shadow of the United States Capitol," Representative LaGuardia said yesterday.

"Some of these culprits have been indicted, tried and convicted. However, the placing of these culprits in a penitentiary does not restore to the widows, orphans or other investors the money which they trusted to these convicts. The same general situation exists in many other sections of the country."

Already pending in both Houses are three local "blue sky" measures, put forward by Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin; Representative Adolph J. Sabath (Democrat), Illinois; and Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia.

Fess to Occupy Jewish Pulpit Tomorrow Night

The presence of Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, tomorrow night in the pulpit of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, of which Dr. Simon is the rabbi, has been announced. This is declared evidence, not only of the breadth of views of the congregation but also of the great importance which the congregation attaches to the Washington Bicentennial.

A service of music and high devotion will be conducted, beginning at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to participate in this service and to hear the senator, who will speak on "Washington, the Expander of Popular Government Among Men."

Plan for Southwest Suggested by Eliot

Citizens Hear Proposal for Areas for Residences and Shipping.

Ways through which the Southwest of Washington could be developed as a residential section were discussed by Charles W. Eliot 2d, director of planning for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, at a meeting last night of the Southwest Washington Citizens Association at the Fairbrother School.

Mr. Eliot suggested that Buzzards Point be devoted to docks, with a group of authorities in control, and that the rest of the Southwest section be developed residentially.

The association indorsed the old-age allowance bill introduced in the House by Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey. Mrs. Norton described the bill to the association.

She and Mr. Eliot were introduced by Jacob M. Schaffer, president of the association, who presided. The resolution indorsing the bill was offered by Mrs. Walter Ufford.

HOSPITAL 'NEGLECT' QUIZ TO OPEN TODAY

Emergency Authorities to Be Questioned on Sisk and Podell Cases.

Emergency Hospital authorities will be called on to explain two charges of neglect against hospital internes, when the public health, hospitals and charities District subcommittee opens investigation of the Sisk and Podell cases at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, chairman, determined late yesterday to link the cases in a joint inquiry. Hearings will be public, Dr. Copeland said.

Samuel Podell, 45, was stricken Sunday night at his home, 909 Decatur street northwest. Emergency Hospital was summoned. Podell complained the ambulance was late. The attending interne, Dr. Charles Bastable, departed in a huff without treating the man, according to police, who later removed him to Emergency.

Joseph Sisk, 24-year-old Baltimore newspaperman, was injured in an automobile accident January 29. Removed to Emergency in a Sixth Precinct patrol, he was pronounced drunk. On removal to Gallinger Hospital, he was found to have a fractured pelvis, punctured lung and other serious injuries. Friends denied he was drunk.

B. B. Sandidge, superintendent of Emergency Hospital, and Dr. Edgar C. Bocock, superintendent of Gallinger, will testify at today's hearings. Dr. Copeland asked Mr. Sandidge to have present the internes on duty in both cases. Members of the hospital board responsible for appointment of its internes, also were requested to attend.

Dr. Bastable was suspended from duty pending outcome of the Podell inquiry, but Dr. Saul Schwartzbach, who pronounced Sisk intoxicated, was exonerated by hospital authorities.

Carrying Deadly Weapon And Assault Net 2 Terms

Two sentences, one of 240 days and another of 360 days, were given Irving Armiger, 25 years old, of Baltimore, Md., when he was convicted in Police Court yesterday of assault and carrying a deadly weapon.

Ruth Howe, of 1106 L street northwest, testified that Armiger shot at her twice, and when Policeman E. E. O'Brien, of the Second Precinct, responded to an emergency call, the man is said to have pointed the gun at him.

Ad Club to Hear Talk On Scientific Selling

Franc D. Mayer, of Chicago, president of the Merchandise Institute of America, will speak on "Scientific Selling—the Answer to Depression," at a luncheon meeting of the Washington Advertising Club at 12:30 o'clock today at Raleigh Hotel.

Mr. Mayer is expected to present both the negative and positive aspects of scientific merchandising and selling. He is said to prove his points by living examples and shows how apparent limitations have been overcome.

Battalion Chief Honor Is Sought for Bargagni

The honorary title of battalion chief for Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, of the District Fire Department, was requested last night by the Petworth Citizens Association at a meeting held in the Barnard School, Fifth and Decatur streets northwest.

Opposition was expressed to a bill now before the Senate increasing the powers of the District Commissioners. The organization also protested a bill in Congress which would provide for an increase in pensions for the widows of policemen and firemen.

BISHOP M'DOWELL SHOWS DIFFICULTY OF CHURCH REUNION

ZEAL AND CONVICTION CAUSED SEPARATIONS

Lecture Inaugurates New Series at American University.

Discussing the great difference between the simple form of early Christianity and the diversified groups of Catholic and Protestant churches of today, Bishop William Fraser McDowell, senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, last night frankly met criticism concerning church "divisions" and took up seriously the problem of reunion.

In a lecture on the nature of the church, inaugurating a new series of American University lectures on human institutions, at the graduate school, Bishop McDowell explained the development out of early Christianity into the modern situation, but defended it, declaring: "There is a reason, ecclesiastical or otherwise, for every bit of the elaborate ritual, ceremonial, vestments and ordinals in the modern church.

Conviction Behind Changes.

"Under all its various forms and usages, with all its differences and confusions, it is still at the heart and in the innermost soul of it, His church."

"Let us not forget," he said, "that there has been an element of religious zeal and conviction behind nearly every difference that has arisen, zeal and conviciton which seemed vital to the Christian life of those who put out a separate branch. We shall not get very far on the way to reunion unless we appreciate that fact. Many of the separations both in policy and in doctrine seem to many to have had no sufficient basis in sound reason.

"Indeed, making merry about our Christian divisions is a favorite indoor sport with much real occasion on the surface for merriment. I do not deny that a sense of denominational humor might be useful if each denomination directed its humor toward its own foibles rather than toward its neighbors.

Difficulties of Problem.

"Perhaps no one subject is discussed more freely or more superficially than the subject of church union. The easy, glib talk about getting together, of which one hears so much, reveals an utter lack of understanding both of the condition that exists and the meaning of union. The philosophy of unions on one hand and the obstacles to it on the other are not subjects for easy and cavalier treatment."

Discussing in detail the Stockholm conference on life and work of the church and the Lausanne conference on faith and order, Bishop McDowell laid down what he considers a set of principles on which a true reunion of the churches could be based.

Merchant Held Up And Robbed of $20

Haberdasher Also Beaten by Store Intruders at Rush Hour.

Three Negro bandits held up Moses Reichgut, elderly proprietor of a haberdashery at 1916 Fourteenth street northwest late yesterday afternoon during the rush hour, relieving him of about $20 and striking him in the face twice.

Reichgut told police the men came in his store and without preliminaries, pointed a gun at him and demanded the contents of his cash register. After he had complied the men forced him into a closet in the rear of the establishment and one of them struck him twice, inflicting face bruises and lacerations.

The haberdasher said he remained slightly dazed in the closet for a moment and then dashed to a nearby store and phoned police. A description of the men was broadcast. Reichgut lives at 1300 Spring road northwest.

Woman Idenitfies Man As Pocketbook Robber

Identified in Police Court by Mrs. Elizabeth McQueen, 930 M street northwest, as the man who snatched her pocketbook at Ninth and R streets northwest Saturday night, Lewis Cooper, colored, 37 years old, was ordered held for the action of the grand jury in $5,000 bond yesterday.

Mrs. McQueen said that she pursued the man until she fell. Cooper was arrested several hours later and was identified by Mrs. McQueen.

Four Apartments Looted by Robbers

Jewelry Worth Several Hundred Dollars and Revolver Taken.

Four apartment suites in two apartment houses in fashionable Cleveland Park yesterday were visited by a jimmy thief who escaped with several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry and a small pearl-handled revolver.

At 3020 Tilden street the apartments of William T. Corbin and Oliver E. Pagan were robbed of $145 and $280 worth of jewelry, respectively. The revolver was taken from Mr. Pagan's apartment.

At 3016 Tilden street the apartment of Lester M. Culler was robbed of $90 in jewelry. Entrance was gained from Culler's apartment to that of James F. Colbreath through a dumb waiter. The loss in the Colbreath apartment could not be estimated because Colbreath is out of the city. Robbery of his suite was discovered by Eighth Precinct police investigating the Culler robbery.

District Commissioners Act For Preservation of Circus

The District Commissioners yesterday took steps to preserve "the circus as a clean and ancient amusement" in compliance with a petition of the Circus Fans Association, an organization of 600 business men located in various parts of the United States.

Action consisted of a modification of the limits imposed on circuses in the selection of sites in the District and is the result of conferences between police officials and representatives of the James E. Cooper Top, which is the local chapter of the Circus Fans Association.

Under the amended police regulation consent for the use of a vacant lot within the fire limits for a circus site is limited to a radius of 300 feet with three-fourths of the residents agreeable. The site within the fire limits must also be located within a park, field or inclosure containing not less than two acres.

Probably to protect themselves from a repetition of last year's experience of taking care of a stranded wild west show, the regulations state: "No such circus, carnival or rodeo shall operate in the District for a longer period than ten days in any one year."

Girl Cleared of Gun Charge.

The grand jury yesterday exonerated Vivian H. Peper of the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on Robert L. Mosely February 6. In a Police Court hearing there was testimony that the girl fired through a door, on the other side of which Peper was standing. The grand jury decided that there was no basis for charges against the girl and the request for an indictment was ignored.

Masque Director to Lead Program Sunday Morning

Dr. Albert W. Harned, director of the chorus, which will take part in the production of the masque "Wakefield" to be given in Constitution Hall next Sunday evening under the auspices of the United States and District of Columbia Bicentennial Commissions, has also arranged for a special program of music at the Universalist National Memorial Church for next Sunday morning.

Dr. Harned is director of the National Capital Choir, associated with this church. In connection with the services next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the minister, the Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, will preach a sermon on the George Washington bicentennial.

Organ prelude—Overture to the Messiah, Handel, 1685-1759.

Choral processional — "National Hymn," words by Dr. D. P. Roberts, 1876; music by George W Warren, for World's Fair, Chicago, 1892.

Anthem—"The Heavens are Telling the Glory of God."

Offertory anthem—"And God Created Man."

Chorus—Achieved Is the Glorious Work; from the Creation, Haydn, 1732-1809.

Organ intermezzo—Andante From Second Organ Concerto, J. S. Bach, 1685-1750.

Presentation—Old "Doxology," from Old Genevan Psalter.

Congregational hymn — "America," adapted by Corey from American Symphony, Bloc.

Choral recessional—"Not Alone for Mighty Empire," Haydn.
